AN UNBEATABLE COMBINATION

Like making the perfect answer at the perfect time—instead of realizing later (too late) what you should have said—that's the ability to know the correct thing at the correct time.

It's WHAT to do WHEN that counts

If you learn too late that you passed up an opportunity, or didn't press for results when you could have had them, you're merely the poorer through ignorance. If you're presented with an opportunity you recognize as such, but take the wrong time to act on it, you will again be the poorer—again through ignorance.

What You Get:

In YOUR FORECAST SERVICE with DAILY INDEX by Wynn you will be told, in non-technical language exactly what influences you can use EACH DAY. It will be based on your planets—all nine of them and all the transiting planets, giving you your strong and weak vibrations concerning mental and business matters, relations with superiors, emotion and affectional concerns, your active and sometimes dangerous times, your expansive, profitable, optimistic periods, your testing and challenging days, when sudden and novel items are favorable or otherwise, and when to follow up your inspirations. Just think what possession of this valuable information will mean to you!

And if you know the time is ripe to do something, but don't know what it is that you should do

Find out!

Astrology can give you both answers.

For only two cents a day (the price of Wynn's 18-month Forecast for you alone) your coming right times and right acts can be known by you in advance.

It's mighty comfortable to be in tune with what Nature wants you to be doing when Nature wants you to be doing it.

World Changes Coming!

The profound influences which we may expect from Neptune in Libra till 1956

by Manly P. Hall

In the summer of 1929 the planet Neptune entered the sign Virgo where it has remained until the present time. From the key-words of Neptune we realize that this planet is forever challenging the fundamental integrity of mankind. The department of life through which this challenge comes is signified by the sign of the Zodiac through which Neptune is transiting.

In its positive aspects Neptune exerts a kind of divine energy. When this force is interpreted through the sensitive psychological mind of the human personality, it inspires toward reform, regeneration, illumination, the development of mystical perceptions and the contemplation of universal truths.

Unfortunately, most mortal creatures are unable to realize through themselves the positive Neptunian qualities. A basically selfish creation only partly evolved and without having more than a shallow appreciation of great spiritual values is incapable of interpreting through constructive action the subtle vibrations of the Neptunian sphere. Nor can we hope that this state of things can be immediately altered. Only evolutionary processes requiring great periods of time can release the divine in man from bondage to the instincts and appetites of the animal soul.

Neptune, negative, is, therefore, far more familiar to us in the processes of daily living than Neptune positive. Under the negative Neptunian vibrations manifest as a complex pattern of ulterior motives. Misuse, abuse, perversion and falsification are negative forces forever stirring up strife in the world. Neptune, the peculiar ruler of occult and obscure energies and motives, therefore most frequently manifests through "plots, stratagems and spoils."

But it should not be supposed that even the negative forces of nature are without basically constructive consequences. All vices and excesses finally bring about their own undoing. Evil is eternally destroying itself. The human consciousness develops by processes of trial and error. The mind comes at last through long and wrong doing to the realization of its own vices.

Neptune functioning through the sign Virgo released its positive and negative energies in the sphere of employment. The wars of capital and labor, which Virgo as a power rules, show this.

Sixty centuries ago the ancient Babylonians wrote on tablets of clay that the sign Virgo had domination over those who labor. It requires only a little thought from us to realize that the period from 1929 to 1942 has been the most critical labor crisis in the history of the civilized world.

Depressions, bank-failures, unemployment, strikes, conflicts between labor unions, as well as employer and employee in special battles over hours and overtime, tell us this. Whole nations in Europe reduced to a state of slavery emphasize it. These are the evils resulting from the transit of Neptune into the sign of the working man.

A survey of the past thirteen years offers a thought provoking picture. It can be clearly seen in the occurrences which have taken place how much contention, misrepresentation and crime have gone on. But although some progress has been made in solutions to these problems which confront the country, much mutual improvement for both the worker and employer still needs to be achieved. The present world crisis is a battle of conflicting ideologies raised to the present intensity of war, as Neptune entered the last critical degrees of the sign Virgo. From 1942 to 1957 Neptune will transit the sign Libra.

The sign Libra has several important keywords. It is characterized as the sign with the basic capacity for Justice. Its symbol is the Balance, or scales, in which all things are weighed. In this aspect Libra represents the international law used in most patterns of government and social system in their humane aspects. In the field of human rights Libra is the sign of equity, equality and the large frame of social relationships which the whole of civilization upholds.

WORLD CHANGES COMING

It is not difficult to foresee how the present war is preparing the way for the reorganization of the entire human viewpoint. It is obvious to any thoughtful persons that many drastic changes must come about in the attitudes of people if the right course out of our present disasters is to be charted. International law must in part be rewritten from a standpoint of great idealism, and the understanding of primary human needs.

All changes result in temporary confusion. The mind established in patterns resists the breaking up of those patterns, preferring present discomforts to the hazardous adventure of innovation. Society consists of two fundamental extremes, one conservative and the other progressive. Both seem to be at fault to some degree. The conservative forever looks backward, the progressive toward an unborn tomorrow. This is an example of the teetering scales which are forever out of balance until man is capable of equilibrium within himself.

The conservative faction dominated by over-prudence is forever engaged in a losing fight. In nature nothing stands still. Existence is an eternal flowing, and in this pattern nothing is actually static. The progressive, on the other hand, is frequently possessed by an extreme enthusiasm which would accomplish results more rapidly than the pace of nature will permit. Somewhere between the two extremes of yesterday and tomorrow—the victims of them both—is today crucified between two thieves.

The problem with which Libra presents us is a challenge in positive adjustment and relationships. Lord Bacon once observed that knowledge arises from three sources: observation, experimentation and tradition. When these three unite, the result is a reasonable understanding of the subject.

Tradition, of course, is the past, observation is the present, and experimentation is the future. If these be brought to balance, the present security of the state and its peoples can be assured. If any part of the pattern be left out or imperfect, there will be discord in the elements of this compound. When nothing is lacking security must follow inevitably.

In mundane astrology the various signs have special rulership over nations and continents, and the transit of a major planet through a sign brings special emphasis to the affairs and places under the domination of the sign. Libra, according to most astrological writers, rules Japan, and that great zone of the Earth's surface between 150 and 180 degrees of eastern longitude. The transit of Neptune may, therefore, be expected to bring with it numerous changes in the governments and living conditions of the nations in this area.

We are already beginning to see a new theatre of world affairs being set up in the Western Pacific. Japan's dream of world power and the peculiar egocentricness of these people is truly a matter of longitude and latitude. It has long been recognized that psychology is closely related to body chemistry. The mineral content of food can profoundly affect the moral temper. The Earth's surface is a great magnetic field, and there is a peculiar sympathy between the constellational complexes and certain areas of the planet's surface.

It has been observed that persons born under the sign Libra have marked dictatorial tendencies. Of course, the majority of Librans have a restricted area of influence and their dream of empire is confined usually to friends, relatives and neighbors. Nevertheless, as Pythagoras might say, the difference between the world dictator and the parlor autocrat is one of magnitude and not one of quality. It does not necessarily hold that all who possess executive ability are potentially tyrants and a great part of despotism is a matter of viewpoint. The dictator is a hero and a patriot to his own and a menace and a villain to those whom he opposes. The Libra type of mind is on the offensive more than on the defensive, however. It has a tendency to dream up huge schemes and then proceed resolutely to the achievement of that which has been envisioned.

Napoleon had Libra ascending in his nativity and so has Adolf Hitler. Both of these men resolved to tear down the world and then build it up again closer to their hearts' desire. There is a curious astrological relationship between time and place. There are zones of the Earth's surface which correspond in locational vibrations with the various hours of the day. Japan is located in a zone of ambition. The very chemicals in its soil are impregnated with the will-to-power. The phenomenon of Japan has long amazed the world. Since the Russian-Japanese war the traits of this people should have been a subject of profound study. Here again we recognize the misfortune of excluding astro-physics from the council table of the nations.

Any competent mundane astrologer could have pointed out the Western Pacific area as a great zone of tension. More than this, the astrologer might have suggested a remedy. Now, alas, it is too late to correct the causes which brought about the present crisis.

The night before his death General Wolfe quoted an immortal line which sums up the completely rounded pattern of temporal power:

"The path of glory leads but to the grave."

All dictatorships came to the same end: the destruction of the dictator. It is not part of the universal plan that little men should rise to high estate. The transit of Neptune through Libra will also certainly bring about a terrible retribution to the agents of the present Pacific war.

Neptune destroys with strange, obscure and insidious means. Whenever it strikes it is the instrument of a curious fatality. Structures disintegrate within themselves and against this internal energy mortal schemes prove futile.

There is a great change coming in Asia. The pattern of the Orient is being reformed at an incredible rate of speed. But when Asia emerges from its long sleep Japan will not dictate its policies.

The transit of Neptune is likely to destroy the last great feudal power of the East. There are great revolutions ahead for Nippon. The great sociological motions are away from the divine rights of princes and toward the divine rights of man. By the end of 1942 we shall probably begin to see the rising tide of dissatisfaction in Japan. It is the people and not the rulers who must fight wars and pay for them, and the people of the world, whether they are in the east or in the west, are awakening to the realization of the dignity and significance of their own state. Temporal ambition is a kind of madness and whom the gods would destroy they first make mad.

As some nations and races come under the astrological influence of their geodetic zones, so others derive their rulership from the time in which they came into existence as sovereign states. Research for centuries has shown that every pattern set up by natural or artificial means is ruled by some pattern or arrangement of the stars.

For example, it has been known for centuries that the last degrees of Virgo were the peculiar rulers of the city of Paris. Twenty years ago astrologers were asking the question what will happen when Neptune reaches the last degrees of Virgo. Neptune reached the 25th degree of Virgo in 1940 and remained in the closing degrees of the sign until October, 1942. We all know what has happened to Paris, not only politically but sociologically: the proudest city in Europe reduced to abject humility. We can well imagine what it means to a Frenchman to address a letter to Paris, Germany!

Yet the fall of Paris and the fall of France—these disasters were not the result of cowardice—they had their origin in a planned program of psychological demoralization. They resulted from treason, sabotage and incredible corruption which destroyed the strength of a great people. This reveals the working of Neptune when it strikes the ruler of some mundane political structure. From this analogy we may derive some inference as to what is likely to occur at Tokyo.

Let us read a few of the parts of the world which are particularly responsive to the vibrations of Libra and which will, therefore, feel with the greatest intensity the transit of Neptune through this sign. Remember these parts of the world were not ascribed arbitrarily to the influence of this sign. The list has been compiled from the independent researches of students of astrology over a period of centuries.

"The sign Libra rules Australia, Burma, North China, parts of India, Indo-China, Thibet, Upper Egypt, the Argentine and Japan."

In December, 1941, Neptune touched Libra for the first time. In December, 1941, Japan attacked Pearl Harbor. In the months immediately following, the great eastern complex of nations felt the full force of Japan's military program. It is too much to believe that these things are coincidence.

WORLD CHANGES COMING

In the natural order of the Zodiacal signs, Libra corresponds with the seventh house and, therefore, the transit of Neptune through Libra emphasizes the affairs of the seventh house. According to mundane astrology, the seventh house is the signifier of international relations, the arbitrator of international differences, war in particular, foreign trade and the social and political state of woman. It is easy to see merely from a consideration of modern trends that unusual emphasis may be expected in all these departments.

The Neptunian ray is disruptive of conventional patterns; it changes and disintegrates forms, standards and traditions. Yet out of the chaos brought about by the shattering of forms a nobler and more permanent pattern is certain to emerge. A considerable part of man's self-inflicted misery results from his inability to adjust quickly and easily to impulses of change. To survive the Neptunian vibration it is necessary to retain a mental flexibility under stress. The philosopher realizes that the universe is in constant motion through several space dimensions simultaneously. Not only are the suns and their planets moving at an incredible rate of speed about the great cosmic centers, but all forms are moving outward through themselves by a process which philosophy calls ideation.

Ideation may be defined as qualitative evolution, a motion through qualities always toward release from limitation to the error of inadequacies.

Neptune is the vibratory instrument through which a part of this qualitative evolution is taking place. Sociologically speaking qualitative evolution is called progress and progress is the motion of phenomenal bodies toward the fact of themselves.

Let us consider then the implications of Neptune transiting the seventh house sign. We may expect an entirely new pattern of international relations. Either this pattern must be adequate or a great sociological collapse is inevitable. Vice-President Wallace has suggested a new pattern of world government based on the complete release of all nations, great and small, from monopolistic policies which have been the old patterns. He advocates the ending of all colonial empires and a world consciousness which accepts the right of all states, great and small, to the guarantee of the protection of their borders and boundaries against the encroachments of any factors, political, military or economic. This is a Neptunian challenge and it comes from a native of Libra. We must rise to this new standard of thinking or suffer the consequences of our own inadequacies. Neptune does not afflict. It challenges. Those who fail to accept its constructive challenge afflict themselves.

International arbitration must be based upon fundamental international integrity. As long as ulterior motives are present in the councils of nations, so long all hopes of world peace and all dreams of understanding between nations will come to nothing.

In the matter of war Neptune creates wars of ideologies, not of strict national boundaries. We are witnessing this at the present time. This is not a conflict of nations basically but of social patterns, a war to determine the quality of living rather than mere physical enslavements of people. Here again is a challenge, a conflict between values as great abstract forces and ambition as a great material impulse.

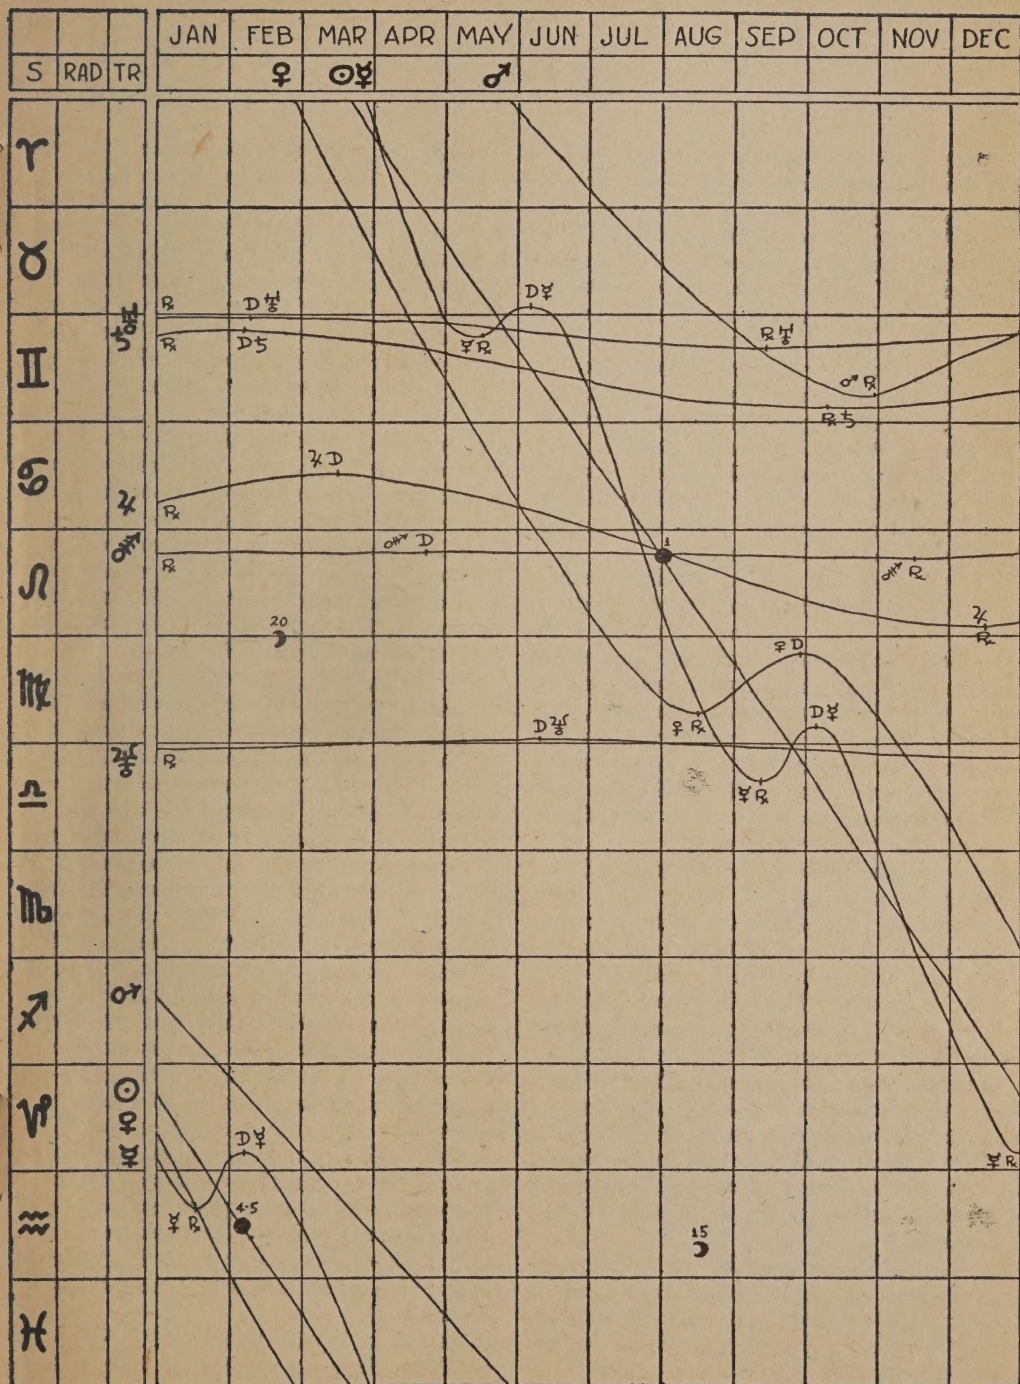

Foreign trade will also be subject to special emphasis and the emphasis will be toward ethical rather than political rules of conduct. It once was that a man's word was as good as his bond. Today the bond is no good. Under the Neptunian impulses we must learn that agreements, pacts, treaties and all the ponderous mechanisms of legislative honesty are of little use. Integrity is a growth along lines of moral conduct. It must emerge through the consciousness of a people. It can never be imposed upon them.

Neptune's and Virgo's trends have emphasized the problems of labor and the class (or caste) system in industry. In Libra Neptune directs its attention to the great problem of the sociological, economic and cultural life of woman. Already we see the effect of the war on the home, on the economic status of woman. In Russia women are fighting in the army side by side with the men. We need not expect that after the termination of hostilities the old, domestic patterns will be re-established. The entire state of woman is changing, and a great part of this change will take place during the years when Neptune is transiting Libra.

Moves Timed by Astrology

by Wynn

Keep a diary in which you enter the exact times when important things happen every day, including the moments when your own ideas take form in your mind, and when you suddenly arrive at decisions concerning matters that have been in the balance or puzzling you. You may or may not at present be an astrology student, but if or when you are, this method will prove very valuable material.

It will be valuable to you in estimating what future astrological influences will mean to you; it will assist you in choosing the times for important appointments, or starting new lines of endeavor; and it will help to make your advice to others more concise and profitable to all concerned.

(The analytical method for interpreting the moment, whether important or otherwise, will be given later in this article. It is founded on the positions of your natal planets in the horary horoscope of the time at the place. Planets at angles—1st, 10th, 7th and 4th—are powerful, with or without the positions and aspects of the transiting planets at the time. Also significant are positions in characteristic houses, such as the 8th for death, 12th for secret matters, et cetera. The basis of this method was given by Evangeline Adams many years ago.)

Here are some examples of famous moments that illustrate how the astrology of this method is present in everything we do.

At Washington, D. C., December 11, 1941, 3:05 pm EST, President Roosevelt signed the Declarations of War against Germany and Italy. At that moment, his natal Venus, Part of Fortune, Sun and Mercury were all in the midheaven, and his Neptune, ruler of his war house (7th), as well as his benefic Jupiter, were rising at the ascendant, the house of action, of the horoscope of that moment.

That is indeed a wealth of testimony—five planets angular in the two most important houses of the chart—but in addition they were all influences promising success to the venture!

At Berlin, Germany, that same day, December 11, 1941, 2:02 pm LMT, Germany declared war on the United States. At that moment in Berlin, Hitler's Mars and Venus were rising at the ascendant point. Mars is the planet of aggressive war; Mars rules the war house (7th) of Hitler; Venus is Hitler's life ruler; and both Mars and Venus are occupants of Hitler's natal war 7th! What could be more significant? The ascendant is the most personal point of any horoscope, and his most typical and most powerfully influencing planets were right there! And, in addition, his Neptune-Pluto conjunction was not far behind—also in the ascendant (1st house). These two planets are from his house of death, and if ever a man signed his own death warrant it was Hitler when he directed his puppets in the Reichstag to declare war against the U. S. A.

At Tokyo, Japan, December 8, 1941, 6:19 am LMT (before sunrise), Japan declared war against the United States and England. At that moment and place, Emperor Hirohito's natal Moon was at the exact midheaven, indicating astrologically the fate of millions of his subjects (Moon rules the common people), for in the horoscope of Hirohito the Moon rules the house of death—and in the chart for that moment the Moon also ruled the house of death (8th); and the transiting Moon of the time was in the house of death! In the house of war of that moment were the Emperor's natal Pluto and Neptune, both from his natal house of war (7th), accurately characterizing the act then committed in his name. In the ascendant of that declaration horoscope was Hirohito's natal Uranus, the planet of sudden and unheralded actions, like the attack on Pearl Harbor which had taken place less than three hours before. (It should be remembered that it was December 7th at Pearl Harbor and in the U. S. when it was that early in Japan on the 8th.)

At Tokyo, Japan, December 8, 1941, 3:24 am LMT, the exact moment in Tokyo when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, Emperor Hirohito's natal Sun was at the war cusp (7th) and his natal Mars (planet of aggression which is in his natal house of death!) was in the midheaven of the moment, revealing it as the planned result of governmental (10th, or midheaven, house) action.

At Pearl Harbor, December 7, 1941, 7:34 am LMT, when the Japanese first struck their unannounced blows, Emperor Hirohito's sudden and unexpected Uranus was in the secretive and treacherous 12th and his aggressive Mars was in the house of death (8th)! The midheaven at Pearl Harbor at that moment was identical with Hirohito's midheaven at birth; and the same zodiacal signs were on the 1st (ascendant) and 7th (war cusp) in both the horoscope of the moment and the horoscope of the Japanese Emperor's birth. Neptune, planet of secretive methods when negatively applied, was in Hirohito's war 7th at birth and exactly on the war 7th cusp of Pearl Harbor at that moment.

Lest the uninformed reader underestimate the great significance of the foregoing facts, it should be mentioned that none of these exactly explicatory and characteristic positions could be found as long as three hours before or after the events; nor could all of them be found 30 minutes before or after the events. These are stunning facts with which to confront and dismay any who would belittle the scientific precision of the planetary, zodiacal and mundane house influences on human psychology and events. The dates, times and places are of historical record; the horoscopes of those mentioned have been published for many years; the planetary positions are attested to by the most accurate of astronomical observations, and they fit like the skin on an apple.

Another extremely important world event:

At Berlin, Germany, January 30, 1933, 4:36 pm LMT, Hitler received the Chancellorship (see chart of this moment, titled "Nazi Power", on page 5 of the June, 1942, issue of this magazine). You will find the horoscope of Hitler on page 9 of the August, 1942, issue of this magazine. Put them together and you will see that Hitler's Mercury, 7th war cusp, Sun, Mars and Venus are all in the governmental midheaven of that moment! And you will also see that his natal governmental midheaven, plus his Saturn which is in it at his birth, both fall at the personal ascendant of the horoscope of that moment when the Nazi Party first grasped the power it has held ever since.

Of added import in that horoscope of Nazi Power was the fact that President Roosevelt's natal Sun was exactly on the war 7th at the moment when Hitler wrested the German government from the tottering Hindenburg. The war 7th has traditionally described the opponent or opposition, and in this case produces the most important celestial body (Sun) of the most powerful man in high office whom Hitler never fooled and who will prove to be his ultimate stumbling block.

In the Tokyo declaration of war against the U. S., December 8, 1941, mentioned in the foregoing, the war 7th cusp of the figure was Gemini 6°22'; the war 7th of the U.S.A. (July 4, 1776—see issue of January, 1941) is Gemini 6°20'. The same degree and practically the same minute!

The first declaration of war in World War I was by Germany against Russia; and occurred at Berlin at 7:00 pm, July 31, 1914, at which moment and place the war 7th cusp of Emperor Wilhelm II was the degree rising at the ascendant! Wilhelm's natal Moon was in the degree of the midheaven, ruling the war 7th of the horoscope of declaration. Saturn, showing eventual defeat, ruler of Wilhelm's natal war 7th, was in the war 7th of the moment, ruling the ascendant of that figure. (Data of declaration obtained from ENCYCLOPEDIA OF WORLD HISTORY, page 770.)

These illustrations of celestial correspondence can be multiplied a millionfold by public events already recorded and beyond change or recall. Every astrologer has voluminous data which will yield similar evidence in both public and private affairs.

Taken from the personal viewpoint, we have an interesting demonstration in the case of Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, U. S. Commanding General of the European Theatre of War. He was born October 14, 1890. His record shows frequent repetitions of similar events on nearly the same dates in different years. As we all know, the 7th is the house of open relationships, positive or negative, which includes both war and marriage in this angle of the horoscope. Here are some of the events of Gen. Eisenhower's life that occurred during the last week of June and the first week of July:

MOVES TIMED BY ASTROLOGY

July 1, 1916—married.

June 30, 1920—made Captain, after temporary war promotions of higher rank.

July 2, 1920—promoted to Major.

June 30, 1928—graduated from War College.

July 1, 1936—promoted to Lt. Col.

June 24, 1941—promoted to Chief of Staff, Third Army.

June 25, 1942—promoted to Major Gen., in command of European Theatre.

July 7, 1942—promoted to Lt. Gen.

This might seem like a series of "coincidences" to anyone outside of astrological work—so many facts are "coincidences" to those who are not cognizant of the laws that produce them. But reference to a table of houses shows that at approximately 40° north the natal Mars of the General, ruling his Equilibrium 7th, is rising at the ascendant, and his natal Moon, ruling his Equilibrium 10th (honors, promotions, occupation), is at the 10th at that season of the year when the transiting Sun is at the 7th cusp. Note that another interpretation of the Moon in any man's life is his relations with women, thus doubly accounting for his marriage in this period of the year.

Personal Application to You

When you have completed a day in which you made notes as you went along concerning the moments when you had impulses to do certain things, when you actually did a thing, whom you met and what eventuated from the meeting, decisions you made, et cetera, get out your table of houses for your latitude of residence and check up.

You will have perhaps a half dozen items of importance—maybe a dozen on a rapidly moving day. If you can visualize the horoscope from a line in the book of tables, there is no need to set up charts—just make notes of positions. But if you aren't sure, take the minute necessary to each set of cusps and copy them out of the table onto a horoscope blank.

You will then see where all your natal planets were at the recorded times of your diary notes, plus the positions of the transiting planets (both in the chart of the moment and in relation to your natal positions). This is a very informative process, one that can be appreciated only when actually experienced. Do it. Don't merely accept or reject the idea of it. You'll see.

On a recent cold and rainy Sunday afternoon, for example, a group of astrology students were gathered informally at my home. I had privately discussed the points mentioned in this article and we set up the horary (chart of the moment) when the natal Venus of one of the others would be rising at the ascendant. This other person didn't happen to be in on our discussion and was entirely otherwise occupied on a technical point with still another of the group. The moment of the horary we had thus set up arrived. The owner of the rising Venus acted within five minutes of our calculated time—she dropped the conversation in which she was engaged, went into the next room and began to play the organ. If she hadn't been a musician, she probably would have gone to the radio or started singing, for music is typically a Venusian impulse. You can picture her surprise and also her astrological pleasure when we immediately showed her the horary of practically that moment, with her Venus at the ascendant. The rest of it was equally good, for it occurred to me that the room would be more dry and comfortable if I lit the fire, which I did a few minutes later—and one of the students gleefully pointed out the fact that my Mars (fire) rose to the ascendant of the horary just eleven minutes after her Venus; within that time, entirely oblivious to the fact that I was anything but an observer, I, too, had performed according to the horary impulse as it affected me.

This is far more important than a method for explaining what we do and when we do it, although such explanation proclaims natural law. It is a method for looking ahead and estimating ourselves and our environment in advance, that we may choose our acts more thoughtfully, more intelligently and with greater expectancy of doing the right things and not doing the wrong ones. Only a little practice reveals us to ourselves very clearly, as well as giving us notice of what to expect from others with whose planetary positions we are familiar.

Weeds in Astrology's Field

by George J. McCormack

Unethical astrological practices appear in increased frequency during periods of public stress, according to records in files of the astrological federation. Like weeds that contaminate the garden, activities of "fortune tellers" during World War I, and again at the bottom of the financial depression, were specific instances in which numerous superficial quacks converged on large cities, established so-called "studios" in the business centers, adopted tricky pseudonyms and inserted glowing advertisements in the newspapers and cheap magazines to attract gullible patrons. In each instance, attacks on all astrologers without discrimination were the resulting consequence.

These illicit practices are again causing growing concern to scientific astrologers throughout the United States. In view of the increasing complaints from legitimate astrologers regarding the activities of charlatan "Professors" and "Madames" astrology organizations are discussing remedies to meet the situation.

When Uranus is afflicted, Astrology is pestered with its parasites, posers, eccentrics and critics. During World War No. 1 Saturn opposed Uranus, when in negative relation to any significator, is emblematic of shadows, ill repute or censorship. Damage through neglect is among the possibilities. During that period, when astrologers were not so well organized as they are today, pseudo astrologers inserted daily advertisements in the newspapers. Among those plying their questionable activities in New York and other eastern cities were the Zanya, Veritas, Parashira, Solar, Tara, Virgo and Astra Studios. As business expanded they compiled and exchanged mailing lists from which they circularized prospective clients throughout the country. As a means of evading the law they dispensed phony good-luck rings, amulets, fortune telling books and other cheap trinkets at $1.00, stating that the accompanying "horoscopes" were being furnished free. The purported "horoscopes" were half-page illiterate Sun-sign readings. Tricky inducements were inserted to arouse curiosity of recipients to send further remittances for "special service." All these "fortune tellers" had large followings. When the following got too close, they re-established elsewhere under new trade names.

The inevitable complaints followed even while leading astrologers were collaborating with postal authorities to investigate and expose such corrupt practices. Issuance of fraud orders eliminated the rackets and legitimate astrologers were instrumental in weeding them out. In due course astrology was severely criticized and the newspapers that had printed most of the questionable ads were loudest in condemning all astrologers without reservation. When authorities took action, no discrimination was made between accredited reputable astrologers and fakers. The late Dr. A. Z. Stevenson, then President of the Astrological Society of New York, was among other legitimate astrologers who were arrested by policewomen, charged with "fortune telling" and jailed.

The year of 1927, when Uranus entered Aries, marked rapid strides in astrological progress and expansion of organized activities. In November, 1928, when the late Grace Ellery Williams was vindicated in court, after she had been made the scapegoat of a faux pas, even some of our better known astrologers in their zeal to publicize astrology overstepped ethical bounds. A group of leaders, after due deliberation, set up a stricter Code of Ethics which was adopted. When this code was violated to such an extent that astrology was banned from the air and a minority group insisted on enforcing the code regardless of personalities involved, bitter opposition developed in the astrological ranks under the prevailing squares of Jupiter and Saturn to Uranus.

On May 3, 1942, Saturn and Uranus were in conjunction. Mercury was also in close proximity of a conjunction with both major bodies. From the overshadowing Saturn the deduction was obvious to well informed astrologers and was verified in one instance by the apprehension in a western state of a publisher who had misused astrology. Weeds are sprouting again in the astrological field.

The self styled "Madames" and Professors" with illusive sounding names are advertising in the papers again, seeking "studio" patronage or mail order trade. This is the type that usually makes the newspaper pages with some sensational predictions, and vaunt about their past performances as though successful forecasts were the exception rather than the rule. One of these self-proclaimed "fortune tellers," be-turbanned in her New York theatrical district "studio" with appropriate mystical props to dazzle the credulous, was recently interviewed by a New York newspaper reporter to whom she boasted that one of her relatives was "working" Washington and another was "working" Chicago. When the woman reporter asked if she was doing a good business, she gushed, "Listen, Dearie, love will keep any 'fortune teller' busy twenty-four hours a day!"

Another phase is the growing number of "fortune tellers," including psychics, palmists, astrologers, crystal gazers, card readers and what-nots that are being publicized as novelties (Neptune) by the night spots, particularly in New York, as well as in Washington and other large cities. Although some Neptunians thus engaged may seriously feel that they are inspired by worthy motives in support of a common cause, this sort of ballyhoo is a pose to be deprecated. The least we can say is that such activities desecrate the divine science we expound, for they invariably lead to prostitution of the real purpose of astrology.

Such periodical activities not only impress the public with a wrong conception of scientific astrology but also tend to encourage unscrupulous pretenders to use it for illicit purposes, leaving the public with a sour taste that ultimately leads to complaints and summary actions by the authorities. In these reactions, reputable astrologers are unjustly made the scapegoats of indiscriminate attacks, and prosecutions after the real offending parties have skipped town without leaving their new address.

It may be pertinent to mention that, on December 11, 1914, when Judge Freschi delivered his decision in the Evangeline Adams case, he said, "Every fortune teller is a violator of the law, but every astrologer is not a fortune teller."

Reputable and competent astrologers should not require sensational ballyhoo to attract public attention. When self-styled astrologers use such methods for patronage, they place themselves in the same category as quack doctors. Their motives, therefore, if not also their astrological qualifications, may reasonably be open to question.

We have been bold to bring this matter to attention publicly because of current Neptunian testimonies in the ruling chart of the United States and which may affect this problem very soon, with possible repercussions.

Some of the most brilliant astrologers in the country never get their names in print, are untiring research workers and are respected and admired by their associates. Many good astrologers advertise legitimately, because they are specialists, teach, lecture or write technical articles.

Organized scientific astrologers comprising a Federation of affiliated astrological organizations in the United States, Canada and South America, and including individual members in various parts of the world, subscribe to a standard Code of Ethics of which the following excerpts are self-explanatory:

"I, the undersigned, subscribe to the following Code of Ethics:

"I recognize that a precise astrological opinion cannot honestly be rendered with reference to the life of an individual unless it is based upon a horoscope cast for the year, month, day and time of day plus correct geographical location of the place of birth of that individual, and I agree not to render such an opinion without this detailed information, unless the horoscope of the individual has been rectified by accepted astrological methods, or unless I positively state to the interested party that such conclusions are reached by alternative astrological methods.

"I agree not to interpolate or to introduce into any astrological deduction, verbally or otherwise, any interpretation which my conclusions appear to warrant irrelevant to the Science of Astrology without first stating definitely that such deductions are neither based upon the life chart nor identified with the science.

"I agree to honor and respect all confidences which may be reposed in me by consultation and to hold such confidences inviolable excepting wherein they may involve an act of felony or treason.

"I agree not to use my identification . . . as a signature of publicity in any unethical manner. I agree to assist in any way I can in the elimination of the charlatan who may be masquerading under any form of title that can be construed to mean a connection with astrology designed to mislead the public or trade upon their credulity in any way; and I hereby subscribe to this Code of Ethics as a condition of my membership . . . ."

The foregoing Code of Ethics was framed after careful deliberation and adopted in the interest of the public as well as exponents of scientific astrology. Even after applicants for membership subscribe to this code, their eligibility must be satisfactorily determined. Thus, organized astrologers have indicated an earnest effort to insure the high standard of their membership and to live up to the code in fact as well as in theory and to safeguard the public from misrepresentation.

In the past, astrology has been criticized on the records of charlatans and superficial masqueraders. Prejudice and hypocrisy and an apparent unwillingness on the part of self-appointed critics to examine fairly the tenets of astrology have made it difficult for worthy exponents to cooperate with respect to questionable activities. However, in some instances magazines have inquired of responsible astrological sources concerning advertisements submitted to them relative to astrological services. This has been satisfactory, for the information furnished has been helpful in determining whether or not the advertisers were astrologers or pretenders.

On the other hand, an astrologer of national reputation and who is both admired and respected by all his associates, recently prepared an authoritative article on astrology. After the article had been submitted to official sources for review and comments, the author was officially recommended as qualified to express authoritative opinions on the subject. The manuscript was then submitted to one of the leading weekly magazines for consideration. In due course a rejection slip was returned from the editor without accompanying comment. The article covered factual information—no predictions—no sensational coloring—regarding scientific astrology and its application. Written in simple style to meet popular reading requirements, it gave the impression of being both interesting and instructive. The manuscript was submitted to a second popular weekly magazine and met with similar cold indifference. It has been sent to a third popular magazine and a response is being awaited at this writing early in August.

We mention the experience of this contributor to illustrate an interesting point. He could have employed the same time to write—quite capably, too—a series of sensational forecasts and make the front page. When he writes thought provoking facts and not fallacies about astrology he does not receive the same consideration as writers on other professional topics. Many people seem to have the idea that all articles on astrology should concern predictions. Since popular magazines are reluctant to publish serious articles about astrology, the astrologically conscious public turns to astrological magazines and other literature for such discussions. Perhaps this explains the ever increasing demand for astrological literature and why newsdealers place such periodicals so conspicuously. There is no doubt, however, that one of these days some foresighted magazine editor will perceive the advantages of furnishing serious astrology to his readers.

The present astrological upsurge began as far back as the previous passage of Uranus through the sign Gemini, when Luke D. Broughton gave the subject great impetus through the medium of his PLANETARY READER, a publication that appeared from 1858 to 1865. Now that Uranus is again in Gemini, it is to be expected that astrology, under the rulership of Uranus, will experience a like advance, and it is to be expected that it would come through wider circulation in magazines of general character. In this regard we should be alert for the ill-advised as well as for the good presentation of the subject.

When a newspaper reporter desires information concerning astrology, whom does he interview for a story? Does he contact some authoritative source? More likely than not

-and Double Check

by Wynn

Our good friend, Paul G. Clancy, editor and publisher of American Astrology Magazine, employs eight pages of his September issue to discuss further the significance in general of Primary Directions, and in particular those of President Grant. Previous remarks by Mr. L. H. Weston appeared in his May issue, to which I took exception in our August issue, adding my disapproval of Primary Directions as a method for timing life events.

As friend Clancy says, I once wrote: "Criticism is O.K. if constructive (but look out for mere fault-finding that is based on some form of self pity)." He more than intimates that my criticism was based on prejudice and therefore that I do not practice what I preach.

Prejudice, as I understand it, is judging without full investigation—and if you will look it up in the dictionary you will find Mr. Webster was correct. So this point comes down to the matter of whether or not I have fully investigated Primary Directions. I think I can prove that I have. I think my writings prove it. I've been checking and testing Primary Directions, direct and converse, by both Right Ascension and Oblique Ascension for more than fifteen years and my judgment concerning them is based on the findings of my study. It is not that I don't like Primary Directions—nothing would please me more than to have them demonstrate the presence of astrological influences upon man's psychology and environment. But I cannot make them demonstrate anything of the kind in any consistent way that would indicate the presence of a law behind the method.

Brother Clancy says of my analysis of the article in question: "It merely displays the arrogance of a closed mind that refuses even to admit the possibility of anything that does not happen to agree with the pet theories of the critic. Such prejudice ill becomes an astrologer who is justly indignant when his astrology (as a whole) is similarly attacked by academic scientists."

Them's fightin' words, pardner, so let's go into it seriously.

If there is error in astrology, it behooves astrologers to expose it first, not to unite blindly around a false method merely because it is called "astrology." If all who call themselves astrologers are united behind a method that can be exploded by academic scientists when and if they ever do get around to looking into the subject, then those who call themselves astrologers haven't a leg to stand on—those who endorse a thing must stand or fall with it. So we'd better be willing to look frankly at everything we hear called astrology and submit it to all the testing we can before outside sharpshooters begin to work on it. If it can stand up under the most strenuous challenge, then we have a solid foundation which cannot be shaken. I favor having astrology clean its own house, that the neighbors may find everything in order when they come to visit us.

Without saying anything against our criticism of Weston's method, Pardner Clancy blithely introduces a new method for conversing an oblique direction. Not having seen this method in the article we analyzed previously, it comes under the head of new business. Let's examine it. He says: "Getting back to the question of Directions by Oblique Arc, it will be noted that Oblique Ascension is always measured along the Equator. Therefore it is our opinion that to be consistent we should refer our aspects (angles of incidence) likewise to the Equator, and that for this purpose all aspects should be calculated in Right Ascension. Therefore when we speak of the oblique arc of a 90° aspect to the natal Saturn, we are referring to the oblique arc of that degree of Longitude, the R. A. of which is 90° (in R. A.) from the R. A. of the natal Saturn."

Proceeding with this method, he takes the date of the failure of the Marine Bank (which ruined Grant financially) and chooses to call it the event which for his rectification must be made to correspond with Ascendant converse square natal Saturn by Oblique Ascension. The arc in Grant's age at the time was  $62^{\circ}02'$  (May 7, 1884), so all the astrologer has to do is calculate the RA of Saturn, subtract  $90^{\circ}$  from it, find the OA of the zodiacal degree of which the result is the RA, and add  $62^{\circ}02'$  to the OA thus found—the result is to be taken as the OA of the ascendant of Grant. Following this procedure, he obtains  $1^{\circ}03'$  Taurus, which is probably correct. I used  $39^{\circ}$  as latitude of birth ( $38^{\circ}54'$  is exact), which may account for the slight difference of  $3'$  between Clancy's figure for the ascendant and mine.

With this as his basis of rectification, he presents us with a list of aspects which he has attempted to correlate to the life of Grant (page 4 of his September issue). He can find no events which correspond to the sextiles of Jupiter, Uranus or Sun—all of these being aspects in good standing with all writers and authorities on astrology. But he sees Grant elected to the Presidency of the United States and renominated under two "aspects" which few, if any, have ever heard of: the  $75^{\circ}$  aspect! I cannot find reference to such an aspect in Ptolemy, Pearce, Sepharial, Raphael, Robson, Alan Leo, TEXT BOOK OF MATHEMATICAL ASTROLOGY, or in the aspect course by Marc Edmund Jones which ran last year in American Astrology. If this aspect is powerful enough to elect a man to the Presidency of the United States, it would seem it would have previously been seriously treated in at least one accepted text book or magazine. Sorry, but the one aspect that looked good here throws out so many more that the method is unsatisfactory.

Now let us look at what is usually considered the Ascendant square Saturn by converse Oblique Ascension, according to the majority of texts. This procedure calls for measuring the equatorial arc between the OA's of Saturn and of the ascendant when in preceding zodiacal square to Saturn on the eastern horizon. Taking friend Clancy's ascendant of Grant ( $1^{\circ}03'$  Taurus) and directing it by converse OA to the zodiacal square of Saturn, we find an equatorial arc of only  $57^{\circ}02'12''$ , which is five years out, corresponding to the first week of May, 1879—not 1884 when the Marine Bank incident occurred.

Brother Clancy states that "with few exceptions, it is quite impossible to direct one planet to another in primary oblique arc." He implies that the exceptions are when both planets are close to the ascendant at birth. This raises a question. Why not? Directions call on us to do many other impossible things—why not this? Every planet has an Oblique Ascension—it is when the planet is on the eastern horizon of the birthplace, and is the measure to the first point of Aries from where that horizon cuts the Equator. The whole theory of directions being hypothetical, why couldn't the proponent of such methods find equal logic in a hypothetical horizon, such as it would be if the planet were rising, for every planet, and then measure the differences between the OA's thus found? Those within the span of life could be called aspects by primary direct and converse as well as those that are accepted by such students. The aspects of primary directions never actually occur astronomically anyway, so why not invent a few more?

As the directionist says, all the primaries for a single lifetime of about 90 years occur in the first six hours after birth. If, using Grant as an example, Sun and Saturn were  $6^{\circ}$  apart at birth, was there any time on that date when Sun and Saturn were in sextile or square to each other, An astronomical impossibility. The directionist uses two sets of planets, one real and the other "their reflections on the sphere." One of these is presumed to stand still while the rest move according to the turn of the Earth. A great strain is put on the imagination when it is asked to envision the Sun, for instance,  $20^{\circ}$  to  $30^{\circ}$  away from the Ecliptic (its own path), as must be done to produce directions in the middle and later periods of life.

Pardner Clancy brings up the matter of Saturn just below the ascendant and my previous remark that I have never knowingly seen a living person who had Saturn below and within  $5^{\circ}$  of the eastern horizon. His speculative horoscope of Grant puts Saturn's zodiacal longitude above the ascending degree, but the south celestial latitude of Saturn places the planet's physical body below the eastern horizon—Saturn actually rose on the day of Grant's birth when  $4^{\circ}26'$  Taurus was on the ascendant at his birthplace. His specu-

"Will I Marry?"

How Motive Leads to Marriage

The first consideration in judging whether or not a person will marry is to determine as closely as possible what is the dominant motive for marriage in his or her nature.

The ancients gave us an astrological rule centuries ago which has been somewhat difficult for beginners to understand, but today this same rule has been discovered independently by modern psychology. The psychologist tells us that each woman has an animus within her composite ego, this animus being the picture within her being of her ideal man. The counterpart of this in the man, that is, the picture of his ideal woman is called his anima. There is a deep necessity for these inner pictures of our ideals of the opposite sex, for in each of us it is our subconsciousness producing for our benefit the image of what is lacking within ourselves. It isn't merely that we lack the physical qualities and attributes of the opposite sex; it is that we need to develop our mental, emotional and spiritual natures to a state of perfection. It is a matter of interval, and nature is ever striving to close intervals between where anything is and that perfect state which is where and what it ought to be.

The ancient astrological rule that tells us this same thing is the one that explains the function of a man's Moon and a woman's Sun in the selection of a marriage partner. Every student is familiar with the instruction to "observe the location, aspects and rulership of the Moon in a male natus for description of the wife, and of the Sun the same in a female horoscope." In other words, the great law of nature that assembles under the Moon all that is female and under the Sun all that is male is here being put to work that we may understand ourselves and each other. In a man's egocentric complex all that is of the opposite pole (and everyone is composed of both masculine and feminine attributes) is horoscopically revealed through analysis of his feminine planets (Moon and Venus) and those signs of the feminine nature (the Earth and Water signs) which are accented in his planetary and zodiacal pattern at birth. Of these the chief influence is that of the Moon, unless the moment of birth brings Venus to some accidental dignity.

For a woman, read the foregoing with substitution of Sun for Moon, Mars for Venus, and the male signs (Fire and Air) for feminine.

The old astrological rule goes on to state that "the first aspect made by the Moon in a man's horoscope after birth describes his wife; the Sun's first aspect in a woman's horoscope describes her husband." This has been modified by later writers to a description of the first matrimonial partner, or the first choice of a partner whether or not marriage takes place. In the light of the reasons for this rule it is easy to understand that the dominant necessities of the luminary of opposite polarity (Moon of man, Sun of woman) would be those which the native would attempt to satisfy first.

Numerous obstacles can and often do get in the way of achieving those necessities—some of which obstacles are to be found in the horoscope itself, and some in the complicating factors of the other person who would so satisfy the requirements of the significant luminary. For instance, a woman's Sun, let us say, shows need for a mate who will stimulate in her the efforts necessary for building poise and foresight. This could be one of the interpretations for a woman whose Sun was in Taurus, opposition Saturn and Uranus in Scorpio (May 5, 1896). In this case the fact that the Moon is square to Sun, Saturn and Uranus, renders it difficult for her to overcome in her own nature the obstacles set up by this Moon square, for the Moon is in a positive sign (Aquarius) and the opposition planets in a negative one—tending to make her resist the vibrations which would come in to her on the attraction wave length of her Saturn in Scorpio, which is the first planet to which the Sun is forming an aspect in her horoscope. This aspect indicates her need for a man of solid, substantial, even somewhat dominating character, possibly an older man or one with much experience in living; but her Moon, ruling her feminine nature, being in both a positive sign and in square aspect to Saturn, she would resent and attempt to overcome in her own nature the very benefits at hand in his character. For this reason, it is quite probable that she would experience an attraction to such a man, for he is definitely in her animus picture of the mate she needs, because of Sun-Saturn aspect; but she would break the engagement or separate from him after feeling the conflict in herself which would be engendered by the necessity of facing the facts of such a union. If she were born within an hour before noon in Europe, her Moon would be in the matrimonial 7th, accenting this difficulty in her make-up because of its position as well as because of the aspects referred to.

The obstacles that get in the way of easy working out of partnership needs, if they are in the horoscope of the mate, often come about through aspects like that of the Moon in the foregoing case, except that they occur in the nativity of the husband or wife. Suppose, for instance, the woman just mentioned had not had the Moon square to that opposition, but that the man she chose had his Moon in that aspect to her planets. The result would be similar, but would probably require a longer time to work out in their lives. They would not feel it as a threat to marriage so much as a threat to harmonious conditions in their married life together.

Much depends on the nature of the planet to which the significant luminary makes application, as well as on the power or closeness of the aspect.

If the significant luminary is in close aspect to some planet, the probability is strong that the native will marry or have an important attachment, and that early in mature life. This is because a close aspect in the nature (horoscope) demands satisfaction in no uncertain terms. Aspects with wide orbs are more leisurely about their requirements—they can and do wait till the more intense vibrations of the nativity are at least partly worked out. Possible exception to the rule that close aspects to the significant luminary produce early marriage or attachment is to be found by a study of the planet or planets in or ruling the 7th house. (More on this coming in a later article.)

As to the nature of the planet aspected by a man's Moon or a woman's Sun, the type of one's inner need very often is shown by the planet itself. If the planet be Mars, a need for strength, decisiveness and other Mars qualities is shown as the attraction to the candidate of the opposite sex. If Jupiter, the need is for some sort of expansion along lines signified by the position and condition of Jupiter. If Venus, the call is for development of the beauty sense through the qualities of the mate—or, if on the lower level, for self-indulgence. If Neptune, there is probably an idealistic requirement that is extremely difficult to put into words or even objectively thought—with the frequent result that the man or woman, as the case may be, who would fill the specifications cannot easily be found; if the aspect to Neptune is close, the probability is still for early marriage, but unless other indications are present to the contrary there is likely to be disillusionment and eventual separation.

If Mercury is the planet aspected, the intellectual and possibly commercial motive for marriage may be foremost. If Uranus, the desire to leave some unpleasant environmental state may give the impulse as well as the opportunity to take the vows; obviously something more substantial is needed to make such a marriage last, for it may not attract the best in the new environment thus achieved—sort of an into-the-fire proposition. If on a high level of motive, however, the marriage because of Uranus can be both lasting and the source of much valuable experience; this is when both parties to the union are aware of nature's higher laws and when both are working for some end beyond both of them.

Marriage is a complicated matter, both in the living of it and in the motives that lead up to it. The fact that many more people marry than do not marry shows the driving necessity in each of us for making the animus and anima take definite shape in the experiences of life; the great preponderance of lives that include marriage over lives that do not is not evidence that matrimony is either simple or easy. Every nature lacks development in some department; where such lack exists we can find stimulation chiefly through contacts with other people; the thing we call love is our subconscious regard for the person who furnishes to us those stimuli we most

It's an Astrologer's Life!

Pages from a Diary

4th: There is literally no end to the symbolism of planets and signs. The arrow of Sagittarius, for instance: I think of it primarily as soaring aspiration needing only to be guided (discrimination), but today I find a quotation from an old Hindu book which throws it into different relief. "As a teacher makes straight his arrow, a wise man makes straight his trembling and unsteady thought which is difficult to guard, difficult to hold back." The Sagittarian arrow, perfect—isn't it? The task of the sign, to master and direct higher thought. The richness of symbols is awe inspiring.

5th: Oh, my. When I started to write this I re-read yesterday's entry. Today's is such a contrast. One of the local residents had to be answered point blank about my work because he asked point blank. He was largely ignorant, generously benign. What he said was, "I see. Well, I expect the subject can be interesting, of course, if it's handled right. I knew a man once who took it up and went into it, but he took it seriously." Oh, my. Should I laugh or cry—this, against the truth and the beauty of yesterday's insight! How can I give them the actual reverence an astrologer comes to feel for the divine science? And how could you make him see that what I think of as "going nuts" is man finding himself? To go nuts, in his lexicon, is to become "different" or "queer," in the sense of discovering something that at present sets you apart from your fellows, who haven't allowed you.

7th: Am having fun and also learning something by applying one of Ptolemy's aphorisms, number XXVII: "Venus gives pleasure to the native in that part of the body which may be ruled by the sign she occupies. It is the same with other stars." I had a good deal of noiseless fun the other night when I was with a group of people relaxed, and mostly recumbent, outdoors. One of the men asked permission to remove his shoes, explaining that he was never happy in them. From that instant he did not cease to handle his feet, or wiggle the toes, or flex and rotate the ankle. Ptolemy flashed into my head, and I smiled in the semi-dark. I bet with myself that I would find Venus in Pisces. And believe it or not, I did; it was conjunction Jupiter!

8th: That Libran who got the money the day Jupiter was in the degree on his mid-heaven is quite a character. He has Aries rising, I have found out. I had guessed Aries as my first choice of an Ascendant for him, with Gemini a possible runner-up. When I got his brother alone I asked casually, "Do you remember your brother being born? Was he born in the late afternoon?" And right away he came to life with a memory that clicked. "Yes he was," he answered, "because I remember having to run to the store to tell my dad, and it wasn't quite time to close up." That explains a lot of the rumors that collect around the Libran man. I heard another story about him that amuses me. He was plagued by a certain creditor recently until provoked into action. What he did was to write the creditor a letter, to the effect that he—the Libran—had a system for paying bills consisting of putting all unpaid bills into a hat, stirring them up, and each month picking four at random which he then paid—and if the creditor wasn't nice he wouldn't even put his bill into the hat!!!!!! Other stories about him are equal.

9th: I happened to mention to another professional astrologer the other day that I had noticed a significant thing about the death notices in a New York newspaper. "A significant majority of the deaths take place right around the birthday," I said. "Now if it could be proved—" But he interrupted me. "I noticed that some time ago," he said, "and I was so interested that I took the trouble to go downtown and ask to see the obituary editor. What I found out was that this particular editor deliberately selected such deaths because it was a habit or a hobby of his: he admitted there was no reason for it other than his personal choice. So nothing is proved." And my time and attention were wasted.

11th: I'm persisting with my practice of arriving at people's ascendants and sun signs before they tell me or I ask. My most recent venture was too easy. Anyone would have guessed it correctly, even the veriest beginner. The subject is a gardener who is doing some work for me. He is an unusually responsible, intelligent and artistic professional, and I began immediately to make opportunities to talk to him. When finally the talks got beyond gardening, the subject he himself introduced voluntarily was betting. It seems he had a system, and once made up his mind to trust to it and prove it. So he went to the race track, and tried. When he told me that it ended with him realizing that he just couldn't bet, didn't have it in him; that his sense of duty, or responsibility, overcame his nerve, what do you think I guessed? What anyone would have—a divided strength between Capricorn and Sagittarius. I thought he might have a Capricorn Sun with perhaps Mercury, Venus and maybe something else in Sagittarius; he just didn't seem to be a Sagittarian Sun, somehow—perhaps because he was so punctual and hard working and dutiful. Well, he finally told me his birthday—December 22, right between the two signs. He says he has an old Bible with his birth moment written in it, and he will try to find it for me.

12th: Tonight at the movies Senator Lodge Jr. flashed on the screen with a talk of a moment or so. Idly I watched him and thought to myself, "Mars strong, and an Air sign." When we got home we looked up his name in Who's Who. He was born July 5, 1902. He has a Cancer Sun and Moon and Neptune. I was feeling chagrined, when I glanced at the opposite page of the ephemeris and saw that his Mars was in the air sign Gemini, and so were his Mercury and his Venus, all three trine to his Aquarian Jupiter. Now, if I could only get his birth moment, perhaps it would give him Gemini rising? Or Aquarius? I had never seen him before, nor have since, so have not much to go on. But Cancer is a negative sign, so it is just possible that was why I sensed a positive sign, Gemini; rising.

13th: Two more astrological experiences. A masculine member of my family had volunteered to help me with a gardening job in the evening, and in bending sideways with a heavy tool in his hand he sprang something in his back. When we checked the influences we found Mars in the exact degree and near the exact minute of opposition to his natal Sun, in Leo the sign of the back, which is on his 6th cusp. Experience number two concerns a house painter who did my present home over. My contact with him, of course, was through a legal contract; later, his wife came to work periodically for me. Neighbors of mine have the same contact with him. In fact, John is known to the entire community for just two things: his contracting and his wife. Both are 7th house matters. Now it turns out that his Gemini Sun and Mercury are in the 7th house, Sagittarius rising. (He has travelled the world over, in World War number I). And his Mercury rules his reputation, Virgo on his 10th.

19th: The elderly man who told me about his friend "taking astrology seriously" is gone. Coming back from grocery shopping I met him again—for the last time, he assured me. He had just had his arm shot full of various inoculations, had made his will, given his wife power of attorney, and was to be off on the morrow for destinations undisclosed, on a government mission. I never did get his data.

23rd: You can't always tell by a person's sun sign or ascendant what kind of friend they will make. You'll only understand them when you are able to take a look at their 11th house. I am thinking of one person from my past, and another whom I have friendly relations with at present. The one I used to know was an Aries native. Now when we think of a native of this sign, we certainly do not anticipate a certain sensitive reserve, a rather easily impressed and repulsed attitude toward friendship, do we? Yet my erstwhile friend had some difficulty in getting close to people, and was usually to be found in some mood that spelled hurt or offense. She had Leo rising, so it didn't come from her ascendant either. But in Gemini, in her 11th house, was Neptune; this showed more strongly to friends in the long run than did her essential points. The current friend also has difficulty in making and maintaining friendships, but in a very different way. She is a native of Libra, with Cancer rising. Yes, this gives sensitiveness; but that is not exactly her difficulty. It takes literally years to get her to use your given name; and everyone has to ask her to do it, it never comes from her. She is punctiliously polite. I have finally got to the stage of coaxing—yes, that's necessary—her to use my first name. The first letter she wrote me after this incident began, "Dear Mrs. ———, I'll have to stroke the fur of my Saturn on the 11th cusp before I get around to calling you ——— . . . ." Saturn just doesn't want to let go the protection of the formalities, for in intimacy there is no protection.

25th: I have a story about a native of Leo, but I tell it without malice aforethought. It merely reveals the state of evolution of one Leo native, not typifying all Leo natives by any means. This particular man is—no, was—an employee of a man I know. He is the soul of cheerfulness, beaming at all times like his own Sun, able to contribute optimism to all who surround him. Now no one criticizes that! The trouble was that his radiation was about all he could be coaxed, commanded, or ordered to contribute to his employer. He seemed to feel that as long as everyone was happy everything in the office was all right. But orders were not going out, and business got behind. So Mister Leo had to be called on the carpet. He had a day or so to think it over; at the end of which time his conclusion was this—why not get together over a sandwich and a glass of beer, he would tell his employer and let his employer tell him off some more if he wanted to, and then everything would be all right! ?????? I am not sure that while he looks for a job today he has the least understanding of what was the matter. But I am sure, very sure, that eventually it will be borne in upon him, for he has Saturn at the mid-heaven, and cannot always put off the learning of responsibility. His next experiences will undoubtedly repeat this one, in different ways, and under different circumstances; until finally it will begin to dawn. Good old Saturn.

26th: The kind of client who "believes in astrology" can be more difficult than the analytical and reserved client. For the former uses that term to reveal that she wants to lean on something. Had a client today who simply will not make her own decisions, which I insist upon. I will not take the responsibility upon myself for anyone.

27th: About employees, servants, etc., I am having some experiences which serve to illustrate the potency of the sign on the 6th cusp. This came up for discussion the other night, and the group agreed that this sign not only described the attitude of the native toward work (his own) but also attracted to him or her natives of that sign as servers. One man present had Leo rising and Capricorn on his 6th: he told us several stories illustrative of his necessity to deal with Capricornians in the capacity of workers—he "just seemed to draw them," he said. And thinking it over, the rest of us agreed that it was so in our cases too—the signs on our various 6th houses did seem to bring our way natives of those signs or persons with them rising as maids, laundresses, office workers, handymen, and so on. It would force the conclusion that one is under necessity to work through one's own attitude toward work and service by means of these other people: for they present a picture to one of one's own attitude. If one doesn't like the performance of these people, one changes one's own!

29th: Was told a story about an astrologer who has a strong prejudice against starting anything, or advising a client to start anything, on a day when the Moon is in Aries. My reaction was, How odd since Aries is the natural starting point, the point of action, initiative and enterprise. Why? I asked myself. Then it occurred to me that perhaps this attitude was based on the fact that the Moon rules Cancer and the 4th house, which are the natural points of the close of things, conditions at the end of life, and so on: thus, having the ruler of the ends of things in the sign of beginnings could prove abortive. But, my goodness, if we were to follow this theory to the bitter end, we could never start anything because no matter which sign the Moon was in, it still rules ends— Well, perhaps the astrologer's attitude was based on purely personal experiences, a mistake astrologers must outgrow.

30th: Having the same sign on both 6th and 7th cusps works out as a tendency to think of the qualities and characteristics most lacking (7th cusp) in one's own nature as inferior qualities. Only one of the ways, of course, but interesting. I like that interpretation of the 7th house as representing all that one most lacks and therefore "finds most desirable in a partner and redoubtable in an opponent," quoting Isabelle Pagan.

Key Cycle of the Month

United Nations Offensive in Solomon Islands

ON AUGUST 6, 1942, the United Nations took the offensive against Japan in and around Tulagi, on Florida Island in the Solomons. Those in charge of the movement were Admiral King, Admiral Nimitz, Vice-Admiral Ghormley and General MacArthur, all Americans, although their forces contained allied nationals. The Key Cycle of the date and place clearly shows action: Mars, planet of force, is ruler of the figure and is located in the midheaven, being squared by the Moon from the war 7th. Moon is also dispositor of the ruler of the war 7th. It is notable that the Pyramid Locality midheaven of this place ( $160^{\circ}$  E long) is Virgo  $5^{\circ}$ , the exact zodiacal position of Mars at that time. The Pyramid 7th of the place is Gemini  $11^{\circ}39'$ , where Saturn was on that date, and Saturn was in the KC 7th.

As usual, the personal relationship of men and time and place is powerfully present. Within  $5^{\circ}$  of this KC ascendant are 3 planets of the four officers in charge; at the position of Mars are also 3 of their planets; and at the war 7th are the astounding total of 7 of their planets! The planets at the ascendant and Mars are each 158% of expectancy, while those at the war 7th are 368% of expectancy. (The birthdays of the men mentioned: King, Nov. 23, 1878; MacArthur, Jan. 26, 1880; Nimitz, Feb. 24, 1885; Ghormley, Oct. 15, 1883.)

Mars is particularly potent in this Key Cycle, both by transit, as noted, and from the nativities of the men leading the action. Transiting Mars is in conjunction, square or opposition to at least one planet in each of their horoscopes (within  $5^{\circ}$ ), and in the case of King it is in 3 such aspects, while in the case of Nimitz it is in no less than five such aspects. All of the planets so aspected by Mars are in the midheaven, or conjunction the ascendant or war 7th cusps! Thus the KC angles are tied to the men involved and thus the transiting

Mars (action) is tied to the KC houses involved. The pattern is complete and perfect.

If the correspondences between the men involved, the nature of the action and the place where it occurred are mere coincidences, then coincidence has a long arm indeed. The skeptic cannot disprove the presence of a natural law at work in the long line of evidence that has been here offered under the above title—all he can do is ignore it, if he isn't willing to investigate. Mere denial is of value no longer (as it may have been twenty years ago), for too many people now know the existence of the Key Cycle laws through study and personal experience to pay attention to uninformed critics.

The student will find a great deal of personal assistance in the principle involved here, for it indicates that any individual should pay attention to the Key Cycle of the place where he is, and note the vibrations when KC angles are contacting his or her natal planetary positions, for there is obvious stimulation in these local KC angles.

If this idea hasn't previously occurred to you, it may prove the means of explaining something in your life, or that of another, which has been only partly understood.

Part II

Last month in these pages we gave the scope of things to come for those of us who are feeling the current Saturn-Uranus transit in any one of the first six houses. This month we will outline what is to come for those of us feeling this transit in any house from 7th to 12th.

If we have our sun sign rising in our individual natal horoscopes, we will feel this joint influence in the same house of natal and equilibrium horoscopes. But if a sign other than our sun sign rises in our natal chart, we feel Saturn-Uranus in two houses and should act both as applying to us.

If you are feeling this influence in your 7th house: Other people (equals in every sense) appear to block or desert causes. Persons from past reappear to either support or frustrate; strangers suddenly become antagonists or allies. Partnerships (marriage, business, etc.), break up or lapse from past causes: weaknesses show up in human relations; sudden alienations. Problems with elders, judges, magistrates, lawyers, agents, managers, artists, claims adjusters—perhaps prolonged efforts to obtain justice, or sudden and unexpected denouements. Same with grandparents, nephews, and nieces. Unusual or losing experiences with signatures, papers, contracts, documents. Problems crystallize and sudden changes appear in connection with the money matters of inferiors; the love life and children of brothers, sisters, and neighbors; the beliefs of friends; the occupation or reputation of parents; the early education of children and their mental slants. Conditions surrounding the close of life of parents or family members become testing. Necessity for sharing self with other persons, friends; necessity to make amends, take responsibility, work through, past errors in human relationships. Open enmities take immediate shape. Outgrown contacts dissolve, new ones take their places.

If you are feeling this influence in your 8th house: Intuitions about death, possible dreams connected with death which prove significant. But also fears which merely weigh and are proven groundless. Increasing sense of real value of life; growing sense of awareness of other values, other forms of life, including that after physical death. Aroused interest in occult matters. Possibly experiences with actual physical death. Terminations (other than death) which come about suddenly; or which take the form of outgrowing, shedding, casting aside, leaving behind. Both private and public ambitions subject to this termination (or death) factors; and to the taking of new forms. Suspensions, tests, problems, and quick changes or unanticipated turns of events connected with the money matters of mates, partners, and open antagonists; with the brothers or sisters of inferiors; with the home life of adult children; with the health of own brothers, sisters, and neighbors; with the reputations and occupations of friends; with friends of parents; with travels of those who oppose you secretly. Sex experiences of a new or lasting type. Upsets, problems, over insurance, legacies, wills, trust funds, money of partnerships, joint funds, which may linger on—or may terminate with unexpected suddenness. Any step-brothers or step-sisters may temporarily become significant. Emotional inhibitions, or changes: alternately keener and more sluggish sense reactions.

If you are feeling this influence in your 9th house: Sense of growing intellectual power and capacity; chances and desire for study and learning of broader and higher scope, including comparative subjects. Challenge of beliefs, faiths, religions, philosophies, alternating with attraction and curiosity: necessity to crystallize and get perspective on own beliefs. Changes in own beliefs, attitudes. Contacts of life significance with professors, teachers, instructors, tutors, priests, ministers, churches, universities, colleges. Experiences involving occult subjects, astrology; experiences with dreams, inspirations, hunches, prophetic sensations. Broadening and deepening of own higher mind. Interest in old books, ancient subjects, old authorities; and in new publications and up to the minute researches. Possibility of unexpected travel. New occupational connections with education, import or export, other countries, transportation, communication, radio, possibly aeronautics; which may be slow in developing but permanent: old plans connected with these begin to bear fruit. In-laws, and persons at or from a distance, enter the life as new inspirations, or connected with responsibilities. Other responsibilities and inspirations or changes, are now felt through brothers, sisters, of any partners or open enemies; through the home lives, parents, or estate of inferiors; through the love affairs of children; through health of family members or parents; through legal affairs, or partnerships, of own brothers, sisters, or neighbors; through the friends of friends; or the secrets of your parents.

If you are feeling this influence in your 10th house: Past, current, habits and routines delay or block occupational progress; changes and new factors enter suddenly. Old ambitions come to a head. Situations involving elders become problems. Desire for more power. Reputation and career influenced now by persons from past, and by strangers, new contacts. Debts of character, work, injustice, responsibility, from past ask to be paid now. Decisions to be made about staying put, or moving forward; sticking to the past, or seeking the future. Carelessness about conventions, formalities, brings loss of reputation. Unusual situations, also problems, through judges, governors, politicians, mayors, magistrates, policemen, employers, elders in authority. Added responsibilities, troubles, unlooked for changes, connected with parents-in-law, own parents, step parents, or first cousins. Also with the children of your inferiors, or their love affairs; with legal matters or partners of your family members; with sudden or lasting terminations with brothers, sisters, neighbors; with secrets of friends; with health of own children; with home life of partners, or open enemies; with finances of persons at a distance. Road of life achievement forks—major decisions to be made. Best of past to be retained; best avenue to future progress chosen. Must reorganize working ambition.

If you are feeling this influence in your 11th house: New insight, new vision and new goals grow in mind. Past and future in panorama unfold. Clearer view of self as unit of race, nation; better mental placement of self in larger picture. Revealing, startling, unexpected experiences with friends, acquaintances, strangers now comes about; this helps in self-estimation. Human contacts demand more in way of aid, advice, support, encouragement; and give more, too. More sense of dependence, and interdependence, with other human beings. Old friends from past reappear. Contacts with older folks deepens. A new type of person turns up, stimulates. Private hopes for self undergo revision; new desires supplant. Certain friendships present lingering problems; others suddenly break up. Some disappointments, problems, alienations, quick shifts happen in connection with step children or sons- and daughters-in-law; with relatives of persons at a distance; with children, or love life, of partners and antagonists; with the legal affairs or partnerships of own children; with beliefs of close kin or neighbors; and in connection with the finances of parents, or some termination involving them. Hobbies, unofficial pursuits, can now be made occupational, if worthy and ripe. Persons handicapped, isolated, underprivileged, or considered "queer" or in advance of times, now ask for friendship and bring valuable experience. You crystallize new, serious, social views.

If you are feeling this influence in your 12th house: Outer life subordinates in importance to inner life. More conscious awareness of emotional-spiritual workings. Clearer understanding of own complexes, fixations, neuroses. Tide of consciousness turns inward. Ability to hear inner promptings. Significant dreams. Latent creativeness struggles to surface. Because of need to explore own subconscious and superconscious workings, the outer life seems to attract experiences involving quiet locations, seclusion, isolation, more being alone, more time to dream, think it over. Sudden flashes of understanding; some periods of stark self-stripping. Responsibility

The Horoscope Detective

MARS

In our desire to improve our powers of observation, deduction, and intuition, attempts to identify the natal sun sign and ascendant must eventually be followed by efforts to surmise the other factors in unknown charts. At some time in the future, this will blossom into the power to read the horoscope from the person under observation, the reverse of our present practice of reading the person from the horoscope under observation.

Last month we went into the detecting of a strong Saturn. Let us now undertake to locate a strong Mars.

We know that the Aries Mars and the Scorpio Mars can seem very different, in spite of a mutual base: our job is to detect Mars itself strong in a chart, after which we can discriminate as to whether what we sense is an Aries or Scorpio Sun or Ascendant, or neither—it could be Mars rising in other signs, Mars at the mid-heaven, or Mars in such aspects as dominate the chart.

There's one sure way to realize we are in the presence of a Mars strong person: feel our solar plexus throb or tighten, and register the rise of blood into our heads. If this happens in a major way, we will remember that we ourselves have a dominant or difficult Mars! If in a minor way, we haven't. Even if we were inattentive, or relaxing, or pre-occupied a moment before, we aren't when we meet this person. A challenge has come to us.

As to what kind of challenge, there are as many as there are people with Mars strong. But some kind of challenge confronts us. The most fundamental one is a challenge of our adequacy or strength: it is as though this person said in words, Who's stronger, you or me? What is meant may be physical strength, or intellectual strength, or strength of resourcefulness, or strength of worldly position, or leadership, or you name it, but there is instant measurement. We feel put on our mettle, or on the defensive. We may react by feeling anger or resentment, or we may feel suddenly vitalized, or warm, or enthusiastic, but whatever the form it takes, we'll recognize Mars—by our solar plexus and our head! Maybe even our muscles.

From this initial impression we know that the person has the intensely personal attitude toward life and people that is the Mars insignia. We proceed to test this, by making our conversation just as impersonal and universal as we can, to see if our subject will instinctively interpret any subject or any comment by reference to him or herself. This or that will remind this person of something in the personal past, or the personal present, or the personal opinion: in some way we will find our conversation brought back to personalities, personal interpretations. If it is really impossible to do this, then we will notice that the attention of this person ebbs; to be revived instantly if we ask a personal question—or ourselves issue what could be taken as a challenge.

If we converse any length of time, we will find ourselves taking sides. Of what? Anything. The urge of Mars strong is to test itself against everything and everyone that crosses its path: to do this, it must have opposition. A debate, an argument, a situation to be dominated, and this person is kindled. You will not find a Mars strong person in the background of a room, a neighborhood, or a cause. The reason for this is that the planet Mars rules the heat of the struggle and therefore does not manifest the poise of completion: Mars strong struggles for the sake of struggling as his inner nature bids him do.

In a group, or in a neighborhood, the Mars strong person is the one you can't overlook, or ignore, even if or when you desire to: you can't just ignore wind, or a speeding car, or a decisive sound, and Mars strong is never passive. This person is likely to be the one who first accosts you; and your relation with him or her will either be the relation of a problem, or the relation of some form of activity. Notice how, in a room, the rest of the group will either face this person, or will exaggeratedly turn the back and deliberately try to seem unconscious. Mars strong must be joined, followed, reconciled, or overcome—there are no alternatives.

While you are in this group, notice other things. Observe whether this person tends to monopolize the conversation, more or less: one minute it will be this person and another, the next minute this person and a different member of the group, the next moment it may be two others and this person, but always this Mars strong person is in the vanguard. Ask this person a taxing question: is it answered instantly, whether the exact information is at hand or not? Discuss the exact meaning of a word: does this person invoke your politeness to listen to his or her opinion before allowing you to consult the dictionary? State a contrary opinion: does a fiery missionary set to work to convert you?

If it happens that you are motoring with this group and your subject should be driving, propose going a new way, or going to a new place, and see what happens: your subject will start off boldly, and if by chance the way should be mistaken or lost, will continue to try to find it, ignoring all opportunities to ask for information locally. Until sure he or she has found the way, when the question may be asked (if someone insists) in such a fashion as to convey that corroboration only is needed.

Yet if this same group should find themselves in a situation demanding resourcefulness or courage, watch your subject rise to the occasion and try, and keep on trying, whether successful or not. Resourcefulness and boldness will be one of your primary clues to a strong Mars.

If there are two proposals as to what your group should do, and one is to go for a walk and the other is to play a game, your Mars strong subject will be back of the latter. Out in the open, this person will evidence boredom or restlessness: may propose running a race, or making a certain distance in a certain set time, or seeing who can do this or that better, etc. Just walking will very soon convince you of a strong Mars, for the person won't continue to do just this. But give him or her a chance to match wits, or strength, or skill, against others in games, any kind, and the evident interest will confirm your hypothesis. Mars strong wants to win, too: it is not the game for the game's sake. His inner urges demand this. This person will register satisfaction at an opponent who makes him or her try hard. And this goes in conversational tilts, too.

If you're in strange company and find your eye riveted by one person who rarely is, or sits, still, you've found Mars strong. You'll notice that the person gets up frequently, usually quickly and energetically, sits down again the same way; places and displaces the feet, or crosses the legs; is fond of using hands, arms, and entire body to emphasize statements—the body seems to be all-of-a-piece, so to speak, it moves as a vital unit in such a way that you don't register the limbs, the arms, the hands, the shoulders, the head, or the torso singly. You're conscious of the whole thing.

And while you're noticing physical clues, see if there's a mark of any kind on the face or head, such as a burn, a scar, an old wound, etc.: this will lead you to suspect either a rising Mars, or an Aries or Scorpio ascendant: perhaps such a sun sign. Go on to the hair: it will have a peculiar vitality that cannot be mistaken; it may even have a tendency to grow straight up in the air in defiance of gravity. Occasionally you will find an Aries type who has distinct hair horns, one on each side of the temples. But any kind of a strong Mars produces hair very much alive; and sometimes crisp or curly from sheer vitality.

The same vitality holds the head erect during pause; but watch this person when moving. You will notice a tendency to rush at things. You will observe that this person comes a little too close rather than the opposite, and when this occurs you will distinctly sense that physical challenge and reaction spoken of at the outset. If you're observing a more than usually strong Mars type you'll be struck with a motion of the head that gives you a queer sensation of butting—there's no other term for it. It usually takes a sidewise form. Look at the hands: the fingers will be blunt, or square, or short, or all three (but other planets of equal strength will modify, remember). You'll notice as you analyze the appearance that there is a correspondence between the forehead and the shoulders: both are broad. The body isn't likely to be tall, but it is likely to give an impression of compact, or stocky, strength and vitality: so is the voice, which may even be rather louder than average and is often all on one note, without relief. If it isn't, then you will guess Scorpio; for this voice can be low while at the same time it gives the same impression of intensity and calls attention to itself just as directly—maybe more so. If you've discovered Scorpio, you'll look at the brows, to see if they are rather noticeable, or whether the eyes themselves are more deeply set than average.

The health will be your next point of observation. It is not hard to get this person talking in personal terms, so find out what the health tendencies have been. You are expecting headaches, or any form of cerebral congestion; various disorders of the eyes and brain; eruptions, especially on the head and face. You may find ruptures, swellings, fevers and inflammations have been typical. Any or all of these will show you you're on the right track. So will trouble with the left ear. So will liability to contagious and infectious diseases. And if it's Scorpio, to problems involving the sex organs or the anus; it's harder to find out about this, though. Strangely enough, what will be most typical of all will be the statement that no health ailments have been experienced: for Mars strong is too vital and healthy to be a subject for anything short of quick and violent problems.

If your Mars subject happens to be of the best examples of the influence of this planet, a person obviously more highly evolved, the physical challenge will not react directly on your solar plexus and head, but instead you will feel a gratifying sensation of strength and vitality being imparted to you, a sensation of drawing from this person physical stimulation. You will distinctly like to be near him or her.

Notice that even in the best types there is that insistent urge to lead or be first? They are the leaned-against of the world, not the leaners. This is a good clue.

A strong Mars identifies with a good many apologies, or perhaps only should. Somehow these persons constantly find themselves in situations that call for redress; so if you notice this necessity prominent in the life of someone you're in contact with, follow it up. You will find it is due to the impetuosity, the rashness, the quickness, the (alas!) thoughtlessness, the act-before-thought tendency.

One of the weaknesses by which you'll recognize an influential Mars is connected with time. Mars doesn't rule time, of course, Saturn does; and maybe that's why Mars doesn't manage it well or value it. For with Mars strong, the person can't wait: everything must be now. No matter at what time they make up their minds to do a thing, order a thing, or get a thing done, the results are demanded right away. If you observe someone placing an order at 4:27 pm, or midway of Saturday morning, and then arguing, commanding, strategizing, to get it delivered without waiting, it'll be your subject with a strong Mars. If you see someone coming out of a postoffice with five letters all opened: or standing at an open front door unwrapping a just-delivered package; or holding up traffic by examining a book just purchased, you'll be justified in guessing that Mars strong couldn't wait.

Yet this same tendency will also reveal itself to you as instant adaptation, as instant response to any demand upon it. Remember we tried out a strong Saturn by suggesting that something unanticipated be done right away? Well, when we suggest this to our Mars strong person the thing will be done as instantly as suggested. Mars strong can turn a corner on two wheels any minute. It receives the new, catches fire, and expresses in terms of action.

Yet this person is usually late for an appointment. Or arrives in the very nick of time.

Having this person work for you is one way to observe the typicalities. Give an assignment: if it is undertaken instantly albeit without the requisite knowledge or skill, and with actual resentment of offered advice or help, you've got one clue. A trail of half-completed jobs, in spite of constant activity on the part of your worker, is another clue. Disobedience is a very good clue; so is sturdy independence. Independence of your authority, or even occasions when the authority changed hands, is a clue. And watch for lack of foresight. If you find that your worker spends as easily as he or she earns, it's the influence of an active Mars.

Whether as a worker, or a neighbor, or a member of a family, the one with this strong Mars will Keep Up With The Joneses. For this is another way of accepting a challenge. And still another way is his or her championship of personal friends: no fault is seen in these friends. If you note that this person idolizes, or hero-worships, well known people, record it; also if you hear this person refer to well known persons by their given names, or by a nickname. And en passant this person is usually given to nicknames, and to slang.

And to mathematics. And to playing around with tools, if a man. Both these are valuable clues.

If for some reason you're hesitating between Aries and Scorpio in your deducing, wait patiently until something rouses anger in your subject. If it is Aries that is strong, the temper will flare up harshly, even violently, but you will also see it run down in the same quick way it arose. If it is Scorpio that is strong, it won't run down; you can test it, considerably later, and find fire still smoldering under the decent covering of polite ashes. Use your patience in another way; wait until something happens that Scorpio doesn't know you know, and if a mystery is made of it, it's Scorpio all right. Your Aries-Mars subject, on the other hand, will be so frank it hurts! Try letting him or her in on some of your more reserved intimacies, or your current secrets: if you do not warn your subject, these will be as candidly mentioned and discussed in public as will the weather.

Which leads to an unailing clue: if you hear a man or woman blithely introducing into the conversation some of the things usually held sacrosanct between lovers or mates, even in the presence of the lover or mate, guess Mars. If the introduction is not blithe, but suggestive or secretive, guess Scorpio Mars. Any Mars can be detected by tossing sex into the conversational ring, for the vitality naturally expresses strongly in physical passions. If you know, or can hear, of the sex life of your subject, you will have no difficulty in distinguishing between the Aries and the Scorpio Mars: the former will leave here too a trail of uncompleted jobs, while the latter is very thorough.

You'll be able to narrow down the possible locations of the planet after you have known the person a while. Just listen and notice, add one little thing to another small item. Pretty soon you'll notice your material, thus accumulated, beginning to focus; you'll find that all these Mars clues will center around the various things ruled by a certain house. Then you've succeeded in placing it. Perhaps you hear a story of someone not that way except when in the home—that'll be a 4th house Mars; or when with his or her children—that'll be a 5th house Mars; or when dealing with servants, inferiors—that'll be a 6th house Mars; and so on.

It is possible to locate any aspects to this Mars with a little time and effort. If you notice a tendency to have friction with older people, or to have contempt for the past, to sneer at order, to refuse to be bound by steady duties, look for a Saturn-to-Mars aspect. If there's a tendency to bet wildly, to spend very extravagantly, to have no caution at all, Jupiter will be in square or opposition. Watch, and you can deduce all the other planets the same way.

Next month here we will try to locate the third planet of our series.

ities accruing from past wrong actions and attitudes appear for acknowledgement and correction. Gradually new inner attitudes develop. Secrets, past and current, either become lingering problems, or unexpectedly break out—or both. This extends to aliases, nom-de-plumes, involvement with secret societies, etc. More responsibility, work, problems, and also quick and unexpected experiences, connected with aunts and uncles; the finances of friends; short occupational journeys; health of partners, and of open enemies; domestic life of persons at a distance; legal affairs of inferiors, also their mates, partners; terminations connected with own children; beliefs held by family members, or their travels; the occupations and reputations of your brothers, sisters, and neighbors. New types of experience, that may present problems, involving large institutions, jails, hospitals, asylums, reformatories, sanitariums, poorhouses, welfare work, social service or its workers, detectives. Some type of regulation dress, or uniform, may become desirable or necessary. Entirely unexpected scandal may appear, and linger on; either from past causes, or those current.

JAPAN NOT LIKELY TO INVADE INDIA

*May Make a
Very Costly Mistake*

Russia Now Knows It Will Come Through to Final Victory

Despite surface indications of past months, there is a rising tide of confidence in Russia which is going to continue mounting until victory has been attained by the Allied Nations. This does not mean that Russia's troubles are over—in fact, the indications for this month are for some of the fiercest fighting of the entire war on the eastern front. There is, looking at conditions in Berlin, evidence that this October brings distinctly bad news concerning her military hopes, which may link up with the Russian campaign and western fronts.

Both Coasts of N. America Threatened

The few who complain of air raid drills and precautions can thank our efficient defense of both east and west coasts of North America if that is all they can find to be uncomfortable about this October. Those in the east will have reason to feel secure, at least temporarily, a bit sooner than will those in the west. In the west, the tendency is to feel more secure than really is the case, for any relaxing of vigilance would bring unpleasantness. A little further out into the Atlantic, however, there is distinct likelihood of increased submarine and raider attacks against shipping this month—with indications that increased resistance to them will be made.

Aleutians, Hawaii in More Action

There is possibility of a bold sortie by the Japanese in the direction of Alaska this month, as well as in the vicinity of Hawaii, possibly for the purpose of regaining the face recently lost in the latter district. But their prospects are slim; they will almost certainly lose more of their precious face if they attempt it. Another indication of the same vibrations is an increase of our preparations and readiness for whatever happens in these same locations.

Southern and Eastern South America Aroused

The flames of war in the minds of men will sweep on toward the eastern and southern portion of South America this month. If not already in the conflict officially, it is quite possible that Argentina will have such a wave of popular feel-

If Japan has made no mass movement toward India before October 1st, she is not likely to do so now, for there is distinct astrological evidence that she will be highly occupied elsewhere, as well as realizing that India would be too hot to handle. India is still in danger this month, but to nowhere near the extent that obtained earlier this Fall and late in the Summer. The strength of India will not be the deciding factor, for India is still in the throes of its inner divisions and will be for a considerable period; the trouble will be because of the amount of men and material Japan would require, plus the unstable condition of her supply lines to this remote distance. Another factor will be in the councils of the Japanese government; it may make a big strategic blunder.

ing that even a pro-Nazi government would have to do something about it. Brazil is being pushed closer and closer toward the whirlpool (if not already in it by the time this is printed). It is impossible for these nations to remain out of it.

East Indies, Indo-China in War Scene

The entire coast of China, Indo-China, the Penang Peninsula and most of the East Indies has a strong popular impulse to resist and drive out the invader this month. It is a situation quite similar to that of the second front in France, where the enslaved populace needs only the weapons and the leaders to rise in their might, for their morale is higher now than it has been since the beginning of the war. Guerrilla activities will undoubtedly increase in this territory, and transport will also be difficult over the waters involved. The Japanese are now feeling the fact that they have spread themselves out much too thinly for anything resembling permanent conquest, and very few, if any, favorable reports will go back to Tokyo from the army and navy officers engaged in trying to hold down occupied territory.

Saboteurs and Fifth Column Increase Pressure in U.S.A.

Although much has been done toward suppression and elimination of sabotage and fifth column work, the gentry engaged in this type of warfare are still with us. In fact, there is reason to believe their numbers have increased because of influx of new talent from our enemies' training schools. All this is likely to become more and more apparent this month and next, because

Full Weight of U.S. Effort Soon to Be Felt in Germany

Hitler's and Germany's Nemesis has much to do with the United States and its leaders (without in any way deprecating the great efforts and sacrifices of our allies who have already done so much for us). American force will be felt by Germany this month, both over German soil and in occupied territory, more than ever before, greatly to the

Churchill's October Difficult

The last half of September and most of the month of October are shown astrologically as multiplying the problems, both personal and governmental, of Winston Churchill. It may be a storm in English political circles; it may be personal fatigue, or both. But one thing is certain: the pressure on this great leader is and will continue to be terrific. If he comes through the rough weather he will experience an inflow of new strength which will sustain him for quite awhile. His well being should now be safeguarded.

personal terror and dismay of Hitler and the minor officers of Nazi aggression. But this is not all. The American idea is penetrating deeper and deeper into the minds of the German people and they are all feeling the weight of free thinking from outside their borders. This will increase for the balance of the year at least.

Turkey and Middle East on Hot Spot

The Mediterranean and Middle East have violent indications for most of the month of October. This is a combination of outside attack and inner difficulty among the people and the Ins and Outs of local governments. This applies to Turkey, which is still in a most uncomfortable and somewhat unstable situation with great national forces arrayed on all sides, all of which are vying for the territory and moral, if not military, support of Ankara. The Key Cycles of the Turkish capital for the balance of 1942 show wavering of the public mind; and not until December is there clear definition of governmental policy. The secret jockeying for power here is being carried on with great intensity.

Wynn's Aspect Interpretation Course

Lesson IV

Setting Up an Aspect's Horoscope

Have you ever figured out how many aspects there could be in one horoscope? How many different aspects there could be between the planets for all time and how many combinations of the possibilities for one chart there could be? It can be done, if you have the patience, but I haven't the time.

I started to figure out the second one of those questions recently, but had to quit. Here's what I did and how far it got me:

The first question, about the possible number of aspects in one horoscope, is easy. There are 45, although the average actually in a chart is probably nearer one-quarter that number. The 45 total represents the number of two-planet aspects if every planet were in aspect to every other planet, using ten planets.

If there are 45 combinations of 2 planets (which is correct), each pair could theoretically be in 12 different house-aspects, which would make 540 different planet-aspect combinations. As each could be in 12 different signs, or combinations of signs, we multiply  $540 \times 12$  and get 6,480 planet-aspect-sign combinations.

Now don't run away—this isn't going to hurt anyone, for we aren't going to attempt to memorize all those combinations.

The problem here gently glides into a matter of how many different combinations of 45 aspects (possible in one chart) are there in 6,480 aspects (all that are possible in eternity)? That is where I found I didn't have time. I got out the old slide rule and started, according to the formula in MATHEMATICS FOR SELF STUDY, by Thompson, on page 265 of the Algebra volume. I got up to the amazing figure of 4,200 billion before I had gone one-millionth of the distance I could see before me, so I paused and thought about it. What I thought was this:

Less than 3 billion people are born all over the world in a century, but suppose it were that many—dividing 4,200 by 3 we get 1,400 centuries before even one-millionth of the possibilities are exhausted. All right, divide it by a quarter because there aren't 45 aspects in every horoscope; you still have 350 centuries—well, there wouldn't be that many combinations if all we were using was 11 out of 6,480. So we're still dealing with only one-millionth of the possibilities in the first computation, so the answer would be up in the hundreds of centuries anyway. So I quit.

The point of all this is that with so many possible different combinations of aspects-planets-signs it is folly to attempt to memorize them. The student who would achieve proficiency must do it, not by memory, but by method.

The Method

My experience has led me to the conclusion that in all aspect interpreting we have this:

Rule 1. Every aspect must be interpreted in its final analysis according to the entire horoscope in which it is found.

Properly to make this final analysis we must take several steps in our work. These steps are:

(a) Analysis of the aspect's own "horoscope."

(b) Observation of relations of all other planets in the heavens at the time to the planets in the aspect under observation.

(c) Evaluating the foregoing factors as they fall in the native's horoscope of birth.

The foregoing rule and its steps of analysis become clear when we would learn the individual meanings of the same aspect in the same signs and houses of two or more people born on different dates, or of different people born at different places and hours on the same date.

For instance, two people could have Moon-Jupiter oppositions in almost the same degrees of the same signs and be born more than seven months apart. This would be the case if Mr. A were born September 25, 1920, and Mr. B were born May 2, 1921. On the first of these dates, Moon was opposing Jupiter in Pisces-Virgo 7°; on the second of these dates, the same bodies were in the same aspect in Pisces-Virgo 9°. We shall return to these gentlemen, but first let us state the rule for setting up the aspect's "horoscope."

(a) To set up the "horoscope" of an aspect: Place the slower moving of the two planets in aspect to each other on the ascendant of an Equilibrium chart. The house cusp on or within orb of which the other, faster moving planet falls determines the primary nature of the aspect. Thus, in the Moon-Jupiter opposition, Jupiter takes the ascendant of the chart, and the Moon falls on or within orb of the 7th cusp. This is therefore a 7th-house aspect, as are all oppositions. (Had we been setting up a trine or square, the cusp holding the Moon would determine which trine or square it was.)

Because we know we have a 7th-house aspect, we are immediately aware that it will affect the native's marriage, partnership, legal and open opposition affairs of life—we know which house is related to the nature of the essential vibration between the two. We must keep this in mind, regardless of where the aspect may fall in the natal horoscope.

Setting up the aspect's horoscope we get Fig. 5 when Jupiter is in Virgo and the Moon is in Pisces. At once we know more about this particular aspect: we know that Jupiter is in its 10th house-sign (h-s) and the Moon is in its 9th h-s. This informs us that occupation, reputation, position, fame and other 10th house matters will be important in the native's 7th house affairs, for this is a 7th-house aspect; we also know that religion, travel and other 9th house matters will be involved. For interpretation of the fact that the signs occupied are of the Common quality and Earth and Water elements, see the preceding lesson.

We also see in Fig. 5 which houses of the aspect are ruled by each planet. Jupiter rules the 4th and the Moon rules the 11th, because their respective signs are on those houses of the aspect "horoscope." Thus we see that there will be home, family and estate (4th house) matters prominent in the life of whomever has this particular aspect. And we see that friends, the money of occupation and other 11th house matters will also be prominent.

Up to this point, please note, the interpretation applies to anyone having the same aspect in the same signs between the same two planets. The foregoing tips on interpretation apply equally well to both Mr. A and Mr. B. From here on, however, we shall inspect the difference between what this aspect which they have in common means to them.

As we move from step (a) to step (b) and from there to step (c) the interpretation becomes more and more personal to the owner of it, excluding more and more other people who have the same configuration in the same signs.

(b) Relationship of other planets to those in the aspect. Outside of the planets in aspect to each other, the first thing to look at is the Sun, if it is not the slower moving of the two and hence not on the aspect ascendant. The reason for this is that the Sun position determines which POA (planet on ascendant) Equilibrium chart the aspect dominates. This is readily seen in Figs. 6 and 7. Jupiter rules the 3rd sign from the Sun in Libra in Fig. 6 (Mr. A), which makes this chart the Equilibrium III. Jupiter rules the 8th sign from the Sun in Fig. 7 (Mr. B), which makes it the Equilibrium VIII.

This gives us the fact that any Equilibrium chart which is also an aspect chart is more influential in the character and life of the individual than would otherwise be the case. All planets are the ascendants of one or two Equilibrium charts; those in which other planets are within orb of cusps (see Lessons I and II) are most noticeable in the motivations and experiences of the native. In these cases, Mr. A will find that the 7th house indications derived from step (a) will always be referred to his lower mind, have something to do with his brothers and sisters or neighbors, and in other ways link in with his 3rd house affairs, for this aspect is the foundation of his Equilibrium III. Similarly as regards Mr. B's 8th house affairs, for it is his Equilibrium VIII.

Secondary Equilibrium significance of an aspect: Put the faster moving of the two planets in aspect on the ascendant of an Equilibrium chart (by turning it till the other planet is so situated) and you have the next most important influence of that aspect, for it also satisfies the foregoing rule about the Equilibrium chart which is also an aspect chart. The reason it is secondary to the chart of the slower moving body on the ascendant is that when the faster mover is there the other has passed the cusp of the Equilibrium based on the degree of the faster mover. This does not show in Figs. 6 and 7, because both planets in the aspect are in the degree of perfection of aspect. If, however, the Moon were shown as within orb, approaching the degree held by Jupiter, the point would be entirely obvious.

In the case of Mr. A (Sun in Libra) the Moon rules the solar 10th, making this secondary Equilibrium influence an addition to the 10th house influence already mentioned (Jupiter in its 10th h-s) for him. In the case of Mr. B (Sun in Taurus) this secondary Equilibrium influence is his Equilibrium III for the Moon rules the 3rd sign from Taurus.

In the two specific cases here presented, the ponderous bodies Pluto, Neptune, Uranus and Saturn are in substantially the same relations to the Moon-Jupiter opposition; but it is readily to be seen that everything else in Figs. 6 and 7 is very different.

So let us look at these charts as Equilibriums, now that we have established them as such. The entire chart, including all the planets, being a specific Equilibrium in the life and character of its owner, all the planets become significant to that aspect in the manner shown by that Equilibrium. In the case of Mr. A (Fig. 6) we see the planets of that date in the houses which explain his 3rd house affairs (Equilibrium III), the 7th house being the nature of this aspect and therefore the dominant of the particular Equilibrium matters so represented. The

Solving Your Interpretation Problems

If puzzled in reading your own or a friend's chart, select the configuration most difficult to you and submit it to Mrs. Kelley. Please do not ask her to interpret an entire horoscope—be reasonable. Send your interpretation problems to her in care of this magazine, Scarsdale, N. Y.

by Agnes T. Kelley

"Was born Oct. 15, 1898, Fargo, N. D., 5:20 pm; have Aries rising, and Mars (my ruler) in Cancer in 4th squares Sun, Mercury, Jupiter and Moon all in Libra in the 7th house. After considerable turmoil in marriage am now married for the 4th time, happily, we hope permanently. Please give me help on this configuration. My present wife was born July 18, 1905."

W. E. R.

You ask if this configuration is trying to discourage you on the marital relationship or trying to force you into experiences necessary to soul growth? The answer is decidedly the latter: the planetary forces are never trying to discourage us from experiences but always to encourage us to grow through facing and working our way through such experiences as are next in our development. Sharing with others, becoming conscious of their viewpoints and their rights, becoming aware of others as themselves rather than as in this or that relation to you—this experience is immediately indicated in your progress. So that if you were to refuse it, you would be merely postponing the inevitable. Sometime, later, you would still have it to live through. Your persistence in marrying again and again, therefore, was right; although your attitudes and acts while married may have been open to criticism. You alone can know about that. Only you know too whether all this experience has taught you things you were not conscious of when you started: if it has, if you have learned something that is now a vital part of your consciousness, then you have gained through this square in the way intended. And I believe you can have a happy marriage.

But let me call a few points to your attention. This marriage stimulates your wife's positiveness to such an extent that there may be extremes. These extremes may take the form of roused ambition, initiative, increased activity, restlessness, and almost certainly a generosity or impracticality with money—the latter may not be natural to her alone, but comes about because of the mutual planetary chemistry. That is point number one. Point number two is that the marriage will stimulate a certain indrawing on her part, perhaps a necessity to keep certain secrets; and this is tied in with your ambition, or reputation, or occupation. Point number three, and the most important point of all: while she remains your wife, her will power will tend to become constrained in some way, she may feel inhibited in her action or decision, and her personal growth, gains, expansion, will be subject to the same influence. This third point will be found in the positions of her Mars and Jupiter, which in your chart fall into intercepted signs in your first and seventh houses. If you can keep this in mind to the extent that you constantly try not to interfere with her full expression and growth, you will have a better chance of a happy marriage.

In regard to your own chart, while it is true that your ruler Mars squares your Libra satellitium, it is equally true that your Neptune trines it. And this latter guarantees you much spiritual growth when the Mars necessity (turmoil, friction, disruption, opposition, etc.) has been worked through. Neptune on your 3rd cusp assures you that this spiritual gain will be a conscious one (3rd ruling lower mind). I believe it to be this position and aspect of your Neptune that makes you state, "I am conscious of a mental mission; with Cancer representing the public and this mobilizing power of the squares to the other person (7th), do you think this mission can be authentic or is it just a deceptive state I have permitted myself? Is the mission a personal reformation, rather than an impersonal—public—one?" And I believe you have answered your own question in your last sentence. Any receptivity to the planet Neptune makes us feel that we are in tune with something others aren't in tune with, and from that we argue that we have a mission. But there can be no general, public mission undertaken by anyone who has not as yet conquered and mastered a reasonable part of his own nature. Our first mission is to make ourselves ready for an ultimate mission. Neptune is stirring you up to this first mission. By the way, have you developed any distinct creative talent? You should be able to.

"I have always had a pervading sense of necessity to prove to others that I am not a failure, am worthy of credit, etc.; yet I have not yet failed externally, and there seems no reason why this compulsion should be so strong in me. Would it be because I have a Taurus mid-heaven?"

A. T.

I personally believe you will find the source of this inner compulsion not in your mid-heaven but in the fact that the same sign is on your ascendant and 12th cusp.

I have observed many times that when the ascendant draws the 12th house into it, the native is permanently conscious of some necessity to rid him or herself of secrets, to prove to the rest of the world that there is no under-lying life that is less than worthy, to demonstrate frankness and lack of secretion. Yet not always is there any reason for this urge to prove something that has not drawn an accusation: that is, no reason easy to point to. The real reason is this merging of the subconscious life (12th) with the open, observable activity signified by the ascendant. In the subconscious of every one of us is a dormant memory of all our past errors, which functions in this life as our "conscience." It is this dormant memory that keeps nudging us. Those of us who have no connection between the 12th and 1st experience this nudging in private, or in other ways according to our particular chart; but the tie between 12th and 1st makes us want to clear ourselves publicly of something we cannot exactly name.

"When two planets other than the Sun and Mercury are in close or exact conjunction, are they called combust? I have looked in several text books and do not see it mentioned."

E. E. N.

As far as my knowledge goes, they are not called combust. This is a point raised by astrologers among themselves fairly frequently. There are many theories about it, but as you say the text books do not seem to mention it. If you, or any other reader, come into possession of more information on this point, will you be good enough to share it with me? I would appreciate it.

"I am coming to the point of considering marriage; will you please tell me how to read a man's moon in regard to women?"

M. M. S.

I could wish you had given me data. But perhaps you want the general rules only. A man's moon will show faithfully his attitude toward women, toward all women; his fundamental reaction to womenkind.

Example: man with moon in Capricorn, conjunction Saturn on one side and Jupiter on the other, and having no other aspects. This man has shown a primarily protective attitude toward the women in his life, and secondarily an attitude that demands worth in them. The protective instinct is the Jupiter conjunction, of course: it gives him a tolerant sense of generosity. Saturn contributes a sense of duty which completes this. The demand for worthwhile women comes partly from both: Saturn makes him want to respect them for their achievements, position, ambition and so on (10th house influence, corresponding to Saturn), while Jupiter makes him desire that they shall be educated, informed, broad-minded, philosophic.

SOLVING YOUR INTERPRETATION PROBLEMS

Another example: man with moon in Aries opposing his Mars, no other aspects. This man's life shows an unbroken record of passionate experiences with women—"passionate" covering a wide range of different passions. His attitude toward women is primarily one of either sex excess or alienation, fighting, opposition. It might be summed up as, "What's she got for me in the way of sex?" If he finds there is nothing, or that the woman resists or repulses him, there follows the other passions: antagonism, challenge, enmity, desire to hurt, and so on.

But please let me call to your attention a basic point in interpretation. It is that the state of evolution of the native is the all-important factor in delineation. This aspect just mentioned, Moon-opposing-Mars from a Mars sign, would work out differently in the life of a native more evolved. It would still be Martian, of course, but the higher vibrations of the planet.

"I have Sun square Neptune but Moon trine Neptune; and I have Mars trining Venus but Uranus opposing Venus. Will you straighten me out on the interpretation of these conflicts?"

Mrs. V. deB.

In things Neptunian you have earned both good and bad experiences; in things Venusian the same—both good and bad. If you understand and accept the law of karma (compensation, or effect following cause) you know that your previous lives have brought you this result: you have had previous good motives and done previously good actions in Neptunian ways and Venusian ways, yet at the same time (or in the same life) have also incurred necessity for correction, the latter bringing about your present square and opposition.

Your present experiences will include Neptunian problems with men and superiors (the Sun) but inspiration and artistic stimulation (Neptune) through women (the Moon). Men may present to you problems inclusive of fraud, deceit, treachery, lying, drink or drug habits, secret enmities, limitation, subtle emotional problems. While women can be the means of stimulating your psychic sensibilities, bringing you in touch with occult subjects, helping you develop your real creative potentials, possibly pre-sending you to the public in some such ways. Also, your own positive or masculine side will find some difficulties in getting expressed, while your receptive or feminine side (and each of us has both in the one life) will tend to flow freely into expression. You could have Neptunian problems in love life, and with children (Sun ruling natural 5th); but you will also have happy, beautiful, and inspiring experiences in home life (Moon 4th).

Your Mars trine Venus shows that you have evolved a balanced, harmonious affectionate nature (balance between giving—Mars—and taking—Venus—and between the passions—Mars—and love, affection—Venus) yet you still have a tendency to unbalanced reactions when up against an emergency or when required to make immediate emotional decisions (Uranus). There will be in your present life some quick alienations, losses, inexplicable reversals of an emotional type which you may be at a loss to account for; and they can only be accounted for by recourse to the law of compensation—for in some previous life you yourself subjected another to this unreasonable and destructive treatment, and now have the opportunity to learn why this is wrong by experiencing it in your turn.

It would seem, would it not, that since you have these conflicts involving the essentially emotional planets Venus and Neptune and Moon, that in a large sense your greatest need in this life is to master and synchronize your emotional life and understandings?

"I have a planet in the 10th house, but not in the sign on the 10th cusp: it is in the sign ruling the 11th cusp. Will this planet have the greatest influence in 10th or 11th house affairs?"

B. R.

I believe it to be true that a 10th house planet has the greatest influence in 10th house affairs when in the sign on the mid-heaven. But I also believe that its influence is felt in 10th house matters even though it be occupying the sign ruling the 11th; it will have a secondary—minor—influence in affairs of the 11th house. When an influence is divided it cannot be as strong as though undivided: this is the principle involved in interpretation.

Three Scales?

Dear Wynn: For seven years I've had a triangle in my home life. Was divorced in 1936 but we went back together in '37. He doesn't seem to want a divorce, in fact has become very angry when I have suggested it: says he wants to live with me, says he loves me. But leaves me every week end Saturday noon and returns Monday noon.

For five weeks now he has been confined to his bed with heart ailment. I've gladly taken care of him. He is getting along fine and will soon be able to sit up. Now comes the question of whether this affair will continue after his illness. His birthdate is Feb. 25, 1887, 6 pm. Mine is June 28, 1892, at 11:50 pm midnight. The other woman November 19, 1894.

Is there happiness, companionship, ahead for us? I'm getting too old to keep this up although I do care for him still. Please tell me if he would be happier with her?

MRS. G. A. W.

(Reply:) I see in you a woman bigger than the average; but one who needs directionalizing of her essentially good motives. You have undertaken a task requiring impersonality, detachment, unselfishness, charity and greater understanding; the fact that you were able to undertake it at all and to keep it up for a reasonable time proves your wider potential and good motives. The fact that you are coming to the conclusion that it can't be kept up, that you realize you have not got "companionship, happiness" through it, proves that you are realizing that some error exists, and that your efforts need directionalizing.

You have lost nothing through your effort. You have gained a great deal. You have added unto yourself the very qualities your effort demanded of you—charity, unselfishness, growing understanding of others. This is your reward and your wealth.

Let us see where the error comes in. Did you read the two part article by Manly P. Hall in the August and September issues on "The Astrology of Your Emotional Life"? I recommend that you study it, if you haven't done so yet.

The fundamental reason for marriage at this stage of race development is the equal development and growth of the two poles within each of us: masculine and feminine. As a woman, your masculinity is latent; as a man, your husband's femininity is latent. Each has the urge to supply what is needed to complete the two poles, to bring about a balance within the nature. A mate does this by stimulating the latent sex. This results in essential polarity. Each grows through the other. It is not hard to observe this law working in the case of bachelors and spinsters when we contrast them with mated persons: the former lack the completion of balance. This is so even when the marriage is not a truly happy one. (Libra—7th house—balance: marriage.)

A balance is achieved by equal weights at (two) opposite poles. There are only two poles in any balance.

Now what can we say happens when three weights are in question? There is no balance achieved or possible. All three weights are rendered useless and mutually obstructive. Each of the three is a potential balance, but because of the un-natural grouping, is prevented from being that which it could be.

This physical sphere of life works on the primary law of polarity. Observe it all around you. There is no attraction but love or hate: lacking some degree of either of these, individuals can be brought into close contact and drift past each other, oblivious; but love attracts love, and hate, hate. (Hate draws people together just as inevitably as does love.) All life is polarity: expend-recoup, do wrong-repent, wake-sleep, cause-effect, etc., etc. Realize this completely, and you will be able to solve your own situation.

It is true that in each human being there is a many-ness which reaches out in many directions for response and experience. Each of us, apparently a whole, is in reality composed of many parts (character factors) inherited from many lives: it is this which enables us to respond to so many types of people, having something in us for each of them. Your husband is obeying an urge to gratify this many-ness—but, he is overlooking the fact that he is trying to break a law of nature, and that the result must inevitably be that he is the one broken.

In spite of your good motives, can you now realize that by lending yourself to his mistake you have been contributing to his delinquency? And that this is what must be rectified when and as you fully realize it?

Think over in your mind what has happened to your husband's character while this has been going on. At first there was in his mind either doubt, self-condemnation, or defiance: for any individual attaining adulthood in our present civilization would have to set up his personal desire for self-gratification against what he well knows are our present moral and social laws. This conflict in his mind could have been turned several ways, at the time. Your allowing him to continue doing wrong (being selfish, irresponsible, uncooperative, taking something for nothing, etc.) has enabled his state of mind to harden into a callous demand for more and more sacrifice on the part of others so that he may continue his selfishness; and at the moment it would be considerably harder to make him see the light than it would have been at the outset.

We do no good when we indulge others, no matter how good our own motives. We only harm others. Through our indulgence of their errors, they deteriorate. Our job is always to help others to carry their burdens (responsibilities) never to help them to lay these down.

Your three charts are an excellent study for any astrological student. You give me no places of birth; but even without this factor, these charts are unusually interesting. They present quite a water-sign-emotional complex. You yourself have three planets in Cancer, trine one in Scorpio; your husband has four planets in Pisces trine one each in Cancer and Scorpio; the other woman has five planets in Scorpio (!!) trine one in Cancer. And in all three cases, the natal Sun is the major factor involved. I believe it to be this instinctive, unarguable sympathy which has enabled the three-way problem to continue at all. Your husband's Scorpio Jupiter falls conjunct the other woman's nest of Scorpio planets—this is a primary attraction, strengthened by his four Pisces planets in trine. While his Cancer Saturn is the planet which falls conjunct your three Cancer planets—working out as an urge toward permanency with you, albeit accompanied by some hardship and problems. But his heavy Pisces accent is also trine to you.

I do not believe it to be wise for any individual to evade the personal necessity for decision—through which we grow—by asking another to make this decision. I believe that all we can do for each other is to present any further experience, or further knowledge, or further thought, to each other's attention and allow the decision to be personal, after effort. So you might think over what has been here discussed, think over Mr. Hall's articles (and perhaps obtain from him more of his works on the same subject) and when you are ready, come to your decision.

And best wishes to you.

Lions in the Path

Dear Wynn: My birthdate, March 15th, 1906, near 9 pm, 52 miles north of Mobile, Ala. Why am I always meeting Leo persons of the opposite sex and falling for them, or at least having an infatuation for them, since that is what it turns out to be?

I met and married a Leo when I was 14 years old (born July 24, 1899). We separated May 30, 1929. Then I met Leo, born Aug. 16, 1912 (my junior) and we went together for two years, busted up, but are still friends. Next was Leo, born Aug. 3rd, 1903, the meanest man on earth but good at heart. Now all of these people wanted to marry me, or so they said. So Leo 1903 and I broke up; I was afraid of him. He did marry, killed his wife, and a few months later himself.

Next I met and married Libra, my present husband, born Sept. 30, 1901; but in spite of me this marriage has gone on the rocks, though I am not divorced. Now I have met Leo again, and this is what I am asking about. First let me say I am no fool; I know what the difference in ages could mean. But the infatuation has begun. He knows I am older than himself, but he doesn't know how much. I don't mean to try to fool him if it should go that far; I will tell him everything. I don't look my age, I am taken to be twenty-six or seven years old. This present Leo was born Aug. 14, 1915 or 1916, I haven't found out the exact year yet.

Does he mean the things he says? Am I being a fool to spend time with him? Will this end as the other Leo friendships have? At times I think we could be happy together, but the age difference is in my mind. Tell me what to do: try to patch up the present marriage, or go ahead and divorce, or quit being a fool. To tell the fact, I am just the one big word, "afraid"—and of more than one thing.

MRS. M. C.

(Reply:) If you were born at 9 pm, you have the last half of Libra on Ascendant and in your first house; and according to the way the planets fall in this chart, it is possible that 9 or before (probably not later) is your correct time. For this places your Pisces Sun just inside the 6th house, together with your Aries Venus and Mercury; while your Mars, at the very end of Aries, is in your 7th house. Your Pisces Saturn, ruling 4th, is in 5th. Your Sagittarian Moon opposes your Gemini Jupiter from 2nd to 8th, and squares your Saturn.

And, last but not least, this places the disputed sign Leo on your 11th cusp, that of friendships. Please notice that you yourself have (correctly) diagnosed these Leo experiences as "friendships." And after "busting up," you are still "friends."

Now this is not accidental. Nothing in the universe is. Your chart ties up your 5th and 11th houses and experiences all through your life; because you have the natural 5th sign, Leo, on the 11th cusp, and the natural 11th sign, Aquarius, on the 5th. Or we could put it this way: you have the sign of friendship on your department of love, and the sign of love on the department of friendship. What does this signify? Just what you have been going through: a life long effort to graduate from purely personal (self-ish) love to the next step, friendship. You have an Aquarian love ideal (on 5th cusp) and this leads you to seek those whose Suns fall into your natural Aquarian house, the 11th. In your efforts to grow, you constantly relapse into the former ideal of purely personal love; then try again to raise it to bigger, more impersonal levels.

But don't overlook the tenant in your love house: Saturn. Don't overlook it for ever—not that you could. It is working now, in spite of your ignoring of it. Ever and again, when the tests of time, responsibility, truth, and patience (all key words of Saturn) come to you, you apparently evade them. So, you are compelled to take the alternative, loss (another Saturn keyword).

Still another keyword of Saturn is fear. This is one source of the "being afraid" you speak of; another is the presence of your forceful or violent Mars in its own Martian sign Aries in your house of marriage, the 7th. A third is the position of your Sun at 6th: your Sun in the natural sign of secrets, half-submerged motives, latent memory, and conscience—Pisces. This sun in the department of inferiors and inferior feelings, or inferiority complexes.

Do I think this present Leo experience will end as the others have? Yes. I do. So do you. "The form of the key is in every lock"; you have answered yourself in your words, "Should I try to patch up the present marriage, or go ahead and divorce, or quit being a fool . . ." You have named it. No matter how we try to fool ourselves with wishful thinking, there comes a time when reality will not be denied.

Examine your own choice of expression when you say, "In spite of me this marriage has gone on the rocks . . ." and then instantly follow it with your description of your present affair, although married.

Your Moon, which plays so vital and fundamental a part in the life of every woman, is square your 5th house Saturn, and opposes your 8th house Jupiter. You react exactly. When confronted with the Saturn tests (before mentioned) you swing immediately into Jupiterian excesses in your love life (Jupiter in your house of sex). This is your problem and your job. You must master it.

Any Leo Sun position will trine something in your chart: depending on the degree it is in, it will trine your Venus, your Mercury, your Mars, your Moon. This brings the "infatuation" you describe.

As I said to Mrs. M. C., make your own decision. Here are the astrological facts. You know the shape of things to come. You can choose. But don't try to forget Saturn.

By the way, Saturn rules older persons, not younger.

Light Ahead Number I

Dear Wynn: I feel I have done very little with my life: I have collected a number of complexes, and I've been hurt and blocked in every desire I've really wanted. Mostly I've been apathetic about it all. I've tried to fight that. Why do I martyrize myself and submerge myself in sleep? It's so hard for me to be vital about anything.

I've tried even when a child to see how the other person thinks and does; Mother says I tried so hard I don't live my own life. I believe that if I could grow away from these complexes, live my own life, quit holding onto them, the poor health, the martyrdom . . . I want to come out in the sun and be the vital, loving, helpful, talented being I know is the real me . . . I was born July 14, 1913, 12 noon, Indianapolis, Ind.

MRS. D. C.

Number II

Dear Wynn: I was born Feb. 16, 1907, noon, Ogden, Utah. Three years ago I was in bed three months with nervous trouble; have slowly and gradually improved. However, I have developed a phobia (I guess it could be called that). I dread to go any place. If I force myself to go out, I end up with a bad nervous attack. I cannot go any place alone; traffic, noise, confusion and people upset me terribly. I have these attacks at home occasionally, but am able to sit down and get over them. I want to be able to stand on my own feet. Could you tell me if I should force myself to do the things I dread, or wait? This must sound very foolish to anyone who has never been nervous, but I have had one relapse and don't want another.

MRS. F. E. B.

(Reply:) I have printed your letters together because of certain similarities in your two charts, as well as in your cases.

To begin with, the natal Sun at the highest point in the chart might seem a position not likely to lead to such mental conditions as you both describe, for this position is a powerful one, not a negative position. Yet we must remember that the 10th house is Saturn's house and any planet in it feels this influence in one way or in another. You both feel this strongly, for both have ruling planet conjunct Saturn itself: you, Mrs. F.E.B., have Gemini, the mental sign, rising, and Mercury up in the 10th (with Sun) conjunct Saturn, both in the natural 12th house sign—Neptune's; while you, Mrs. D. C., have Libra rising (another mental sign) and Venus your ruler conjunct Saturn in Gemini, the mental sign, in your 8th house. Notice that both of you feel the influence of a secretive, or subconscious, or psychic house—Mrs. B. feels the 12th because of Pisces, Mrs. C. the 8th because of position. In addition, Mrs. C. has Jupiter, ruler of 3rd, in this house in Capricorn, dispoised by Saturn conjunct ruler; and that Saturn and ruler (Venus) being in Gemini, are dispoised by Mercury in the 10th house square to Mars in 8th also, while both are opposed by Moon. Add that her Sun is conjunct the ruler of natural 12th, Neptune, at the mid-heaven, and that both are in the sensitive emotional water sign, Cancer.

Mrs. B. has, in addition, a very close conjunction of Venus, ruling 12th, and Uranus in Saturn's sign Capricorn in the 8th house, opposed by a conjunction of Jupiter and Neptune in that same watery emotional psychic sign Cancer. And like Mrs. C., her Mars is square to her Mercury. Her mid-heaven Sun rules her mental 3rd house.

Always the Water signs, the mental house, 3rd (and sometimes the 9th), and the 8th and 12th houses are involved in cases of this kind. Or the 8th and 12th signs, Pisces and Scorpio. But Saturn is invariably the major clue. Note that it takes a suppressed, or secretive, or reserved, or timid influence to bring it about. Pisces or 12th is the repository of latent memory of other lives, and acts as this time's conscience; Scorpio is so intensely indrawing and usually psychic that it is easily tied in knots; Saturn's natural fear, timidity, sense of fate, suspicion, dread, conduces; and the mental house, or sign (3rd-Gemini), is mirror-like and easily impressed.

I do feel, Mrs. C. and Mrs. B., that it might be your mutual salvation if you were to patiently force yourself to concentrate upon studying astrology and the occult philosophy of astrology, just as deeply as you can. For in the process, you would come to contrast yourself with others you were studying, would no longer feel that your particular problems were so personal or so overwhelming; would gradually get hold of yourself. You are both letting a great deal of potentially worth while, valuable receptivity go to waste. You could use it in the form of astrological intuition. At present it is not harnessed to anything—anything but your fears, and dreads, and self-pities. Both of you are married women with a responsibility toward your families. It behooves you now to make a start, no matter how puny at first. Remember, the mind is either a slave driver or a slave. If you let yourself be mastered, you won't get better by waiting. Action is the remedy, planned action. You must both force some initial concentration, maybe not more than fifteen minutes a day, to start. The time is not what matters; the effort is. Stop when or if you feel fatigue. But start again.

You will find greater and greater understanding, insight, revelation, security, as you study. What seems hit and miss, accidental, or chaotic, will gradually fall into a divine pattern, with nothing out of place or unjust. This brings you security.

If mathematics is a stumbling block, then begin with interpretative astrology, coupled with occult philosophy. Get books. When you have developed a little proficiency and a feeling of having learned something, then try to set up the chart. There are quick ways to do it, short cuts. If there is no excess of money in both cases, then you can buy back issues of this magazine which contained lessons and study them one at a time, if need be. Also keep an astrological scrap book, cross referenced: planets, houses, signs, etc. For your studies of occult philosophy, get in touch with Manly P. Hall's society in Los Angeles, and choose from his books and pamphlet lists on the subject.

I think you, Mrs. B. should try now, at this time, to work out of your condition. Because Saturn and Uranus, which have been dwelling in your 12th natal house for recent years, have moved trine your Sun into your 1st house, the natural house of action, initiative, enterprise. Therefore, such 12th house conditions as they have brought about should now be tackled openly (1st house) and with personal effort (1st house). Especially as this combination brings to a focus the past (Saturn) and the future (Uranus), giving opportunity to leave behind such habitual reflexes and grooved habits (Saturn) as you wish to, while you vision and move toward a freer future (Uranus.) Gradually you will find yourself wanting to go out and meet people because of your interest in them and their charts. Study them on the streets; guess their signs and Ascendants. Your extreme consciousness of yourself will drop away from you in your growing interest in everyone else, through astrology.

You, Mrs. C., have these two heavy bodies, heretofore in occult 8th, in your natal 9th, location of astrology, religion, philosophy, education, and of course trine your Ascendant. This will give you excellent opportunity to develop your higher mind, to become conscious of past bad thought habits, and to make and carry out new resolves about educating and developing yourself.

But more even than your astrological understanding, you both need vitally a knowledge of why we are alive. Until you understand life philosophically, you lack the greatest security and serenity of all.

Astrological "Chemistry"

Dear Wynn: Here is something that has been puzzling me quite awhile. Why are natives of one sign so very different in disposition, activity, manner and outward appearance?

Both my husband and myself are Arians, but that is all. He is wiry, restless, likes and does about three jobs at once; he is very interested in selling and moving about among people. His birth data: born April 16, 1901, about 10:30 at night. He has a rather caustic and biting tongue, and makes people dislike him; but he is really very fine and loyal. He is a good worker, and yet doesn't seem to get ahead very fast; I don't know whether it's his tongue or his refusing to be a toady. But he does do two men's work.

Now, I am just the opposite: I am slow moving, slow thinking and slow in speech. People run over me and I am always afraid of hurting someone's feelings. Yet I am quite well liked—and many people come to me when in trouble. In fact, one friend said my just being around calms and soothes her, because I am such a calm person. I dislike moving and must have a certain amount of time to myself. I enjoy house-keeping and get along very well with children, boys preferably. Incidentally, we have five sons. Even our interests are not the same; yet we get along with each other very well. I have quite a few hobbies, but he doesn't have time for any at all. I was born March 31, 1905, at 8:30 in the evening. But I seem to be more like Taurus than Aries. What makes us so different? And I know this puzzles lots of other people, too.

MRS. S. B. G.

(Reply:) That artistic masterpiece over there on the next page contains 25 or more sketches in the general form of a square and one sketch that has the form of a circle or spiral. Some of the squares are big, some small, some medium; some of them are light, some dark; some are plain, others ornate; some are open, others are closed: they are all different when compared with each other as squares, but when compared to the round figure they instantly show that they are in a classification of their own which does not include circles.

We could go on and on, making more and different designs in the general form of the square, all of them different from each other. Yet so long as they were in the form of the square not one of them would ever be a circle.

There are approximately 2 billion people alive; if there were an even division of them into the 12 zodiacal Sun signs, Aries would have about 167 million. Not only are you and your husband different from each other, but so are all the other millions of Aries people. Yet, like the fundamental squareness of all squares, there is a fundamental Aries-ness about all people with Sun in Aries. If you look only at one side of a square you wouldn't know it was a square. If you look only at one part of an Aries person's character, you wouldn't know he or she was a native of Sun in Aries. But, looked at completely, the form of a person's Sun sign is to be seen through all the modifications and minor differences, just as are the forms of the squares in all but one of the sketches in the artistic masterpiece herewith.

Among the natives of Aries are negroes, Chinamen, Swedes, Germans, Italians, Persians, Spaniards, Hindus, Eskimos, Englishmen, American Indians, and Russians. You wouldn't expect all of them to be alike just because they were all born with the Sun in Aries. It is very easy to tell which is the Englishman and which the Chinaman, regardless of their Zodiacal sign. Each race, nation and place has a characteristic horoscopic imprint on those born in it.

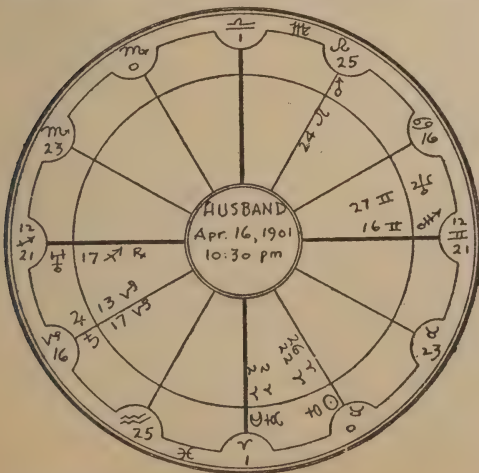

It is the same between two Aries people of the same race and nation and locality when they were born at different times of the day or in different years; for the different times of the day show different signs on the angles and house cusps of the horoscope, and the different years see the planets arranged in different patterns. You can see both of these differences in the horoscopes of you and your husband reproduced herewith.

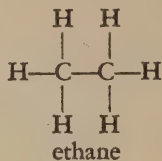

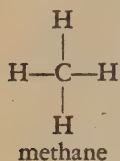

Astrology is like organic chemistry in some ways. The same basic elements are in many things that don't resemble each other to the man who doesn't understand organic chemistry. There are hundreds of combinations of hydrogen and carbon alone that make widely different products, among which are synthetic rubber, ethylene (one of the best anesthetics, having none of the unpleasant after effects of ether), and aviation gasoline. There you have a solid, a gas and a liquid—one might call them as different as three things could be—yet they are composed of exactly the same elements and practically no other. The differences are produced by the chemical pattern of the way the elements arrange themselves. Methane, the chief constituent of illuminating gas, and ethane, from which

THIRD HOUSE STUFF

ether is derived, are both entirely carbon (C) and hydrogen (H), and their chemical "horoscopes" look like this:

If unfamiliar with chemical diagrams, look them up under Valence in the encyclopedia or any chemistry text book.

In chemistry the elements (carbon, hydrogen, etc.) are the same wherever they are found, but in different arrangements and with more of one than another they make widely varied products. There are more than two hundred combinations of carbon and hydrogen (carbohydrates and hydrocarbonates) that are very useful in our daily lives, and there are more than 300,000 organic compounds already known, with more being discovered daily in the laboratories of the world.

And just as the chemical elements are the same wherever found, so also are the astrological elements (Aries, Taurus, etc.) the same wherever found, in whatever combination or product (the human being's characteristics in this life). The analogy continues: a certain element is accented in a chemical compound both by arrangement and by quantity. In the astrological chart (the arrangement and occupancy of signs by planets at birth) accents occur by position caused by hour and place of birth, as well as by the particular luminary or planet so placed. A luminary in a sign is always a powerful accent.

Illustrating this by the horoscopes of you and your husband, Mrs. G., we see exactly what you mention in your letter about the way you both react on other people—which is a 7th house matter. You have the healing Jupiter and the diplomatic Venus in your 7th, attracting people to you; he has Pluto, which is opposed by Uranus, in his 7th, often making him show less than his best when dealing with others. He also has Neptune in his 7th, making him difficult to understand at times and prone to expect more of others than they may realize or be able to deliver. Everything you say in your letter, and much more, can be explained by your two horoscopes, according to definite text book rules.

One of the most often heard criticisms of astrology by those who know nothing of the subject is that there are more than twelve different people and that therefore, according to their unconsidered judgment, twelve zodiacal signs could not be expected to explain them. If they would apply this same type of "thinking" to chemistry they would say: "There are less than a hundred elements and therefore it is impossible to analyze the millions of different things we know to exist." The chemist would laugh at such a remark, and with good reason, for he knows how much difference the alteration of a single element in a compound can make; in some instances a gas or a solid can be produced from identical formulas by catalysis (where some outside agent remains entirely stable in an environmental function, such as mixing one formula in a wooden bowl and again in glass).

It is well to remember that zodiacal signs, like chemical elements, remain the same in all compounds (horoscopes), regardless of how different the compounds may be.

A difficulty arises in the publishing of a book or magazine or giving a popular talk on the subject of astrology. This difficulty is to give all information possible to all readers or hearers without their having the impression that such information is all there is to the subject. Some readers unreasonably expect to be able to obtain from a magazine as much personal and individualized service as they could obtain from an able student's prolonged research into their particular horoscopes. As a case in point, several people write to me continually concerning my general astrological advice in the daily papers, believing implicitly that it is written for each of them alone. They do not pause to reflect that it is like the weather: each person feels the weather, but it doesn't mean the same thing to each of them—it is raining, let us say; the farmer is delighted, the owner of a ball park is not.

The writing of general astrological information for public distribution must of necessity be limited to what I like to call the psychological weather. If one wants more individual application to his or her own personal case, it must be gone into further, either by studying the subject or obtaining the work of an expert.

How to Use the Daily Advice Pages

Dear Wynn: In the "Your Daily Horoscope" section, at the top you give aspects prevailing not only for one day but sometimes for as much as a week; while just below that you give other aspects and the hours of their duration. On which of the aspects do you base your advice and why? In other words, which of the aspects is the strongest for any particular day and how is one to determine it? From what I have read trines and sextiles are the most favorable, but suppose there are several of these prevailing for the entire day. What is the order of the planets so far as the power they exert is concerned?

Another thing I have read is that aspects change every four minutes throughout the day. Is this true, and if so how is one to interpret or compile a record of these changes. Don't you think it would clarify matters if you stated just which aspect you use each day as a basis for the advice given?

Very sincerely yours, G. G. H.

(Reply:) Let's look at this first from the viewpoint of what's going on in the heavens and then from the viewpoint of what is the best way to handle it. Every pair of two planets (including the Sun and Moon) have a cycle from one conjunction to the next conjunction. No two of these are alike—that is, no two planets form their conjunctions in exactly the same length of time. For instance, the Sun and Moon form their conjunctions (new Moons) about 29½ days apart; but the conjunctions of Jupiter and Saturn occur twenty years apart. This, as you no doubt are fully aware, is because of the different sizes of planetary orbits and the speed at which the planets and luminaries traverse them.

During the period from conjunction to conjunction, each pair of planets form every possible aspect to each other. They are in square at about the first quarter of this period, in trine at about the first third, in opposition at about half way, and so on. Each aspect has an orb during which it is effective; the orb is a distance between the faster moving of the two planets and the planet which is the slower and therefore being aspected. The time required for the faster planet to close this distance is only a matter of hours in the case of the Moon, but it takes days and sometimes months in the case of the more ponderous bodies. The longer the period between conjunctions of a pair of planets the longer they are in orb of any of their aspects.

Because the influence of two planets in orb of aspect is felt during the time they are so related to each other, we have given you the service of publishing each day all the aspects in orb on that day, plus giving the end date of each aspect. If we published only the time of completion of aspect, the reader would be at a loss to take into consideration all the aspects operating at any time, unless he went to the trouble of figuring them all out. So far as we know, this is the only magazine that performs this reader service.

Example: the trine of Uranus and Neptune is of great importance in many ways, personally and collectively—it is something that should be known concerning everything begun or contemplated when these two are in orb of aspect. Yet, if we didn't mention it until the aspect is completed, there would be no mention of it until December 11, although they are now in orb. I think you will agree that it is too much to remember for a period of months when it can be recalled by a line of type on each day's calendar.

Another example: There are times when planets come within orb of conjunction or other aspect, yet do not actually complete it, due to the phenomenon of retrogradation. When in orb, nevertheless, they are as potent as though they were going to go on and complete the aspect. This is now the case with Saturn and Uranus: they are within orb of conjunction, and will so continue until Saturn turns to direct motion next February 6th. We therefore list this every day this month and will continue to do so every day until February 5th, 1943.

If you were setting up a horary chart or the horoscope of a baby born at any time this month, you would list among its aspects both Uranus-Neptune trine and Saturn-Uranus conjunction. Which gives a tip on another way in which our method of presenting aspects is of value: any horoscope for a certain day includes all aspects listed as "In effect all day," and it is necessary only to copy them onto the aspectarian of the horoscope, without bothering to calculate them. As to the aspects of the moment (those listed daily in larger type) reference to those in effect at the hour of birth or horary chart or Key Cycle, can be copied without calculation also.

Another good thing, we think, is listing the aspects and celestial events in order of their beginnings, for this enables you to run your eye over them quickly and gather in all that are effective at any desired moment.

As to the changing of aspects every four minutes, you have evidently confused this with the fact that a new degree of the zodiac goes over the midheaven every four minutes, on the average. The exact mean motion is nearer  $3^m57^s$ . So far as I know, there are no aspects formed that quickly.

Concerning your other questions, I think you will find your answers in the following:

How to Write Daily Advice

In connection with the foregoing questions of Mr. H., he and others may find value in a letter I once wrote to an astrologer who asked for the benefit of my experience in newspaper and magazine advice. Here is what I wrote:

First calculate all the aspects that are in orb for each date, together with hours of beginning and ending of the more rapid ones.

Then set up an Equilibrium chart with  $0^\circ$  of each sign on the cusps and put in the positions of all planets for the day—a separate chart for each date. On each of these charts mark with colored pencils lines between the planets that are in aspect on that date, together with the times of beginning and ending of each such aspect. With scissors cut out the chart so that it will look the same with any sign on the ascendant.

When writing to Aries people, place your chart for the day with Aries  $0^\circ$  on the ascendant, interpreting the houses and their occupants and aspects accordingly. Then turn the same chart so that Taurus  $0^\circ$  is at the ascendant for natives of Taurus, and so on till all signs have been done for that date. Then begin with Aries for the next date in the same manner, following it with Taurus and the other signs.

Note well the duration of aspects, taking into consideration which ones will be operating at the same time. Those planets in aspect are more effective than those which occupy houses without forming aspects.

We have found that, while aspects do have a minor effectiveness after culmination, it is far more satisfactory (judging by readers' comments) to treat them as though they do not exist after the aspect has become perfect. Any aspect is stronger the nearer it is to completion.

It is a good idea to keep a note book of key words for quick reminder—it saves time in thinking of the thing to say.

Avoid the tendency to over-use adjectives. Don't use superlatives, such as "very," "all," "everything," "nothing" and similar terms that are too inclusive. Keep it positive; tell what the day is good for, holding warnings down to the absolute minimum of necessity. For instance, a bad aspect is good for self-control; a bad day is excellent for developing poise. The amateur would say something that would scare the reader out of his sandals and eventually turn him against astrology when he saw that it wasn't as bad as a bungled interpretation would make him anticipate.

Include both the man and woman reader—make it apply to both, or mention something for each. If, for example, it's a 10th house matter, don't quit when you've mentioned business or occupation—include also reputation and position. That let's in the women who are not in business but who nevertheless have 10th houses. And if it's 5th house, don't be satisfied with "Give some time to the children"; mention also creative abilities, inventiveness, artistic interests or whatever might be indicated for the male side of the family. In the 5th, of course, "affections" is an androgenous term. In 2nd, "finances" is chiefly male; but "budget" would apply to both sexes. Et cetera.

Don't ever tell 'em it's a good day to do wrong or a bad day to do right. Every day is good for something and it's up to the astrologer to point the way.

Murdered!

Dear Wynn: Would it be of interest along lines of scientific astrological research to know that my son, born December 7, 1916,

WYNN'S ASTROLOGY MAGAZINE

9:30 pm, at Salina, Kans., was murdered May 27, 1942, about 8 pm, C.S.W.T.?

He was killed by two brothers, 21 and 23 years of age. The victim was said to have been in his car on the highway, about five miles north of Norton, Kans., at the time they shot him. The bullet entered his right ear. Victim was robbed, the car stolen, and the body hauled around for ten hours before being disposed of.

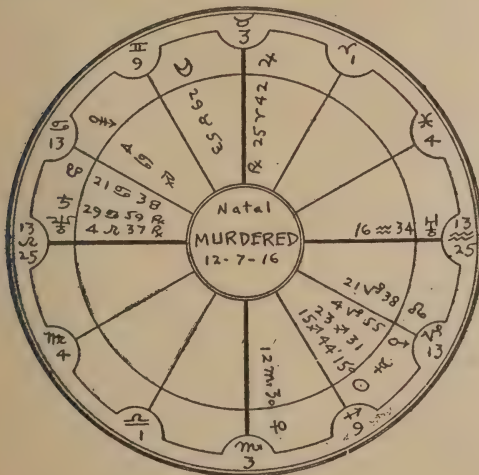

The murderers were apprehended at 2 pm, May 28, confessed and led officers to the hidden body. In three days after the murder the criminals were tried, convicted and sent to life imprisonment at hard labor. They never told the court what circumstances led up to or caused them to do the killing. The murderers were ex-convict hitch-hikers.

Any comment you would care to make on this happening would be deeply appreciated by me. Sincerely,

MRS. C. A. S.

(Comment:) On behalf of myself and other students, thank you for this information. It is indeed valuable to add to our records.

To me this appears to be a death caused by Karma set up by him in a past life, for Neptune, ruler of his death (8th house cusp), is in the karmic 12th house at his birth.

In every life there are several types of death that can terminate it, all of them shown in the nativity. This makes it difficult, if not actually impossible, to know in advance which of them will prove to be the event when it occurs. The reason for this is that previous lives set up karmic necessities in this department, as in others, which the native chooses consciously or unconsciously to bring into action. In the matter of the type of death, when the native has chosen by thought and act (usually entirely unconscious that such choice is being made), that type of death is experienced and the other types (which are also necessary to the evolution of his or her oversoul) continue as necessities to be worked out in lives to come.

In the case of this man, it would have been very difficult to have predicted that such a manner of death would be the issue, although it was definitely one of the possibilities. His Equilibrium VIII showed violence, for Mars was in the 8th of this figure. Mars at birth ruled his 9th (travel) and his 4th (conditions at end of life).

Mars is the dispositor of his Venus, ruler of 3rd (brothers), and his natal Venus was in the natal 4th (conditions at end of life). Saturn was dispositor of his Mars, and was conjunction Neptune, ruler of his natal 8th. The Moon dispossited his Saturn, and was ruler of his Equilibrium 8th. Venus dispossited Moon, completing the circle of his dispositor ring. The secretive facts involved are shown by the Saturn-Neptune conjunction in the 12th (natal), which was ruled by the Moon (Equilibrium ruler of death 8th).

THIRD HOUSE STUFF

The event is shown clearly by his Key Cycle of the time and place, for he was obviously in danger: the 1st (person) and 8th (death) were ruled by the same planet, Venus, already seen in his critical dispositor ring. Venus (transit), ruler of Key Cycle, was conjunction natal Jupiter, ruler Equilibrium VIII's 8th house, his Jupiter being dispossessed by the violent Mars. And his natal Mars was at the KC 4th. Neptune, ruler of his death (natal) was in KC 12th, repeating the secretive nature of the motives for his taking off.

That ex-convicts might be involved is also a 12th house matter. In his Equilibrium VIII we see Mars in the 8th (death) ruling the 12th; and the occupants of his natal 12th, Saturn and Neptune (ruler of natal 8th), are at the 3rd (brothers)—the murderers were brothers, although this is a secondary interpretation, for the primary would be that the native's own blood brothers would in some way figure in his demise.

The Key Cycle shows strong evidence of brothers and also travel, for five planets were in Gemini, sign of brothers, in KC 9th, sign of travel, one of which (Jupiter) ruled his KC 3rd (brothers).

Further danger was shown by transiting Moon conjunction natal Venus, for the Moon was ruler of Equilibrium VIII (death) and Venus ruled KC 8th (death).

These are typical of the involved circumstances under which we live. They occur several times in a life, most of them being survived by all of us. We do not die every time the opportunity is presented; part of the reason for this is due to the horoscopes of other people. In the case of a murder or other action by people other than ourselves, there is a resultant because of the interaction of the horoscopes involved. The horoscope of the driver of the truck that hits a man has in it connections plainly to be seen with the horoscope of the victim; the same is the case between any two who have strong emotion (good or bad) between them, or when violence results from apparently accidental causes.

It is obviously a wise plan to know as much as possible about the horoscopes of those with whom we are dealing, that we may avoid those with whom we have significantly violent vibrations; and also that we take precautions whenever we can with strangers whose horoscopes we do not know, under present conditions of race development—perhaps I should say lack of development.

Wallace's Birth Moment

Dear Mr. Alberts: In the August magazine, you asked for information about the moment of Vice-President Wallace's birth, which I am pleased to supply.

In 1927 he gave me his exact birth data: October 7, 1888, 7:12 pm, LMT, at 41°N, 94½°W.

With all good wishes,

Part IX — Statistical Data on Jupiter

4:06 Earthquakes

(a) Although earthquakes follow upon the heels of solar eclipses, the relative positions of the major planets to certain geographic meridians are the motivating factors rather than the eclipse. From such positions are inferred the specific areas likely to be affected.

The map of the heavens for actual moment of the severe earthquake in Los Angeles, Calif., on March 10, 1933 reveals nothing precise in itself to explain the phenomenon. But if we revert to the solar eclipse on August 31, 1932, 2:45 p.m., E.S.T., that was visible in the United States, this chart, transposed to the longitude of Los Angeles reveals Jupiter and Neptune conjoined with the luminaries on the upper meridian, hence indicating the geographical point of greatest magnetic pull. The next point was to determine the time when tremors might be expected. In the eclipse chart, Neptune occupied Virgo 7.45 and the eclipse fell in Virgo 8.11. The earthquake chart shows that Mars (excitement) was transiting the magnetic field set up by Jupiter and Neptune at the time of the preceding eclipse, the rising Moon also indicating the tidal factor in the same area. An interesting point to observe is that both the Moon and Mars at the time of the seismic disturbance were also transiting a point within an exact semi-square angle (45 degrees) of Pluto. The Sun, which actually set at 6:04 p.m., L.M.T., was two degrees past the opposition with Jupiter. Jupiter was exactly squaring the meridian at Los Angeles when the earthquake originated.

Charleston, S. C. Earthquake

A solar eclipse of the Sun on August 29, 1886, 7:34 a.m., Long. 79.56 W. and Lat. 32.47 N. fell in Virgo 6.04, when the mid-heaven was Cancer 1.13 and the Ascendant was Libra 1.07. Jupiter and Uranus were then within a degree of conjunction in the ascendant. On August 31, 1886 a severe earthquake occurred at Charleston, S. C. A. J. Pearce, in his Zadkiel's Almanac for 1885, coordinating testimonies at the time of the eclipse with those in the chart for the conjunction of Mars and Jupiter, June 27, 1886, 5:30 a.m., Washington, D. C., definitely foretold the time, place and character of this earthquake with amazing accuracy. Pearce's Textbook of Astrology is replete with statistical data bearing upon similar long range forecasts during many years of profound astrotechnical researches.

(b) Jupiter-Uranus—Extremes of Weather and Magnetic Storms

On May 13, 1921, Jupiter, in Virgo 9.00, opposed Uranus. An unusual display of the Aurora Borealis was reported and cables burned out mysteriously.

On July 15, 1927, Jupiter (direct) and Uranus (retrograde) formed a conjunction in Aries 3°24' and three inches of rainfall within 24 hours was recorded at New York City. After Jupiter turned retrograde, these bodies formed a second conjunction on August 11, 1927, in Aries 3.00. Temperatures were below normal average throughout August and were accompanied by excessive downfall. The English Channel had one of the worst summers in its history. The New York Weather Bureau forecasters reported that in all the history of the local Weather Bureau dating its records from 1871, there had not been such an August as that of 1927. During that month the average temperature was 5 degrees below normal and it was the coldest August on record. Rain, rain and more rain was reported throughout the Northern Hemisphere.

(c) On January 25, 1928, Jupiter and Uranus were conjoined in Aries 0°25' while both planets were in the same parallel of declination. Mercury was then forming a semi-square (45° angle) with the conjoined bodies. During the noon hour a wind velocity of 80 miles an hour was officially reported in New York City, but unofficial reports from suburbs contended that velocities ranging up to 90 miles per hour had been recorded. Thousands of large store windows were blown in and many large display advertising signs were blown down.

(d) Perihelion of Jupiter

Since Jupiter attains its perihelion station in Aries at periods of 11.86 years, Dr. Luke Broughton, in his Elements of Astrology presents statistical data concerning these recurring cycles from 1797 in order to show how they are related to the spread of epidemic diseases. He quotes the New York Medical Journal for 1871 (August), in which it was pointed out that cholera had broken out in Hudwar, India, every twelfth year since 1783, and notably in 1867. Broughton carried this analysis further to show a similar prevalence of cholera near the central point of Jupiter's perihelion in 1892-93, particularly in Germany, France, Russia, Spain and Italy. He also pointed out the prevalence of typhus fever during 1881 and 1892 in New York, when Jupiter on both occasions was in perihelion. It was noted that many cloudbursts, cyclones and earthquakes accompanied these phenomena.

(e) Auroras, Hurricanes and Seismic Activity: Jupiter Square Uranus

On January 31, 1938, Jupiter, in Aquarius 9°48', squared Uranus in Taurus 9°48'. This configuration was intensified by the Sun's conjunction with Jupiter in Aquarius and square to Jupiter during the two days preceding and by Venus forming similar angles with these bodies on the exact date of their conjunction. It may be pertinent to mention that Uranus had attained a stationary position in Taurus 9.43 on January 18, as Jupiter approached close to the square. On the 17th, the Moon had left the opposition of Jupiter from Leo 6.29 and was squaring Uranus. Frigid arctic currents descended upon the eastern states over January 18, sending temperatures down to zero at New York City, 16 below at Albany and 42 below in the Quebec Province. Wire communications throughout Canada were disrupted by magnetic storms.

From that date on, magnetic storms increased in intensity. On January 20, a sunspot estimated to have an area of 3,500,000,000 square miles and one of the the largest seen since the Royal Observatory began keeping records in 1875, was reported clearly visible with the aid of glasses in London. (N. Y. Sun, Jan. 20, 1938.)

On January 23, the Coast and Geodetic Survey reported that a "very severe magnetic storm" beginning at 12:30 a.m., E.S.T., disrupted short wave radio transmission completely. The report said that the reason for such storms was not fully understood, but that they usually accompany the appearance of large sunspots. (N. Y. Sun, Jan. 23, 1938.)

"Worst quake in 11 years rocks Hawaii" (Headline, N. Y. Times, Jan. 23, 1938).

London, Jan. 26, 1938—(Quoting item from N. Y. Post of that date)—"It was not the end of the world. It was not a new war. It was not a fire . . . By press, radio and telephone, officials explained that the aurora, rarely seen in Southern or Western Europe, was caused by an electrical disturbance on the Sun's surface . . . The lights were seen clearly in Italy, Spain, Portugal and even southernmost Gibraltar, Austria, Switzerland, the Netherlands and the British Isles. Telephone systems were tied up in some parts of France. Short wave radio between London and New York was disrupted."

London, Jan. 29—Winds which at times reached ninety miles an hour—hurricane force—raked the British Isles today, spreading property damage, disrupting sea travel. Rain, sleet and hail were borne by the raging winds. Scotland was the region hardest hit. (N. Y. Herald Tribune, Jan. 30, 1938.)

During this same period over the eastern states, a Newark-to-Washington air-transport, caught in an 80 mile gale, was blown back to Hartford, Conn.

These phenomena were definitely explained and their time and character predicted by us in printed circulars publicly circulated and dated December 11, 1937. The motivating causes were then ascribed to the combined actions of the planets Jupiter and Uranus which were to form an angle of 90 degrees to each other in longitude on January 31, 1938. These observations were reiterated by astrologers in a public lecture entitled "Refining Astrological Methods" delivered before the Astrologers' Guild of America, in New York City, on December 16, 1937.

(f) Jupiter Conjunction Uranus, Taurus
25°38', May 7, 1941

The effects of these conjunctions are prolonged and manifest periodically, when excited by accompanying phenomena. Due to foreign news censorship resulting from the European war situation, records of unusual weather phenomena fail to reach this country from abroad. On May 16, the Sun formed a parallel with both Jupiter and Uranus, thus engendering their combined influences. From Columbus, Ohio, on that date, news dispatches reported that cyclonic winds caused considerable property damage in Central Ohio. Airport observers said that gales reaching a velocity of 80 miles per hour were recorded.

At Chicago, Ill., winds blowing 75 miles per hour destroyed 40 airplanes, blew down four hangars, shattered windows, wrecked many hundreds of chimneys and left many outlying highways blocked by fallen trees during a thunderstorm in the Chicago area. At Kendallville, Ind., following a heavy wind storm during the night, power lines were blown down. Resultant power failure closed factories. Roofs of ten buildings damaged. Trees were uprooted.

On the same date, at Pasadena, Calif., 6:37:25 p.m., P.S.T., a very strong earthquake, estimated to be 6,000 miles away, direction undetermined, was recorded.

(g) Sunspots and Magnetic Storms

It is now stated by scientists that ultra-violet light (actinic rays) and electrons descending from the upper strata of atmosphere ionize the air surrounding the surface of the earth. Ionization, they say, is a process of wrecking molecules. Bits of molecules are torn away electrons. Whereupon the hulks that remain are in a tremendous state of electrical agitation.

Three well known layers of electrification are produced by solar electrons. One lies at a height of sixty miles, a second at about 120 miles and a third at 180 miles. Were it not for these layers, radio waves would be cast off in straight lines into space like mud from a turning wheel. As it is, the waves flash to the mirror-like layers, back to earth. The lower layer reflects the fairly long radio waves, next the shorter waves and the highest the very short waves.

When sunspots are numerous not only are these mirrors in the sky affected, so that radio communication becomes impossible, but the magnetism of the earth as well. We have what we call a magnetic storm, which has no relation, however, to storms of rain, thunder and lightning.

Magnetic storms are most intense in polar regions and are generally accompanied by auroral displays. [Astrometeorologists have pointed out that positive electricity is strongest at the Earth's equator (heat) and that negative electricity reaches maximum at the poles—cold]. A pronounced tendency of the earth's magnetism to vary at intervals of 26 to 28 days, approximately the period of the Moon's revolution around the Earth as well as the Sun's rotation on its axis, supports the theory that sunspots which rotate with these phenomena are not directly due to the solar atmosphere itself but to the Moon's configurations with the same point in celestial longitude (as will be noted by either Sun or Moon in conjunction, square or opposition to positions of major planets when they form their major configurations.) In this connection, minor fourteen and seven day periods are of interest.

The aurora curtain is about 60 to 70 miles above the Earth and never lower than 27 miles. That which the exponents of astrology ascribe to the planets as vibratory influence is explained by physicists as a state of electrical agitation. But there is a wide differential in results depending on whether negative or positive electrical agitation is in preponderance. The stronger influence of negative electricity induces magnetic action while the greater generation of positive electricity induces heat and manifestation of lightning flashes, accompanied by rising air currents at the point of observation meeting negative currents at higher altitudes. In winter months, warmer currents prevail in higher altitudes. At 46,260 feet, temperatures of 74 above have been registered while ground temperatures were 23° below zero! This record was reported from Fairbanks, Alaska, Feb. 17, 1938.

The Year Ahead for LIBRA

If You Were Born September 23 - October 23

The main characteristic of your next twelve months, beginning with your birthday this year, is a general sense of power arising within you. This will naturally generate a feeling of well being—but when one is in such a cycle there is tendency to look upon minor interruptions and obstacles as though they were bigger than they really are. Bear this in mind and constantly seek to re-establish your true balance (the symbol of your sign) whenever tempted to go too far up or down.

The first source of power in your nature will be Jupiter's position at your Equilibrium midheaven, which is already being felt and will continue till the end of next June. This gives you big ideas and desire to expand in occupation, relations with social, business and governmental superiors; and it confers upon you real opportunity to use your head on whatever arises in these departments—you can think things through, and you can make yourself popular with those who have the Yes or No on important relationships and problems. Relatives and neighbors, and possibly short trips, will be helpful. Seek advancement that you deserve; go after what is legitimately yours—but not without bearing also in mind the testimonies of Neptune, which we'll come to in a moment.

From July 1, 1943, to your next birthday Jupiter will be in your 11th house, offering new friendships, a widening of your circle of acquaintances, and probably several ways in which you can cash in on previous occupational efforts. On the altruistic side this will enable you to do more for brothers, sisters and neighbors, as well as friends—but a word of caution: friends will ask favors of you that you will wish to grant; there is where you'll need your balance, for you must protect yourself from the sort of cheerful optimism and that Lord or Lady Bountiful feeling that doesn't count the cost of a magnificent gesture.

The next source of your present power comes from Uranus and Saturn in your solar 9th, that location of long distance views which include the values of philosophy, people and affairs located far away—travel, communication with distant parts—and the chance to learn through expanding your mental and spiritual horizons. There's no doubt about it: the urges you have recently had since these two planets entered Gemini last May to improve the quality as well as quantity of your thinking (and hence your practical uses of ability and skill in your daily living) are solid urges—they should be leaned against, followed up. Uranus in this department makes you want to change quickly—you get flashes that tell you just what you want, and the desire pushes you to move everything to make the idea come true. But Saturn tempers it with a bit of let's-look-it-over-once-more—which is for the best, for this is a year when you need an anchor more than a self-starter. Travel and change are indicated as beneficial for you during these coming twelve months, but only when you have it all worked out. May and June of next year should offer real openings for these changes. But the entire year ahead is excellent for taking up new lines of study and training.

During the next six months (till mid-April, 1943) Neptune will be at the beginning of your sign, giving you a preview of its influence in years to come. Neptune's influence is primarily on the higher and less known levels of emotion, sometimes becoming effective in psychic ways, such as increasing the perception of some of nature's unseen laws. This is not a field into which the unprepared person can enter without some risk of error and unpleasant consequence; it is necessary to maintain strict intellectual awareness to negotiate successfully the peculiar feelings produced by this little-understood planetary force. In your case, this will bring new elements into your service rendering capacities; you can control their direction by controlling your feelings toward your work and toward those in positions of social or occupational inferiority to yours—sympathy is the positive virtue for you to cultivate, unreasoning prejudice is the negative to be avoided. Those of Libra who permit the negative side to dominate during the coming transit of Neptune through their sign will be called upon to take care of discomforts in the health department, probably through glandular and nervous disorders that will baffle diagnosis and cure except through psychological retracing of painful steps. In other words, you of Libra are always subject to physical troubles in your bodies when and if you permit negative emotions to dictate to your thought and action—and with Neptune powerfully stimulating your next fourteen years the thing to do is to stay out of that type of trouble; it is so much easier than trying to get out of it once you are in it. Don't go all-out for promises of easy attainment on any matter; use your common sense and realize that in this world nothing is free—all is cause and effect; no desired benefit comes without payment therefor in full, before or after you get it.

On the lower levels of its manifestation, this ray of Neptune could bring temptations leading into get-rich-too-soon schemes, deals in which somebody isn't offered a fair break. Look out for imitations, counterfeits, and all appeals to cupidity; step around them, for they bring only sorrow and regret. From August, 1943, on, Neptune will remain in your sign, becoming stronger and stronger along the lines just described—it will not leave Libra till 1956.

From July through October, 1943, Venus will be stationary in your 12th, the house of confidential matters. These, too, are positive or negative according to your thought and behavior. Great gains in inner development, benefits through large institutions and preparation for personal advancement are your positive heritage under this vibration. If you choose the negative path, self-undoing, illness, disruption of glandular or nervous function are the toll.

From now till the 1st of November,

Mars is stimulating you to personal effort, at the same time rendering you less cautious than is good for safety; much can be accomplished through mate, partnership or legal action in which your cause is just, if you pursue your ends with calm determination—not hasty impulse. This is also the beginning of an extravagant streak that will continue into mid-December, urging you to make commitments, promises and expenditures that would be difficult to handle and not as necessary as they appear at the moment.

From November 2 to December 15, Mars in your 2nd continues the extravagant tendencies, as just mentioned, but also it offers you the alternative of making a concentrated effort toward great security through added strength with which to go after what you deserve, especially November 29-December 6, when Mars will trine Jupiter, improving your administrative ideas and giving opportunity to become more popular in your community, as well as attracting the regard of superiors. From December 10 to 17, however, go slow on the big notions and plans that will appeal, for they may originate in the Mars-Uranus opposition of the time, with a tendency to omit details necessary to success; and lie low in the matrimonial or partnership department—urges will not be reliable if they suggest changes.

From December 16 to January 26, Mars travels through your third house. This will stimulate you to think more, to analyze, to read and to be more neighborly. It will also tend to externalize your internal states and to discuss and to exchange ideas with partners and those near. Hold fast to what you have along established lines when Mars opposes Saturn December 15-24 and keep balance where elders, home folks and both local and distant interests are concerned. Take no part in neighborhood issues or feuds. During Mars' square to Neptune January 23-29 rein in too impractical impulses to shift and change; don't be indiscreet with secrets or wishful where practicality is needed. There may be some confusion and uncertainty through here but realize that waiting is better than wrong decisions that have to be taken back.

From January 27 to March 8, Mars holds authority in your fourth sector, bringing more activity and expense into this department where, perhaps, you are usually inclined to prune and trim. You may want to make over, to rebuild or in some way upset routine. You may have to use even more than your usual tact and diplomacy. Review domestic values and relations to bring about better domestic habits and more working cooperation. However, when Mars opposes Jupiter February 6-17 don't jump into things with undue enthusiasm—analyze and investigate. When Mars trines both Uranus and Neptune March 1-9 it will give you added incentive and opportunity, will open avenues for more original self-expression, with more insight into new possibilities and perspective to carry out plans. Travel will appeal. Settle differences, if any, with children's affairs.

From March 9 to April 17, Mars will pass through your fifth house, arousing your artistic and creative faculties. This will be a good period in which to indulge in activities that add to the richness of your social life and may afford considerable release from tensions of environment. Increase your circle of friends, particularly those who can help you to develop along new lines. March 9-18, when Mars trines Saturn, will then give you more scope for dramatic, creative, emotional contributions and to come to better terms with elders, partners and those in authority.

From April 18 to May 27, Mars stresses your sixth house matters—the needs and care of your body, your relations with dependents and your own working efforts. Don't overdo, for fatigue quickly reflects itself in your mental and physical efficiency. If your health is good you can here work toward even better conditions; but if all is not well with you, Mars will test your weak spots. You will give more efficient service if you will modify your demands and method of approach when Mars squares Uranus April 14-20, and also when Mars squares Saturn April 25-May 2: too much forcefulness could easily generate unwelcome friction. But May 5-15, when Mars is in trine to Jupiter, will bring working opportunity for advancement. When Mars opposes Neptune in your Sun sign May 14-26 don't underestimate or overestimate. Keep emotional balance and avoid legal tangles.

From May 28 to July 7, Mars lends to your seventh house interests that marginal energy, the directing of which is so intimate a problem. It sets off extremely strong reactions to your mate, your partners and open opponents. Curb tendencies to be too aggressive or to make an issue of trifles. When Mars sextiles Uranus (May 28-June 3) you might enlist the aid of others in gaining perspective or push plans for wider application of your talents, travel or take up new studies.

From July 8 to August 23, while Mars is passing through your eighth house it will make more active your finances in which others are involved as partners; will stimulate income and outgo with need for more thoughtful measures. It will affect your emotions too as well as intangible values. You will want to bring things to an end, to be final; but don't be hasty, especially July 3-10 when Mars is square to Jupiter—judgment is likely to be poor. Mars trining Neptune August 16-24 will give you more elbow room, so to speak, to come nearer to your more lofty aspirations and will arouse hidden or latent energies.

From August 24 through October, Mars remains in your ninth division, accenting current faulty viewpoints or unreasonable mental habits and attitudes, if any. Urges to go places, to see distant points, to extend yourself in various ways will be felt (most strongly September 1-9 when Mars conjuncts Uranus); this will spur to action, will energize purposeful activities and will result in better planning if not indulged in too explosively. The intensity which spurs is a valuable asset, so do things, put to concrete test your best plans. August 27-31 will be an opportune time, when Saturn trines Neptune, to work actively toward your ideals with conscious intelligence and system; it will also give strong impetus to your creative potentials. October 1-31, when Mars again conjuncts Saturn, work briskly to better relations with parents, partners and those higher up. Strive for more wisdom and understanding of deep subjects.

October, 1942, Opportunities

For those born Mar. 21-Apr. 19

Dear Aries:

Don't feel that everything opposes you this month, will you? If you do, your attitude may make it so. Life proceeds by polarity, as you well know, yet because the opposite scale is weighted does not mean, or prove, that it opposes us or our progress. It merely shows us what we have yet to take into account, and ultimately make ours. If people, or things, seem to do and be everything you don't and are not, then pause and reason it out along these mental lines: should I be or do these things which now oppose me? Am I opposing my own good?

All month this problem will come up in your relations with equals, partners (business or marriage), legal opponents, allies, close relatives, and even persons you love. If you adjust you will add something to yourself, and become greater; if you resist and challenge, you will find yourself involved in quarrels, antagonisms, general unpleasantness, wasting much precious energy.

1-5 and 13-24 warns against general restlessness and extravagance, against doing foolish things with your assets, against spending too much on home or hospitality, against visioning anything where you aren't as better than anything where you are. And against being too trusting or gullible, perhaps led through your own overenthusiasm. Careful with law, and personal or joint money.

Yet this month of October brings you a gift of abundant energy and enterprise, more even than is your natural right. If you can only select wisely what you will do with it, you can do a great deal with it for your present and future good growth. Use it to attract others to you and your causes, not to drive them from you. People will either find you more desirable than usual, or just the opposite. And it will be your choice. If you can manage so to control and direct yourself that you conciliate opponents, cooperate with allies and partners, and draw still other allies to you, you will later find you have gained something in love life, in financial life, and in your community life.

For those born Apr. 20-May 20

Dear Taurus:

All of us have "inferiors" of some type; no matter how little we think of ourselves, or of our position in life, there are still some who look up to us, depend on us for examples, decisions, money, or who work for or serve us in numerous ways. Inferiors are not always obvious. This month you will find a cumulative complex of forces bringing all such relations of yours to some sort of a head, or crisis perhaps.

Yet this looks constructive and promising, not the other way. The only thing that could turn it into a later problem would be misjudgment on your part, the coming to conclusions that involved extremes. 1-5 and from 13th to 24th will incite this inflated thinking most. Try to think exactly, rather than to feel that what you think is right. Even when, or if, you are tempted to be very generous, trusting, or liberal with persons in some "inferior" position, stop and think through whether your instinct will really help, or is unwise in the long run. And don't let your decisions be swayed by such persons to the point where money, especially mutual money, could be jeopardized.

You may have some very pleasant and even happy experiences with those in this relation to you in October. And you can also have some sharp or unpleasant experiences. But on the whole the former will undoubtedly predominate.

October will probably find you working harder in personal ways, as personal effort rather than as the allotting of work to others. There may be something you decide to undertake, perhaps of an ambitious nature, or financial. Your working conditions may rouse you.

In regard to health, the factor which could upset a month normally productive of more energy and physical vitality for you, would be physical indulgences, which threaten. By refusing to indulge overly, you can still have the promised good health. Take no risks, either; don't do sudden things, or overdo things.

October, 1942, Opportunities

For those born May 21-June 20

Dear Gemini:

Most people think of you as an animated mind, and temporarily overlook the distinctly artistic, inventive, creative side of your natural equipment. You are always conscious of this. Your October will rouse this undertone of consciousness to a dominant note in your life. You will find that all the complex of your daily living will resolve into added material for creative expression. What your eyes see, what your ears bring in, what your mind does with this material, will be essentially original. If you have already been deliberately developing some side of this inventive-creative potential of yours, then in October this will become of major importance.

The same October stimulus will of course rouse also your desire for gratification of reciprocal pleasure. Your love life will be more significant. Your wish for social relaxation will take many forms. If you are eligible, romance will beckon.

There are two stretches which, although seeming expansive and pleasurable, will add up to problems in the end if you indulge instincts too expansively. These stretches are the first five days and 13-24. It looks as though the possible problems would take the form of financial regrets, and regrets connected with partners, or with law. These times are fundamentally optimistic and generous and tolerant and trusting, but also impractical and possibly self-indulgent. 17-24 don't be influenced or swayed by friends against your own better judgment.

The first twenty-three days of your October as a whole can nudge you toward some very personal decisions connected with that part of your past which is more or less secret to yourself; perhaps in the form of emotional experiences only you know of. You can, through here, rid yourself of any lingering burdens therewith connected. You can turn your personal past into something pleasant to contemplate; by clearing away false or wrong attitudes, and errors actually involving other persons externally.

For those born June 21-July 22

Dear Cancer:

It so happens that all those things with which you are inherently most concerned as a life major will lump up in your October life and form your month experiences: home, home folks, hospitality, arrangements for and attitude toward later life, your estate, your closer circle of intimates and those you champion and cherish, your children, and so on. (If you are a student of astrology, you will recognize from this that October's major celestial emphasis will come to you through your 4th zodiacal house.)

These typically Cancerian experiences will be of both kinds: gratifying and not so pleasurable. The latter will be because you allow yourself to tighten up, to take sides too forcibly, to challenge others, to condemn or criticize too rigidly, to find fault, to speak too quickly or too sharply. Situations with children, or home folks, situations involving the occupation as it affects the home life, situations coming up as a result of hospitality or pleasures, these must be met with a deliberately placid and serene mind so that friction is not the result.

It may seem a shame to you, at certain times in October, that your more generous and charitable and kindly and trusting impulses seem to bring you certain problems. But at the time or later you will be able to recognize that your impulses were either extreme, or misapplied, or misjudged. The times when these personal errors are most likely to come your way will be 1-5 and 13-24. At these same times it seems wise for you to avoid any gratifications or indulgences or extremes that would affect your good health for the worse.

Because of the nature of your current stimulations, you should not trust your own decisions too wholly in regard to your money assets, estate. You could make mistakes. You could be too extravagant. You might be too optimistic, or enthusiastic. Find out first.

In spite of any fleeting problems, October should add to your reserve in the bank of experience, on the black side of the ledger.

October, 1942, Opportunities

For those born July 23-Aug. 22

Dear Leo:

Feeling sure of yourself, knowing your mind is emitting sparks, aware that your reflexes and your catching powers are quicker than usual, your October will make you want to start things, plan things, organize things, push things. You will find yourself leaping ahead of others as they speak or talk; wanting to show others where they are slow or inefficient, or wrong.

October stirs up your ambitions for yourself. And it is a good month for thinking these over in the light of reason and perspective, for planning them in detail. Certain of your ambitions, or hopes or desires or wishes, you will be able to come nearer realizing, whether they are old or new ones. These will involve your intellectual powers (as writing, speaking, teaching, etc.), your original ideas, and/or your community status. Also push those ambitions that are connected with transportation, mail, distance, publishing, education, whether of local or wider scope. There may be something to be gained in connection with your neighbors, too; and with your brothers or sisters.

Take note of these two periods: 1-5, and 13-24. These are stretches of unsure judgment due to feeling of overconfidence, undue hopefulness. When you feel this way, you are liable to be deceived, taken advantage of; you are also likely to take chances, gamble, or be too generous. There could arise in these days some inner problems connected with love life and secrets.

By the way, from the 12th on into November, you will be feeling more susceptible to the tender emotions. And the love affairs of your friends will mean more to you currently.

Best time to initiate new plans, especially involving friends, partners, your own desires, is 3-8. Best times for again pushing old hopes and plans are 1-6, 9-15, and 19-23.

From this month on, your mental attitude, your opinions, your thinking itself, is changing, becoming finer, more aspirational. This will lead to new standards, higher than the old.

For those born Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Dear Virgo:

Is your money and your occupation on your mind just now? Have you gone through recent changes? Or are you beginning to glimpse the shape of changes to come, and wondering? Are you beginning to feel certain obstacles? Does what is past seem to be holding on to you, holding you back? The whole of your October seems to be a month-long focus on money and occupation, or ambition—perhaps these latter are the same in your case, perhaps not.

The first twenty-three days emphasize this ambition-occupation-money complex, and would seem to be offering you some chances to do something definite and constructive about it. For instance, between 3rd and 8th there will be a new chance of some kind that could broaden your scope and your interests. 1-6, 9-15, and 19-23 will all, in different ways, bring opportunity connected with your past: old ambitions can reappear, past occupational connections bob up again, old desires to use your creative talents occupationally come to the fore, people connected with your past work be met again—especially older people.

The dates to be careful of in October will be 1-5, 13-18, 17-24: these can lead you astray through too-present desires which come to be taken for real facts. All three stretches are impractical financially; you must be careful with money, not led astray by friends, not extravagant, careful of estate (savings, property, assets generally). Not good times for going ahead with investments—postpone. More money may have to go out than is coming in; but manage as well as you can with this in mind.

This month marks the beginning of a long series of financial experiences for you that might, at times, come hard to you: the trend will be to enable you to see values transcending actual money. Keep this in mind from now on. Don't try to cling tenaciously to old standards of values: this would bring problems. Flow with the tide of your experiences.

October, 1942, Opportunities

For those born Sept. 23-Oct. 23

Dear Libra:

The yearly return of the Sun to its natal place—the birthday—is always significant, to every one of us. It marks the completion of another cycle of the Sun; it sums up the previous journey of the Sun through all twelve of our departments of life. Congratulations on your birthday, the completion of your this year's cycle. But that is not all. This October is an especially important month to you personally. It is the first of many, many more to come in the future that will enhance your natural sensitive, artistic, spiritual potential. You begin this month an experience lasting for some years of personal—what shall we say—idealization? More and more, gradually, you will have higher aspirations, promptings, yearnings after finer things, urges perhaps hard to translate but driving you on.

Don't let October get you into difficulties with other people just because you feel so strong and vital and direct personally. Tone positiveness down if it gets to the danger point. And don't get yourself into physical risks and difficulties either. Use your vitality, don't scatter it uselessly.

October has many temptations to do the wrong thing in occupation or in connection with your ambitions. 1-5 and 13-24 will be the most hazardous times. Enthusiasm and sureness and confidence and optimism will be stumbling blocks. Watch your reputation, both in occupation and locally.

Genuine chances to branch out, have wider interests, make progress with old plans and take advantage of some new factors will come in October. Watch for the right new possibilities 3-8: these may be connected with distance, or the means of reaching it, with your own original and creative talents, with your in-laws, or with your training and mental equipment. 1-6, 9-15, and 19-23 will bring chances to push along those interests stemming from the past, or involving older people, or connected with home and estate.

From the 12th into next month contact superiors, executives, personally: and use increasing magnetism to advantage.

For those born Oct. 24-Nov. 22

Dear Scorpio:

People sometimes accuse you of keeping a lot secret, and possibly you do. But this shouldn't be an accusation: if you didn't live a positive inner life the accusation would be in order. For you were meant to grow into awareness of your deep self; it is a life job for you. And so this October of yours should be helpful to you. It is a month of heavy stimulation to all that you reserve for your own knowledge only: it stirs up awareness of inner life.

Keeping things secret is either good, or not good, depending entirely on the motive.

This month certain things about your love life, your health, your relations with children, inferiors, occupational associates, partners and friends, will seem naturally to become secret. It is up to your discrimination to see to it that when you do remain quiet, or cover something up, or reserve something, you do so from a good motive.

Try to be alone, deliberately, as much as you normally and reasonably can, this month. Try a little self communion. Cultivate your powers, including those of intuition or actual inspiration, by reading, ruminating, or just relaxing and dreaming. You might be surprised at the results of this, if you do it earnestly and wisely, with an eye to self understanding and growth. Also this month take your creative side into privacy and work at developing and giving it expression; work harder at it.

There will be some yearnings to seek luring new pastures or to try to take in too much territory, especially in money affairs: poor times will be 1-5 and 13-24. Poor for travel too. Don't embrace easy but false methods of education or religious-philosophical growth: select your teachers wisely.

Watch for new opportunity connected with home or estate 3-8. Cultivate older neighbors, push old community plans, 1-6, 9-15, 19-23. Best time for deciding upon changes will be 3-8. Best time for dealing with women, superiors, partners, legal persons, from 16th.

October, 1942, Opportunities

For those born Nov. 23-Dec. 21

For those born Dec. 22-Jan. 19

Dear Sagittarius:

Good mixer that you are, this will be your month to reap all that is coming to you through other people. And because you are so good a pal, comrade, friend and giver-out, it is probable that you will reap only benefits and satisfactions. But of course, if you have been less than you could have been there may be some kickbacks from other folks this month.

It will seem that your partners (marriage or business), your allies, your friends and acquaintances will dominate your month in one way or another. It could happen that through them you got some stirring up of your real hopes for yourself, and that you became active in furthering these at once. This would be good. Especially if these hopes had to do with your more original and creative side. This is a month for furthering your future, so to speak; rather than just doing what is immediate. If this necessitates some shifts or changes, whether tangible or as attitudes, motives, go ahead: perhaps the best time to decide and act on any new things will be 3-8. If new ideas come to you at this time, or if other folks give them to you, investigate—you may find them.

In money matters, the best dates of your month for proceeding along lines already established in the past will be 1-6, 9-15, and 19-23. Here too, others will prove of aid to you, so don't plan to act too independently: be receptive, open minded, willing.

October's poorer dates are 1-5 (which overlaps first period above, making it contradictory) and 13-24. Both stretches tempt you with your favorite weakness—going to extremes. So don't be too trusting or generous with friends, don't make impossible promises or commitments, don't break hastily or finally, and don't allow yourself to be too swayed by your senses or emotions. The month makes you extra susceptible this way.

From now on for some time you will notice your standards for friends changing. You will demand more of them, prefer those with higher ideals.

Dear Capricorn:

Climbing being the specialty of you mountain goats, it remains only to use this instinct in the right way; and that is what you spend your life trying to do, whether you know it or not. Taking falls is one of the ways you learn; and taking lingering hardship is another. Neither deters you. The former merely points out to you that you were climbing the wrong mountain, or climbing the right one from the wrong motive.

So your October is going to be a valuable month, because it stimulates quite intensely this irrepressible urge to climb. As always, it rouses the accompanying willingness to work, work hard, in doing it. And it is going to be a very significant month, because it is the first of many more to come in succeeding years which make the motive for climbing all important: if your present motives are ambitional and not aspirational, then ahead of you lie some of your familiar falls. For the influences you are now to feel are designed to raise your drive from the material-personal, to the more impersonal and much wiser aspirational-spiritual urges; urges to be bigger, wiser, finer, more worth while, to have the kind of power which you do not want or wield for yourself.

All through October there will be liability to error in dealing with other folks, particularly partners, legal persons, and those with whom you have confidential dealings. These errors will count against occupational progress, and against good reputation; so be sensible and discreet. Avoid extremes, especially 1-5 and 13-24.

Avoid the kind of attitude or act that brings about friction and quarrel in occupation too: particularly involving domestic life, and possibly jeopardizing your assets.

Watch for new money opportunities 3-8. Take on more responsibility, work to further old personal plans, 1-6, 9-15, and 19-23. Cultivate inferiors, especially if they are older than yourself, or long known.

And all through the month cultivate women and younger people.

October, 1942, Opportunities

For those born Jan. 20-Feb. 18

Dear Aquarius:

It's always welcome news to you to know that more liberty, leeway, scope, is coming your way: to deal more largely in bigger things gratifies your sense of values. Your October brings up the universals in your life. It turns your attention to those interests which sum up, contrast, compare, spread out, focus your perspectives. This month opens up new windows in your consciousness.

It is a strongly resourceful, inventive, original month; so remember this and play it up in all your efforts. If you call upon your creative side in October, you will get an answer in the form of results.

Another form this current influence may take is that of travel. If this comes about, it is likely to be the sort of travel that takes you farther than usual from home. It could work out the other way: people from a distance may come to you.

All this emphasis upon the bigger concepts, bigger values, wider activities in your life is just beginning this month: it will continue for some years, eventually refining and raising your concepts. Your religion and philosophy will, both this month and on, present a challenge to you: either begin to live it wholly in your daily life, or come up against some inner problems.

The month's difficulties (and every month has some) will have to do with your health, and your relations with those who look up to you (subordinates, servants, inferiors, dependents, those who admire you, etc.). Some conflict could arise between these and your growing sense of bigger values. In health, strictly avoid excesses and extremes. Dates when your temptation will be toward overconfidence, indulgence, undue faith, impracticality, will be 1-5, and 13-24. Yet overlapping this will be the dates when your practical, steady, working side will be at its best: 1-6, 9-15, and 19-23. These latter stretches are excellent for overcoming past problems and obstacles of a secret nature, love life problems, problems with elders, and for advancing old plans.

For those born Feb. 19-Mar. 20

Dear Pisces:

Regardless of what is transpiring in your practical, everyday life, October sees you with a very strong emotional complex. First, your sense responses will be stepped up; second, your love life will begin to dominate you more; third, your unsureness of the emotional values involved will demand something of you that is usually not easy: decisions that you don't regret afterward, and don't wish you could alter.

1-5, 13-24, and from the 31st are the dates of greatest temptation to do the wrong things and feel the wrong things in your emotional life. In here you may make the mistake of exaggerating your feelings, or trusting them too much. You may become more involved in some situation than you really want to be. You may obligate yourself unwisely; may give way to an urge for some kind of self-gratification.

Be advised that this is the first month of a long influence to come for you that will continually but gradually force you to see emotional values differently than you do now. If you respond well, the higher side of your nature will develop strongly, and you will have more intuition, even psychic sensitivity.

Your assets, property, savings, etc., and your joint funds, also any insurance, legacies, trust funds, wills, involved in your current life, are going to be affected in October. You will need to come to decisions about them. And some progress and gain can be made if you don't become extravagant.

This is a good month for improving home and domestic relations, whether the issues are new or old. If new, make effort 3-8; if old, 1-6, 9-15, and 19-23.

A distinct desire for more power will be felt this month. It won't take an obvious, outward form; but you will know it.

One of the best ways to use your October's influences will be to concentrate upon reading and studying religion, philosophy, and comparative subjects. Open up your mind now by feeding it.

Business: Morning hours may find you ready to rely on rosy promises and wishful thinking; don't permit your business plans to get into a state of confusion. Guard against tricky maneuvers.

Love and Affection: Emotions subtly upset in morning: yearnings, exaggerations. Evening may be antagonistic, challenging, demanding; but don't you be. Relax inside. Make allowances. Not promising for romance.

Health: Till 1:04 pm: defer operations on limbs, arms, hands, fingers, ribs. Have no strenuous treatment directed to the lungs, trachea or respiratory tract. After 1:04 pm: stomach or breast operations should be deferred, also those to pancreas and womb.

Hospitality: Not a good date for deliberate choice. If entertaining in evening, don't invite superiors of any type; nor self-starrers. Try to steer around friction and/or accidents. Not good for stag affairs. Avoid arguments. Food: nothing stimulating or too hearty, overseasoned, or burnt.

Advising All Signs for Today

For Aries: Morning hours are not a good time to decide questions that affect your neighbors, your close relatives or your inferiors; feelings of the negative variety are likely to influence you. Evening: use plenty of tact with home folks if pleasure or entertainment matters come up for attention or discussion. Be careful how you react to the suggestions or viewpoints of others generally, especially during late evening.

For Taurus: Don't spend more than you can afford for pleasure or luxury items during morning hours. And be careful if money enters the picture when you are with friends or loved ones. Evening hours advise that it will be relatively easy to get involved in misunderstandings with neighbors and close relatives, especially if they are not as well off as you are. Keep your domestic plans well organized.

For Gemini: Personal magnetism is not at its best during morning hours, and you are urged to watch your step if you have career matters or those pertaining to estate or property on your schedule in which personal contacts are necessary. Evening: not wise to bring up questions of a financial nature when you are with neighbors, close relatives or loved ones. Don't seek the spotlight if you are entertaining or visiting.

For Cancer: Use plenty of thought control during morning hours, for it would be foolish to let thoughts of a negative nature gain a foothold. Think twice before you discuss your intimate plans or affairs with others. Keep calm regarding neighborhood situations. Evening hours don't place too much emphasis on personal items when you are with members of your family circle. Don't argue about money matters.

For Leo: Morning hours urge you to use plenty of discrimination if money items come up for attention; don't evade reality or listen too attentively to rosy promises. Steer clear of the causes of emotional tailspins when you are with friends. Evening: go slow if you have activities that bring you in contact with neighbors or close relatives; tendencies to talk too freely about your private life are with you.

For Virgo: Avoid moodiness and tendencies toward self-pity during morning hours, especially if you contact persons who are important in your career plans. Not a good time to make any legal or partnership moves. Evening hours: make sure you have the proper perspective on financial matters before you make any important decisions; avoid extravagance. Be your best self if you meet friends or neighbors.

For Libra: Morning hours advise against thinking too much about your deeper problems, for this is likely to lead to feelings of self-pity, nervousness and irritation. Be as practical as you can when dealing with inferiors or persons who play a role in your business activities. Poor for travel. Evening hours: avoid temptations to be the center of attraction if your activities bring you in contact with friends.

For Scorpio: Don't expect too much cooperation from friends or loved ones during morning hours, especially if your interests are strongly linked with theirs. Keep budget plans well organized. Evening hours are not too reliable for deciding questions that affect your superiors or your in-laws; there may be factors involved that do not appear on the surface. Best not to follow hunches or inspirations.

For Sagittarius: It will be relatively easy to rouse the opposition and resentment of persons who play a role in your home or office, during morning hours; be careful how you react to their suggestions—don't make mountains out of molehills. Evening hours: more than the usual self-control and tact will be necessary with friends or loved ones if you need their cooperation. Not wise to bring budget problems up for discussion.

For Capricorn: Morning is a stretch when you should steer clear of the causes of emotional tangles with neighbors, relatives or inferiors. Also be sure to handle matters involving travel or communication with added care. Evening: don't be dictatorial toward mate or those closely associated with you. Not wise to bring career or business plans up for consideration. Money items can also be the source of misunderstandings.

Meet competition and rivalry with poise and courtesy.

For Taurus: A new cycle of action and enterprise is about to begin. Curb excitement and do not permit yourself to be rushed into things. Premature changes must be avoided, and acquaintances carefully selected to side-step unnecessary problems and disappointments.

For Gemini: A very steady influence is brought to bear through elders and loved ones. Your ability to assume responsibility can win you some objective. Strive to correct wrong impressions, and to be dutiful and poised under any and all circumstances if you want to boost your stock. Side-track pet peeves.

For Cancer: Here is a day when you have a chance to rise above feelings of restlessness and impatience, and to show your capacity for constructive thought and planning. Mixing in the problems of others is not advisable this day and evening.

For Scorpio: Romantic inclinations can be a weakness if indulged, better skip adventure and accept the restrictions upon your freedom that circumstances seem to have raised at the moment. For Sagittarius: An impersonal attitude, and willingness to adjust yourself to circumstances will enable you to deal with home and office conditions today in a constructive manner. Assert your rights, but don't overlook those of others. If you watch your step, and keep everything squared away, all will work out to advantage in the long run. Be ready to resist efforts to stampede you into unwise action.

For Capricorn: Develop any phase of your affairs which relates to papers, writings, commerce for the long pull. Time is ever your ally, and patience coupled with persistence your secret weapons. Don't be too headstrong or impatient. Find some way of counteracting that restless feeling, and check any urge to argue over details. You may become rather conscious of rivalry, competition or opposition at this time. Stress cooperation.

For Taurus: Don't take people into your confidence without due consideration today. Resist the urge to worry, fret or talk about private plans and matters. Get some rest tonight, if you need it. Avoid self-indulgence and self-pity (twin errors).

For Gemini: Friends will respond well to a sober, responsible attitude on your part. Be alert for opportunities which come through contacts with people you know in a fraternal or social way. Be tactful and discreet if you need their support in any recreational project. For Cancer: Consider the reaction between domestic and career interests when making moves or changes today. Work along conservative, tried and true lines. You will make slow, but sure progress. Elders should be contacted if you need to talk over private matters with anyone. Hold aloof from arguments and contentions as much as possible both day and evening. A tendency to get too many irons in the fire should be checked.

For Leo: The turn of events at a distance favors you. Consult with old friends and elders if plans need changing or you feel undecided about anything. Counteract any inclination to scattered thinking, jumping to conclusions. Be sure you, and others have all the facts and figures. Don't rush into agreements or litigation, or undertake journeys until sure they are necessary and wise, and then proceed slowly.

For Virgo: Headstrong people can play havoc with accounts and mutual financial interests, if you join the fray and are a party to contention. Find the middle path of adjustment and compromise if you want to get the best out of current trends. Contrast and comparison of values is also advisable. Retrenchment may be needed to balance the budget. Put first things first, including duty and practicality.

For Libra: Watch your personal approach and reactions when you contact other people, partners and associates today. Do not expect much in the way of attention or cooperation, but be sure you hold up your end. The other fellow may be in a selfish mood, and rather headstrong. You can cope with him only by playing second fiddle, but can make headway in a slow, sure way. Social activity and some excitement indicated.

For Scorpio: This is not a good time for tackling projects in which confidential items play a role. It is best suited to making headway with work which requires patience and persistence. Plenty of behind-the-scenes social or other activity indicated. Don't let down on the job, until it is finished, or get too many irons in the fire at once. Avoid parading your problems before social or business inferiors.

For Sagittarius: This is not a good time for permitting tension to develop between friends and loved ones, or for seeking to make headway and court favor if to do so might react to the disadvantage of an acquaintance. Forego pleasure or entertainment activities which lead to bickering, or which you find irritating. Forward those which permit pursuit of recreation with a soothing partner or associate.

For Capricorn: This is your period to shine where wit and intelligence count. Play down the personal angle, but don't take a back seat when you have facts and figures organized and ready. Health: All day: have no operations to the eyes, teeth or any part of the head or face. Stomach and kidneys could suffer from too much excitement, irritating personal encounters, overloading of the digestive system.

Hospitality: Both arrangements and guests will tend to get out of hand. And you yourself may need to control urges to overdo, over-offer, waste, or let your own disposition get ruffled. Don't invite superiors, pretensions, envious guests. Food: the simplest, the most wholesome.

Advising All Signs for Today

For Aries: The strengths and weaknesses of alliances can be fully viewed this day and evening. Move to counteract antagonisms. Bring personality to bear, but don't oversell or act in any way that puts you at a disadvantage. Be careful whose lead you follow at this time, and that what is started can be finished alone if necessary. Any trouble or excitement that arises appears linked with partnership, rivalry.

For Taurus: Close harmony on the job necessary. Compromise any differences which could lead to the arousing of enmity, or discord. Be guarded in activities, social-artistic efforts, lest misjudgment and over-optimism get you off on an unhealthy tangent. Relax and rest if necessary for the possibility of emotional tension being generated is very strong and should be offset by conscious mental direction of effort.

For Gemini: Progress possible along creative lines where old matters and elders play the major role. Financial risk not advised. Curb pleasure-social-entertainment activities which could embarrass you or cause any unbalancing of the budget. If selling, don't overdo it. Friends and loved ones may see things in a very different and contrary light. Compensate for this if you bring them together for any reason.

For Cancer: Settle any old or pending matters which involve papers, writings, agreements. Heed private hints or advice of elders. Exercise much forethought today, if you want to maintain prestige and popularity. Handle headstrong people with wisdom and take care you do not indulge impetuous emotions and feelings, especially in occupational-credit and personal-domestic fields. Make sure you gain by contrast and comparison.

For Leo: This can be a period when emotions are at high tide. Do not be led astray by your feelings, or the influence of visionary people. This does not look like the time to make or change plans and arrangements. Further study or weighing of decisions seems advisable. Conference with old friends, elders or serious minded kin can be valuable. Charitable impulses appear a possible source of trouble.

For Virgo: Interplay of feelings and emotions where your finances or belongings and those of others are involved is very marked. Hold on to your hat. Keep your head and give proper attention to balancing accounts impartially. The urge to be headstrong is great. Cross currents also involve friends, both the worthy and the unworthy. Pick your way with care, curb social life if possible. Be serious, businesslike.

For Libra: Other people, especially partners and the public at large, may strike you as being too ready to start something this day and evening. Find the mid-point of compromise so you can utilize their initiative and balance it with your own powers of judgment, teamwork and harmony. The temptation to extravagance, over-expansion and ostentation is very strong and should be sidetracked at all costs.

For Scorpio: The behind-the-scenes factors are many today. Take them into consideration in all dealings with inferiors, co-workers and dependents. Counteract emotional approach to work, health or other matters and problems. There is a tendency to misjudge and over-emphasize the importance of conditions, things and personalities. Cultivate poise; do what is absolutely necessary and let the turn of events resolve matters.

For Sagittarius: Don't fight the turn of events, intelligent non-resistance is much more effective and less costly. The day and evening is not a good time to make decisions involving friends or loved ones without making sure of the facts, their feelings and viewpoints, which may be quite at variance unknown to you. The state of your resources should determine activities to a large extent. Do not overlook that factor.

For Capricorn: Full light is thrown upon any existing conflict between home and career interests. Compromise and readjustment are in order, but should not be rushed into without proper scrutiny and judgment based on all the angles involved. Keep an eye on impulsive people, they could upset the apple cart without half trying. Mind the undercurrents at this time, and do not discount their importance.

For Aquarius: Hold everything mentally today. This looks like a period of important judgment and decision, but keep your head, and insist that others do the same. Snap conclusions are unwarranted. Serious study and mature answers to problems go hand in hand. Old plans and ideas have merit, give them their proper place and importance in the scheme of things. Be altruistic, at your best in relations with those less fortunate.

For Pisces: Income and outgo appear at high tide, subject to stress, strain, changes and compromises this day and evening. Do not be too headstrong or selfish about money or possessions, others have much in their favor and there is need to weigh and balance things to strike a happy medium. A change of trend helps stabilize matters if you turn attention to improvement of the exchequer, domestic finances. Some money reforms are in order. Put them into effect. Forward work interests.

For Taurus: There is still need to give importance to any tendency to go soft on the job or permit self-indulgence. Forego the pleasure of eating what you like, if it causes you indisposition. Personal magnetism is up, and you can accomplish what you want by giving things your undivided attention. Luck is earned, it is not an indiscriminate gift of the gods. Keep that in mind if yours seems a bit sour, at the moment.

For Gemini: Overcome inertia and take care of those confidential items which require attention. Quiet behind-the-scenes moves and changes are better than activities which bring you before the public. The financial picture is one where over-optimism can be a danger. Make necessary reforms in your dealings with those less fortunate than yourself. Rest and relax as much as possible to relieve nerve tension.

For Cancer: Discharge social obligations, but take care that you do not sidetrack more important personal matters in attempts to be a good fellow or host. Hold down irritability at home, and around your base of operations. Find your way around any irritations or obstacles which arise if dealing with friends. New acquaintances will bear scrutiny, cultivate older, more serious types, instead of parasites.

For Leo: Today's problems have a business or career-financial angle to them. Seek the favor of women, the public and those inferiors or higher-ups in a position to help you gain what you want, by making necessary reforms and readjustments. Position, credit and relationships are up for attention and active. Don't exaggerate domestic problems. Be sure you have the right slant on things before making decisions.

For Virgo: Thoughts and ideas concerning money and possessions are stimulated by present activity in that department of your affairs. Act along conservative lines, for any other course would be fool-hardy. Do not let the apparent prosperity of friends or acquaintances cause you to indulge in any spending spree in an effort to keep up with them, or square accounts. Use energy available to make, not spend money. Plans change.

For Libra: Hold down desires and impulses today. You could easily go off on a wrong tangent. This period can be used to uncover weaknesses and correct them. Luck is not with you to any marked degree for pushing new ventures or further extending your credit and popularity. Give due attention to partnership financial interests, retrench and conserve; save for a rainy day as it were. Wait for the turn of the tide.

For Scorpio: You are moving into a period of increased personal power and influence, but for the moment the other fellow has the ball. Give him due attention and support, be cooperative. Resolve differences with partners where necessary. Be discreet and above-board in all private and confidential matters. Don't kick over the traces. Consider future implications in present decisions—do it now willingly.

For Sagittarius: Troublesome people and conditions can be dealt with by following the path of wisdom and non-resistance without surrender of your rights and prerogatives if you find the impersonal approach and angle. Clear away the dead wood, make necessary readjustments to improve the value of your services. Attention to health may be in order, if you have been over-working or over-indulging in any way.

For Capricorn: The trend of events is somewhat favorable to you, and is auspicious for limited advancement of creative interests, dealings with loved ones and children. Court favor, but remember that deeds, not words count the heaviest. Adapt yourself to such new conditions as are developing every moment during the present world readjustment. There is a job for you to do, just keep studying and you will learn what it is.

For Aquarius: People around your base of operations are in the mood for moves and changes, or readjustments. Do not be too inert or inflexible. Look for the value in what develops there. The period favors enjoyment of family life, the home community.

For Pisces: You can expect to do some traveling about today, and to be in contact with numerous people if you respond to the current trend and stimuli. ## Advising All Signs for Today

For Aries: You are likely to be out and about a good deal today. Watch a tendency to sudden changes of mind and mood, some may be the result of real inspiration, others merely an erratic, unstable state of mind manifesting. Keep relations with others on an even keel. Cultivate an interest in new neighborhood developments, be progressive minded. You may find yourself taking an interest in odd, unusual subjects.

For Taurus: Don't change belongings or financial affairs around just aimlessly, have some purpose in mind or leave them alone. It will be possible to gain by the exercise of wit and ingenuity today. Skilful, dextrous handling of money matters can be profitable, and more than one source of increment could be uncovered. Relatives and neighbors can play some unexpected role in the day or evening events.

For Gemini: Your craving for novelty and change is likely to keep you on the jump today, and those around you as well. Don't try to handle too many things at once, even if you are ambi-dextrous. Quick wit and originality can be very constructive factors, and should be utilized, but personal whims and eccentricities are negative and likely to cause upsets with other people. A change of scene is almost certain and may be a surprise.

For Cancer: If you are seeking change and adventure in out of the way places, mind you don't get lost or stray too far from the beaten path. Temptation here to think too much about personal problems and limitations, either real or imagined. Do not brood, look for the silver lining; a new and better world is being evolved as the old gives way to the new. It is the same in our little sphere.

For Leo: Keep an eye on any possible nervous tension which might be developing, especially with friends or the home folks. Keep in touch with how other people are thinking and feeling, don't lose touch, or be indifferent. New acquaintances may be odd, interested in scientific or literary pursuits. Such friends can bring considerable change and novelty into one's life, but they may be rather unreliable for all their wit.

For Virgo: Be sure career moves and changes are not premature before going ahead. There are signs of inspired moves bringing gain in odd and peculiar ways, but also a tendency to think a lot, and do little else. There is a possibility of short trips, considerable exchange of news and ideas in connection with occupation or at the behest of parents or superiors. Rise to the occasion if routine is suddenly upset.

For Libra: There is unusual support for your program and plans today. Make the most of the chance to forward intellectual interests, distant affairs, and to deal with learned, inspiring personalities. Guard against irresolution and premature judgment. If travel is contemplated, be sure it is necessary before undertaking the journey or making definite arrangements. Some emotional experience involving in-laws possible.

For Scorpio: The right kind of studies, literary and scientific pursuits can help you reorganize and systematize your life along the lines necessary to cope with current conditions and demands. Draw upon your natural resources of wit and intelligence before giving way to any worry over the state of accounts or mutual finances. The outcome of a progressive approach may surprise you, and solve problems as if by magic.

For Sagittarius: Other people, including partners may have some interesting and original views on things today. Get together with them and study or discuss things of mutual concern. Establish greater harmony and understanding with your equals and friends. Do not rely too much upon the other fellow, however, for some rather unpredictable conditions surround him (or her) and they may react in odd ways.

For Capricorn: There is a tendency to upsets and indisposition, but not unless you have ignored the rules. Watch an inclination to get out of touch with new developments and conditions related to your work if you want to keep things moving along. Do not put weak points on display around inferiors or co-workers. Surprising progress possible if you unselfishly seek to help and serve those in positions of power.

For Aquarius: Your love of study, books, scientific and literary hobbies can be indulged within reason this day and evening as the circumstances arise to make pursuit of such interests possible. Do not get too far up in the intellectual stratosphere though, —there is work to be done, daily routine and obligations to be discharged. Keep an eye on any temperamental superiors, also children and loved ones.

For Pisces: Better think twice if the urge comes to upset things around your base of operations or make any change of residence. It may be a bit premature or uncalled for, although there are indications favoring some domestic reforms. Be ready to cope with situations and people who are more mental, and less sensitive than yourself. Settle family financial questions amicably. New factors help.

☾ in ♊ Moon in Gemini all day

☾ △ ☿ 3:55 am-3:55 pm: Moon-Mercury trine

☉ ♅ ♅ End of Sun-Uranus quincunx at 2:07 pm (since 26th)

Business: Dealings with men, officials, executives and authorities require some tact and resourcefulness today. Tension and a temptation to premature moves could be upsetting factors until midafternoon. Having facts and figures at your finger tips can be very helpful, and may mean the difference between achievement and disappointment. Trade and commerce are stimulated, but paper transactions may outweigh tangibles handled.

Love and Affection: There's a good chance to talk it out and get rid of it through the morning and till 4 pm; also, if you've been held together by bonds of emotion only, take this opportunity to exchange mental slants, be better friends and pals. Evening is a minor one, but still accents the mental more than the emotional.

Health: Where nervous depletion is evidenced, rest is essential. Mental over-activity, vacillation and a tendency to worry or fret are the most probable sources of indisposition at this time. Avoid exposure to colds. All day: defer operations on limbs, arms, hands, fingers, ribs. Have no strenuous treatment directed to the lungs, trachea or respiratory tract.

Hospitality: You could do your business entertaining on this date; if you do, the better time would be up to later afternoon. It is still possible to do it in the evening, but not as positively promising. OK for all types of study groups; and for doing your entertaining by way of some short trip. If you stay home, be sure to arm yourself with interesting topics, mind challengers. Food: on the light side, favoring easy digestion.

Advising All Signs for Today

For Aries: If you have any conference, agreements, contracts or studies scheduled, the probabilities for successful advancement of such matters are excellent, provided the purpose is a serious one. This day favors concentration and attention to practical or old matters. If delays, obstacles are encountered, be patient, persistent and avoid fretting or worrying. Limit gadding about and be on time for all appointments.

For Taurus: Rely on knowledge and talk things over with loved ones or others who can throw light on the subject if you have any financial moves or changes scheduled. Look out for an adverse time element. Morning is a better time to buy, than to sell. Keep an eye on your personal belongings then, lest you lose or misplace something. Mid-day is a good time for normal trade and expenditures.

For Gemini: Keep in touch with men, officials, the boss, if anything important is pending. They may be more high-strung and eccentric than usual, but then you may appear the same to them or inclined to be a bit too changeable. Put work first, and personal affairs second if you want to avoid any upsets. Maintain poise and be patient and your wit will enable you to win favor. Deal with women and young people.

For Cancer: Give serious thought and study to private matters today. A business conference may take up some time, but can be a key to find the answer to some problem. Do not permit your mind to dwell upon personal limitations. Find someone to help who needs assistance and you will be able to forget your own difficulties. Then they can work out naturally. Logical reasoning can be a harmonizing factor in home affairs.

For Leo: The sensitive point in today's affairs appears to be maintenance of friendly relations with elders and old friends. Hopes, wishes and ambitions should be crystallized and organized properly, then given time to mature. You can't plant seeds and have them sprout at once. Discussion, study, conference and correspondence can help make this a pleasant period of increased understanding with others. Don't scatter vitality.

For Virgo: The business picture seems to move from one of gloom to one of understanding and profitable moves and changes. This appears a fairly good period for trade and adjustments along lines calculated to help you balance the budget and show a net gain, at least on paper. Monetary affairs continue active and may consume much energy, thought and attention. Keep relations with men, officials, superiors free of tension.

For Libra: Gather in all the news, information and ideas you can today, both from near and far. You will then be in a position to arrange your affairs along lines which permit the realization of long range objectives. Relations with in-laws, or those at a distance can be favorably influenced if wit and courtesy are employed. Overcome any inclination to worry about the future. Let it take care of itself.

For Scorpio: Tension and erratic attitudes can distort your character and put you in a negative light. Don't be drawn into reckless habits, but instead develop your capacity for sustained intellectual effort. Any attempts to improve understanding with creditors, adjust accounts, collect money or benefit through trade and the resources of others appear successful because of witty handling.

For Sagittarius: Watch the emotional drift today. You are wide open to being influenced by partners and others, and must be sure changes and moves are well taken. Counteract any nervousness, and avoid getting over-excited. This trend alternates between attracting allies and antagonizing people. Find the point of intelligent compromise. Take an interest in the other person, his ideas and viewpoint.

For Capricorn: You will be more active and expressive than usual today, better able to get your ideas and attitudes across to co-workers, dependents and others. If occupational pursuits require travel, or intelligent handling, you have a good chance to gain some recognition for your apt handling of things. A good memory, orderly, methodical thinking are qualities superiors will be looking for in you at this time.

For Aquarius: Today may get off to a slow start, but things speed up later, especially on the mental side. Intellectual prowess is stimulated and brought into play. This is where you can shine, so display your creative and executive ability in the realm of science and learning if you want to make progress and win some prized objective, even if it is only a pleasant argument. Loved ones claim some attention.

For Pisces: Give thought and study to domestic affairs, changes today. Be decisive and resolute, and avoid over-activity, worry, lack of continuity. The proper impersonal attention to family and local affairs will enable you to learn much which can be of value in settling outstanding matters, and making decisions regarding your base of operations, mutual resources, estate and tax matters. Give thought to a little "nest egg."

Consider such elements important if they crop up. People are emotional, sensitive, responsive to novelty, easily stirred, a bit restless.

Love and Affection: There always seems time enough to be frivolous, or excited, or stimulated, or on the go. Times when one or both want to be serious, or quiet, for a while come once in a while too, and today's one of those times. Work, or read, or just be quiet together; get to know each other's more sober and steady side.

Health: All day: stomach and breast operations should be deferred, also those to the pancreas and womb. Avoid any strenuous treatment involving the chest cavity and epigastric region. Maintain emotional stability and resist a tendency to be restless and easily hurt. Home life can be a healing factor.

Hospitality: Deliberately avoid a frothy, frivolous party, for it wouldn't go as well as usual. ## Advising All Signs for Today

For Aries: If you have any domestic affairs pending, this looks like the time to settle matters. Turn aside from purely personal interests and display some imagination and sympathy where elders and the family are concerned. Center activities around the home, office or base of operations for best results. Events there are highlighted in some way, and minor changes are indicated, especially in the pm.

For Taurus: You will be sensitive to the mood and attitude of neighbors and family members today. Encourage them to take the initiative, sound them out on their ideas. A restless urge to make short trips and visits can be indulged for the results possible appear to justify them. People contacted today are likely to exhibit considerable tenacity and imagination, and topics covered by any discussion lean toward the domestic.

For Gemini: Minor financial moves and changes appear advantageous. Look over your belongings and money matters with an eye to finding ways and means of introducing improvement, getting things better organized. Dealings with women, the family and general public can be profitable. This can work in reverse if a negative attitude is permitted and result in numerous small expenditures. Cultivate acquisitive leanings.

For Cancer: You are magnetic today, and can influence people if you will just overcome your shyness, timidity and sensitiveness and see them in person. Minor changes of environment are possible and likely to have a beneficial effect upon your outlook. 'Tis said the affairs of those born under your sign often move forward, by apparently going backward, and this could be the case at the moment.

For Leo: Personal and family problems are sensitized today. Look for the little angles which can bring improvement. They are important at this time. Friends can be surprisingly helpful. This is not the best time to launch new ventures. It is best for completing outstanding matters, for research, investigation, scouting out the lay of the land. Be sure to get some rest, if you feel the need of it.

For Virgo: Friends and acquaintances will be sympathetic toward you and your hopes, wishes, ambitions today. Forward the fraternal side of your interests. New contacts may be formed by visiting the homes of those with whom you are on friendly terms. The social-domestic inclinations are stimulated. Those met for the first time are likely to prove hospitable and helpful, but quite sensitive and easily hurt.

For Libra: See what you can do to boost your popularity with parents and the public at large today. Side-tracking purely personal interests may help. Let people see the patriotic, sensitive home loving side of your nature for a change. It will enable you to get a new point of direction, and may reveal some interesting facets where career and family matters are concerned. Take your cue from those at the top.

For Scorpio: Be sensitive to the trend of events for the future is plastic and developments enable you to mold it to your liking if you are willing to try. Thoughts of distant family, domestic or other matters, of change and travel, voyaging and the like seem stimulated. Imagination is above par. Indulge it, but don't just day-dream the time away. Make minor changes in plans, arrangements with confidence.

For Sagittarius: Tendency here to lose touch with things, and to be too secretive or sensitive. Utilize imagination to look for ways and means of making minor improvements in the mutual financial picture. See how you and partners can make more money or get greater value for funds expended. Conservative buying of needed items recommended, but the major trend indicates a need for caution and some retrenchment.

For Capricorn: Get together with partners and others. Externalize your moods and attitudes as much as possible. It will do you good and will help you, and the other fellow see what makes each other tick. People will be sensitive, imaginative, dramatic. Be indulgent if they appear too sentimental. Perhaps it's a quality you must cultivate more—hence your reaction. Contrast and comparison recommended.

For Aquarius: Be sympathetic and imaginative in your approach to work, dealings with fellow employees or dependents. Dealings with children are favored, also courtship, romance, anything pertaining to dramatics.

♅ △ ♀ Uranus-Neptune trine till Dec. 11th
♄ ☊ ♀ Saturn-Uranus conjunction till Feb. 5th

♀ ♀ ♀ All day and till 31st: Venus-Uranus quincunx

☾ ☊ ♀ 5:40 am-11:40 pm: Moon-Jupiter conjunction
☾ ☐ ☿ 9:51 pm till tomorrow 7:51 am: Moon-Mars square

Business: Look out for sharp practice; keep an eye on the details in all transactions, where accounts and orders are concerned for the likelihood of misunderstanding and error is considerable this am. An optimistic mood aids whoever sells today. People will be sensitive to rumors and reports, somewhat worrisome and restless, inclined to bicker and argue, but responsive to sympathy.

Love and Affection: Better pick the hours between noon and nine pm if you're having a romantic date. Before that it's mentally antagonistic, and after that it can be downright friction-ish, even though both care. Perhaps because both do! In those good hours it should be possible to relax any barriers or defenses, and allow attraction to do its stuff.

Health: Getting together with a good family physician could be very beneficial if you are ailing, for current rays help you gain relief. Choose food combinations wisely. All day: defer stomach or breast operations, also those to the pancreas and womb. Avoid drastic treatments of chest cavity, epigastric region.

Hospitality: A later lunch, or an earlier dinner, are today's best social bets. Morning and early lunch hours show the tongue-and-tact hazard, plus mix-ups in details or plans. Later evening from nine pm could become heated beyond the purely social point; or some one guest could produce unpleasantness. Food: lunch, generous. Dinner—same, with perhaps a foreign dish.

Advising All Signs for Today

For Aries: Watch the legal, partnership angle today. There is a tendency to restless change and indecision, rooted somehow in domestic and emotional cross currents. Do not be a party to contention or bickering. Instead strive to settle family, property, local matters by wise and generous means. Cultivate the jovial side of life. Tonight: make the most of the comfort and protection of the home, and fireside.

For Taurus: Say no to any temptation to drift into arguments or discussions and gossip with anyone today. Focus attention on the big things that have to be studied and thought out, not the side-issues involved. Any mental unsettlement could react in a negative way upon the health or working disposition, so be forewarned and armed against it. Support any big move by brothers, sisters, neighbors.

For Gemini: Square away details which could cause trouble or misunderstanding. Emotions and reason are at logger-heads, and foolish moves and attitudes, costly words, could result. If the right angle is brought to light it will pay in a big way. Selling luck indicated, but beware if you are the buyer this day or evening. Don't mislay, or misplace things, and keep an eye on the young that they don't as well.

For Cancer: Personal affairs and new ventures could move forward on a wide front, if details, arguments or indecision do not block progress. Unreasonable people can cause trouble, be sure you and others settle things amicably if contention develops this a.m. Scrupulous attention to, and observance of the rights of all parties concerned can be an important factor in maintaining harmony and preventing trouble.

For Leo: Look out for any subversive influences. Some block to the full expression of individuality may need clearing away. Perhaps some reform or reorganization is in order. The home front is important. Steer clear of any corrupting forces, destructive inclinations. Seclusion and some self-imposed silence can be very helpful in finding the solution to problems. Shun gossip and family or marital bickering.

For Virgo: Keep an eye on relations with others, lest they develop some negative angle, or take a turn for the worse due to behind the scenes factors, or wrong thinking and procrastination. Expand your circle of friends. Make the most of any chance to get together with people who are sympathetic, generous, jovial, but be very tactful and cautious where finances and friends are concerned.

For Libra: Those in high places may seem unreasonable, or it may be difficult to reason with people today. There is a tendency to a short circuiting of mind and emotions which could cause misunderstandings unless it is watched and checked. Keep your eye on the big things, and don't let yourself or others get side-tracked or off on any negative tangents. Take nothing for granted in dealings with inferiors, young folk.

For Scorpio: Some angle of your life and affairs seems to require reform, or an expression of positive will-power at this time. Put things right, don't procrastinate; avoid blind alleys. Give undivided attention to big things, plans for expansion, and be careful of confiding in strangers. Two negative trends warn of a need for discretion in private affairs and confidential matters, dealings with in-laws.

For Sagittarius: Center attention upon personal affairs and interests and refuse to get off on any tangents today, if you want to make progress and avoid difficulties. The acquisitive, resourceful side of your nature is to the fore, and you can benefit by attention to accounts, estate matters, tax and other problems, cultivation of resources and assets intimately linked with your family or community.

For Capricorn: Dealings with partners and others can be successful if attention is restricted to main issues exclusively and all other angles and tangents avoided. Do not expect complete reliability from others where details are concerned, if their cooperation is essential or anticipated. Avoid public scenes. If removals are contemplated get facts and figures before going ahead. What you anticipate now will save much later.

For Aquarius: Keep your mind on the job, and give attention to wise moves and changes which can increase the value of your services. This is a good time for gaining greater confidence and sympathy from dealings with inferiors, co-workers, dependents. Accent the personal element. Unity of interests can magnify and grow into something worthwhile. Let plans and arrangements mature for the time being.

For Pisces: An eye on the main objective and a refusal to be distracted by side issues is essential to success. Seek to expand your capacity for creative and executive activity linked with career, occupation. Take reasonable chances to advance your cause and win recognition from people in a position to grant or withhold favors. Let resources determine how much you spend on pleasure.

Advising All Signs for Today

For Aries: Loved ones can be a stabilizing influence today, and may help you make new contacts and improve understanding with allies and others. Put creative and executive talents on display. This is not the best evening for any family party, but it is good for getting new angles on home matters, and fitting things together so that a more balanced working pattern is evolved. Also take a careful look at conditions of your personal estate.

For Gemini: Morning hours: financial strategy may bring gain. Inspired moves bring opportunity through relatives, neighbors. For Cancer: Stabilize and organize money matters. Some new and intriguing angles may come to light through which you can gain if you are progressive and original. Watch out for foolish expenditures for pleasure or loved ones. Don't fritter away ready cash. Be resolute and not too soft or sentimental and self-indulgent if you want to gain or improve your possessions at this time. It would be easy to relax efforts.

For Leo: After midmorning personal affairs should begin to move forward and there will be new and interesting opportunities to make friends and influence people. A change of environment could bring you into contact with more people than staying at home. Incidentally, watch the domestic angle lest inharmony or a clash of emotions develop. There is still need to clear away deadwood of some sort, or make readjustments.

For Virgo: The main trend of the day puts emphasis upon private interests and inclines to activity in quiet, secluded surroundings or along lines which permit the giving or gaining of assistance. Side-track anything not strictly above-board, especially romance. Look for opportunity to improve your understanding of new career developments, financial schemes, but don't leap emotionally at all that glitters.

For Libra: Acquaintances are in the mood for adventure, pleasure and entertainment. Be sure your pocketbook can stand the pace before you join them. Interesting people may be met at this time, some of whom could be very unusual and intriguing. Be sure friends cultivated now are not a financial liability in any way, that is, don't mix the two. Make sure those contacted see you in the best light. Don't be frivolous.

For Scorpio: Seek joy and pleasure from your career. Mind the social angle and observe all the standard courtesies today. Women, superiors and the public at large may be a bit difficult for you to comprehend and cope with in any direct manner. Try accenting devotion to duty or loved ones, and follow the cue of those at the top. Some unexpected and interesting things may come to light or be experienced.

For Sagittarius: The trend of events favors you, particularly if plans and arrangements must be made or revised. Keep faith with yourself and avoid any subtle temptations which might get you off on any unhealthy tangents. If your eye is on the long range view it will be easier to benefit by what this day brings to pass in the way of opportunities and new contacts. Travel possible.

For Capricorn: It might be wise to conserve your vitality this day and evening, and devote yourself to some form of recreation which enables you to get the most rest. This should be a period of rejuvenation, not dissipation, and the latter would be the case if friends had their way, so curtail social life where possible or you will find resources sadly depleted by the morrow. Put your heart into self-improvement.

For Aquarius: Partners and others are in the mood for change and recreation along lines which might interfere with some angle of career or occupational interests. Watch this: otherwise getting together with other people can be very enjoyable and enlightening this day and evening. Consider the alliances of the moment temporary, but don't discount the possibility of them becoming permanent.

For Pisces: Here is a day for working along lines which permit some enjoyment and recreation. Employ your creative and executive talents to help others. Grasp any opportunity to render service, but don't tangle in anyone's romantic affairs or intrigues. Let your social plans depend upon the demands of your job and the state of your health. Forego travel for pleasure at the moment unless the way is very clear.

same with Mr. B's (Fig. 7) chart in regard to his Equilibrium VIII and all its planets.

(c) Using the foregoing in the natal chart. Let us imagine twelve Mr. A's, all born on the same day, one with each sign rising and each with the Moon-Jupiter opposition in different houses. Everything in (a) and (b) would apply equally to all of them, but the application according to birth houses would differ in each of their twelve lives, for the natal chart, or birth horoscope, is the chart of application in the world of human affairs. Everything in steps (a) and (b) is analysis of astrological influences in the realm of the zodiac, not of this Earth, and therefore closer to the sphere of causation and nearer the answer to the question "Why?" When influences get down into the horoscope of birth, with its Earth-made houses of different arcs, they become the answer to the question "How?"

By using (c) alone we can never explain why A's and B's identical aspect (even when in the identical birth horoscope houses) have different qualities in them. But the moment we use (a) and (b), which work within the character and behind the scenes of the birth horoscope, we can perceive and measure very accurately just what they mean and are likely to produce in the life.

Apply this method at once to your own aspects. I can almost guarantee to you that it will produce much in the nature of revelation concerning points that have hitherto been obscure. Next month we'll interpret some famous cases with the method here set forth.

lative horoscope, rectified by the Clancy method, is not in accord with others of Grant which have been published; those that I have seen show  $6\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$  Taurus on the ascendant, with Saturn consequently above it (see NOT-ABLE NATIVITIES, No. 237). I can still repeat that I have never knowingly seen a living person, or the correct horoscope of one, who was born with the body of Saturn within  $5^{\circ}$  of the eastern horizon and below it.

This isn't "the arrogance of a closed mind"; it is simple fact. My mind isn't closed on the subject—if it were I would have said no one could be so born. If I ever do see such a person or the horoscope of one, with all facts of the birth time and place properly substantiated, I shall gladly announce the matter. What I want are facts, not theories, speculations, vague methods.

To the end of clarifying the matter, I suggest that a definite test be made. Such test would be the calculation of the time when

Saturn was to be in the stated position every day for a rather prolonged period, in some large city where many births take place daily. Let this period be a month, or, better still, six months; and have a competent examiner go over all the hospital records that can be proven accurate and see how many living and dead births occur within that specified period each day. And while that is being done, it would be a good idea to do the same with Saturn within  $5^{\circ}$  and above the western horizon, the opposite position. I have no record of such a living birth either.

As usual, the beginning of astrological fact finding is the authentication of the exact moment of birth. Let's all make perfect records of time and place for all births of which we know the accurate facts, for the benefit of astrology's students who will follow us—that they may have the benefit of better data than that with which we are forced to work.

need. In most cases the pattern of our deficiencies is so complicated that a complete perfection of a strength pattern in another is almost impossible to find, to say nothing of locating in that person the exact deficiency pattern which will be matched by our own strengths. For this reason we must seek greater understanding, greater tolerance and more willingness to make the best of what is available—usually present more abundantly than we know or appreciate.

Next month we shall go further into the marriage problems and their solutions which are to be read in the natal horoscope.

World Changes Coming

We may also expect during these thirteen years reforms and major changes in marriage and divorce laws. Needless to say, the necessity for renovation in these departments is recognized by every psychologist and sociologist. On this battle field will be fought out one of the greatest wars of the ages, a war between well-established tradition and the vital necessities of the hour.

In summarizing we may, therefore, assume the transit of Neptune through Libra will be a strenuous time, uncomfortable and even tragic for those who are short-sighted and set in their ways, but educational and gratifying to those of longer vision who are able to appreciate at least in part how the divine agencies are moulding the cosmos of tomorrow out of the chaos of today.

Weeds in Astrology's Field

he consults "Madame Alpha" or some "fortune teller" in a tea room. One of our leading columnists tried this in 1938, got a wrong lead and has been sour on astrology ever since. When people seek sensational astrology they can get it, but they take their chances. But reporters who publicize vauntings of questionable pretenders should realize they encourage charlatany.

Accredited astrologers, particularly many of the older ones who applied astrology in World War 1, understand the ethics of answering queries pertaining to the war in which our country is now actively engaged. Astrology should be used wisely and we know it is so applied by reputable exponents. We have several recent instances in which parents or close relatives of soldiers reported missing overseas have written to astrologers asking if they could advise regarding the whereabouts of soldier relatives or whether they were dead or alive. Responsible astrologers will frankly state that in times of war the individual chart becomes subservient to greater causes and that it is unethical for an astrologer at any time to venture a definite judgment of death.

The querent may not fare so well with "Madame Alpha," or "Professor Omega," because that gentry do not expect to be permanent fixtures and are not concerned with ethics, and they never hesitate to pick up the few easy shekels.

As recently very aptly stated, astrology must be legally reclassified, removed from the category of fortune telling and placed in the same status as other applied sciences, that organized scientific astrologers may see to it that the house is kept free of unscrupulous practices.

SELF-UNFOLDMENT
BY DISCIPLINES
OF REALIZATION

How to develop the inward perceptions that release and perfect your higher ideals, give you mastery over circumstance, enrich your daily living . . . The philosophy of disciplined thinking and feeling . . .

The theme of this book is that illumination is as natural as life itself. There can be no enlightened living without a realization of the reason for living. This reason can not be supplied by the intellect. Nor can it be discovered by the senses. The true reason for our existence can be found only through communion with the inner Self.

The purpose of the book is to develop awareness and thoughtfulness so that it becomes part of you. The disciplines are not to be practiced as a ritual, but as an inherent quality of yourself, until acceptance of them becomes as natural as the process of eating and digesting food.

The principal sources of the metaphysical doctrines are Oriental, adapted to our modern western life, which is more blunt, more obvious, less imaginative. They do not include the various forms of yoga, breathing exercises, and kundalini stimulation, for these are among the dangerous teachings and no more suited to the typical American business man than would be the introduction of high-pressure economics into India. The doctrines have also been supplemented with certain teachings of the philosophic schools of Plato and Pythagoras, which have not been lost and here are adapted to modern life to accomplish their original purpose—to release into manifestation the spiritual values within you.

Pick YOUR Astrologer

WHEN YOU NEED legal, educational advice and help, go to the top! Eventually you would be forced to anyway—and in the meantime you waste time, temper and money. No service is cheap if it is inferior; it's always costly in the end. It doesn't satisfy you. It doesn't give you the service you want; it leaves out things that are important to you; its reasoning and knowledge are poor. All this is doubly true of inferior horoscope services, of which, frankly, there are some offered at prices you can pay without thinking twice of the expense.

 Why did my girl friend and I always quarrel?
 Why does Miss B. seem to like me more than I like her?
 Why is it that Henry always does things for me and Sam never does?
 Why do I feel depressed whenever I'm with Helen?
 Why can't I love my step-daughter?
 Will this friend ever become anything more than that in my life?
 Will I be wise in investing with Mr. K.?

ALL questions are answered in Your Comparison Service

No work, no special knowledge required. Just look up data and read.

PEOPLE as individuals are one thing. People in contact with each other are something else. Think of someone you know—what a poor showing he makes with one certain friend, yet how brilliant and attractive he is when with another. Yet he's the same person in both cases, isn't he? The explanation is available: something happens to us when our horoscopes feel the horoscopes of others. And this mutual chemistry takes place every time we are in contact with people, although we may feel very different when we're alone.

You can look up everyone you ever knew and everyone you ever will know. You can use your Comparison Service right up to the last day of your life. You SHOULD use it every day you live.

Anyone born between 1870 and 1940 can be looked up in this Service. It is based, not on your Sun sign only, but on the individual positions of your nine planets. And on the individual positions of the planets in the chart of the person you are looking up, too. Use it for one person or a thousand; for anyone whose birth day and year you know.

There are certain people you can't very well avoid, to whom you are in duty bound—in-laws, for instance, relatives, children. But you can manage these everyday contacts better, if you know where the basic cause of friction lies. Look these persons up in your Service; then start out anew with better understanding.

Your Comparison Service is written in plain, definite terms. It leaves you nothing to do but refer to the correct pages. You do not need to know any astrology to make use of it.

Every young person about to face life should have this Service; why not ensure the progress and happiness of those near to you by giving it to them? You yourself should have had it long ago.
